Wicks Says Issue Not Same as 1934

By RICHARD P. HUNT

Albany, Jan. 19 (AP)—Gov. Harriman contends that Republican foes of quick legalizing of bingo are "totally inconsistent" with the GOP record on horse-race bets 20 years ago.

The Democratic governor said last night the Republicans had moved swiftly "for the race tracks" in clearing the way for parimutuel betting in 1934.

HE DECLARED that the Republicans today were opposed to immediate action to pull the teeth from anti-bingo laws in a similar way for "church and veterans' and civic groups."

Harriman's remarks were contained in the text of a speech prepared for delivery at the 36th annual legislative dinner of the New York Department of the American Legion.

He did not repeat them in his actual talk. But there was no indication that the governor was repudiating his text.

Harriman and the Democrats urge that criminal penalties be removed at once from anti-bingo laws as they affect religious, fraternal and veterans groups and that the constitution be amended later to remove all stigma from bingo sponsored by those groups.

THE REPUBLICAN majorities in the Legislature insist that the question be put before the people in a proposal to amend the constitution. The referendum could not be presented before November, 1957.

If approved by two separately elected Legislatures and the voters, the constitutional change would become effective Jan. 1, 1958, at the earliest.

Urging the Democratic plan, Harriman said, "The Republicans contend that we must wait until 1958 because this kind of law would be improper. In this the Republicans are totally inconsistent."

HE RECALLED that in 1934 a Republican-controlled Legislature had voted to remove criminal penalties from laws prohibiting bets on horse races. Later the constitution was changed to conform. The ban was continued on off-track betting, however.

"Who were some of these Republicans who were willing then to do for the race tracks what the Republicans today are against doing for the church and veterans' and civic groups?" he asked.

Harriman said Republicans in the Legislature at the time included Herbert Brownell, now U. S. attorney general, Leonard Hall, now chairman of the Republican national committee, Oswald D. Heck, now speaker of the Assembly, and Arthur H.

No Bail Is Allowed for Wife Slayer

Sheppard Seeks Appeal Release

Cleveland, Jan. 19 (AP)—An Appellate court today denied bail to convicted wife-slayer Sam Sheppard, whose father died last night, 11 days after his mother committed suicide.

The three judge court held that no person convicted of a crime punishable by life imprisonment is bailable under state laws. Sheppard, convicted of second degree murder, has been sentenced to a life term.

Judge Joy Seth Hurd, Julius M. Kovachy and Lee E. Skeel wrote today's ruling.

Sheppard's attorneys had asked that he be released on bail while his appeal is pending.

THE ATTORNEYS argued that the only life imprisonment crimes were those of first degree murder or treason. They contended that in all other cases, there was no such thing as life imprisonment, but rather indeterminate imprisonment.

The handsome osteopath's father, Dr. Richard A. Sheppard, 64, died last night at Bay View Hospital, the victim of a respiratory ailment.

Just a few days ago the younger Sheppard, who is appealing his conviction as a wife-murderer, had been returned to his regular four-by-eight foot cell. He had been under observation since Jan. 7, when his mother shot herself in the head.

JAILERS SAID Sheppard, 31, appeared to know something was wrong last night as soon as he was brought to the jail's visiting room and saw his two brothers, Dr. Richard N. and Dr. Stephen and their wives. It

Food, Medicines Will Be Dropped

London, Jan. 19 (AP)—Britain mobilized a fleet of some 30 helicopters and planes today to drop food and medicines in frozen northern Scotland. More snow was predicted for much of the British Isles and Europe, where blizzards, gales and floods have raged for more than a week.

At least 20 persons were known dead as a result of the week of snow, ice and flood — including 13 in Germany, 2 in France, at least 55 in Scotland and an unannounced number in Communist Poland.

THE AIRCRAFT CARRIER Glory steamed toward the northern coast of Scotland to act as a floating base for helicopters engaged in rescue missions over the snowbound counties of Caithness and Sutherland.

Future outlook of Electrol, Incorporated, 85 Grand street, manufacturer of airplane hydraulic units, was presented at a plant-sponsored gathering of employes and their families in Reade's Kingston Theatre last night.

Keynote of the meeting, which featured a film and other entertainment, a spokesman for management said was to "improve." And among reasons for calling it, he said, was the desire to allay rumors of more layoffs at the plant. Refreshments were served.

PLANT OFFICIALS, who spoke, carried through with the "improve" theme by stressing improvement of quality, skill and work in general. The speakers were Benjamin N. Ashton, president; Edwin H. Schmitz, execu-

200 Red Planes Attack Tachens

Taipeh, Formosa, Jan. 19 (AP)—More than 200 Communist warplanes unleashed the heaviest air attack of the Chinese Civil War against the Nationalists' Tachen Islands today in a likely prelude to invasion.

Eight miles to the north, said the Nationalist defense ministry, guerrillas "fighting in pools of blood" were still resisting on battered Yikiangshan, invaded by the Reds yesterday. It was believed here, however, that only isolated groups were still fighting and that Red conquest of the 3½ square mile island was nearly complete.

More than 200 Soviet-built warplanes roared out from the Red mainland and hammered the Tachen Islands. It was taken for granted here that the offshore islands, 200 miles north of Formosa, would be next on the Communist timetable.

Actual invasion may not come until the Tachens have been softened up from the air. The islands are reported to be well fortified and strongly manned, and having terrain that makes them almost ideal for defensive warfare.

The statement by U. S. Secretary of State Dulles that the United States would offer no objection to the United Nations seeking a cease fire in the civil war caused a real sensation here.

Police Rescue Girl From Water

Valhalla, Jan. 19 (AP)—Police rescued a teen-age girl from the frigid waters of Kensico reservoir but they were unable to find any trace of a boy who they said jumped in to save her.

A search for the youth, identified by police as Joseph De Grazia, 18, of Pleasantville, was given up shortly after midnight, to be resumed today.

Police were summoned to the scene last night by a friend who had driven the two to the reservoir. Police arrived to find the girl, Patricia Maxwell, 17, also of Pleasantville, struggling to reach shallow water at the edge of the reservoir.

SHE WAS TAKEN to Grasslands Hospital where she was reported in serious condition from shock and exposure.

Police said Patricia, the De Grazia youth and Jerry Latino of Hawthorne had gone to the reservoir. They said Latino later told them this story:

The girl left the car, supposedly to throw a ring into the water. When she did not return, De Grazia got out of the car to look for her. Latino then heard a splash. He ran to the edge of the dam and heard De Grazia call for help. He then summoned police.

LATINO TOLD POLICE that, while the group was driving around, the girl said she had an engagement ring from a former fiance that she wanted to throw in the lake.

He said he stopped the car to permit her to do so. However, when she failed to return within about a half hour, De Grazia went to look for her, Latino said.

Early morning grappling operations at the reservoir produced no immediate trace of De Grazia's body.

Action On Reds Is Hope

President T News Conference

Washington, Jan. 19 (AP)—President Eisenhower said today he would like to see the UN try to arrange a cease fire between the Chinese Nationalists and Red China's attacking forces.

The President told a news conference that he does not know whether the UN would be able to do anything about halting the shooting, but he said he would like to see it use its good offices to seek a cease fire.

The President's remarks came atop a statement yesterday by Secretary of State Dulles that the United States would offer no objections to the United Nations' seeking a cease fire. Dulles' statement created a sensation in Formosa, stronghold of the Chinese Nationalists.

AP CORRESPONDENT Spencer Moosa at Taipeh reported that qualified sources indicated the Chinese Nationalists would reject such an idea.

A cease fire in effect would end Chinese Nationalist hopes of ever returning to the mainland.

Eisenhower also told his news conference that Dag Hammarskjold's mission to Peiping in an effort to win release of 11 imprisoned American airmen cannot be regarded as a failure so long as negotiations are continuing.

Senate Republican leader Knowland (Calif.) has termed the Hammarskjold mission a failure.

While Eisenhower did not go along with Knowland on that, he said emphatically that efforts seeking the release of the airmen imprisoned as "spies" never can be termed a success until the fliers have been returned to their homeland.

FOR THE FIRST time in history, television and newsreel sound cameras were permitted to record the news conference for possible later public showing. White House aides will check first, however, to determine what is to be released.

The session drew 216 newsmen and Eisenhower noted with a smile at the outset that the cameras were on hand.

The President was in a chocolate brown suit with a white shirt and brown figured tie.

The questions covered a wide range of topics:

APPRAISAL—Responding to a request for an appraisal of his first two years in office, the President said the international situation looks better than it did when he was inaugurated two years ago tomorrow. But he added he would not go so far as to say the picture is rosy. As for the domestic situation, the Chief Executive summed it up by saying the economic outlook is good.

4 Convicts Hold To 'Break' Bid; Tank Moves In

CHAPLAIN ASSURES WOMAN—The Rev. Edward Hartigan, Catholic chaplain, assures Mrs. Martin S. Mulkern, wife of a state prison guard held hostage in Boston, Tuesday, that her husband is safe although still in the hands of the prison rioters. The priest was allowed to enter solitary confinement cell-block to hear confessions of four of the five guards. Four hardened inmates are holding the hostages in a desperate breakout attempt. (AP Wirephoto)

Prisoners, Guards Are Captives

Warden to Make No Bargains

Boston, Jan. 19 (AP)—Four desperate convicts, holding five guards as hostages in an isolated cell block at Massachusetts ancient state prison, in a make-or-break bid for freedom, showed no sign of backing down today as the siege moved well into the second day.

Authorities brough a National Guard M-41 tank with 3-inch gun from Ft. Devens, Mass., to the prison for possible use "if things start humming," as State Public Safety Commissioner Otis M. Whitney put it.

Besides the five guards, the four rebels, armed with at least two pistols, also are holding six other convicts as hostages—making a total of 15 men in the cell block. Prison officials say they have no idea how they obtained the weapons.

YESTERDAY the rebels released 13 other prisoners from the cell block.

In midmorning, Deputy Warden Perley S. Vance said the rebels had agreed to let food be brought in to the guards. Shortly afterward hot meals were carried in.

The Rev. Edward F. Hartigan, the prison's 35-year-old Catholic chaplain, and Dr. Samuel Merlin, prison doctor, stood by to make certain none of the food went to the rebels.

"If the prisoners have even one bite of the food sent in," Warden John H. O'Brien said, "no more food will be permitted in that section."

VANCE SAID the rebels made the offer to admit food to Chaplain Hartigan when he visited them about 8 a. m. He said they offered to permit someone to stand by to make sure the meals went only to the guards.

The meal included chicken soup, eggs, toast and coffee. The clergymen reported none of the food went to any prisoner.

Medicine also was sent in for guard Eugene Wills, 40, the oldest of the five guards, whom Dr. Merlin treated yesterday for a virus infection. Deputy Vance reported Wills "seemed much improvd" today. He also has a heart ailment.

Warden O'Brien told newsmen that "definitely the next move is the rebellious prisoners'." "He repeated that there would be "no bargains, no deals."

"I just want those five officers. The prisoners know what faces them for their actions."

THE WARDEN, who got a little sleep during an overnight lull, said he had no present plans to go in and talk to the prisoners. He explained he has already made his position clear and has nothing to offer them. Deputy Vance said Fr. Martigan tried again to reason with the rebels but his appeal was ignored. He quoted the priest:

"Apparently they're not quarreling amongst each other. The tension is not yet completely, outwardly obvious."

Queried about the National Guard tank ordered by Commissioner Whitney, Warden O'Brien said he could not see no reason for "any display of force right now" and said he would not permit it inside the prison walls "at this time."

Texas Woman Killed By Bomb in Her Auto

San Angelo, Tex., Jan. 19 (AP)—Mrs. Harry A. Weaver, prominent San Angelo woman and wife of a well-known Texas architect, was killed today when an explosion blasted a car apart.

Police said they believed the explosion was caused by a nitroglycerine bomb.

Police said the car, a late-model Chevrolet, belonged to her husband. They found another bomb on a Cadillac belonging to Mrs. Weaver parked near the demolished car.

THE BLAST OCCURRED in downtown San Angelo in front of the home of Mrs. Weaver's parents. It happened about 8:30 a. m.

Mrs. Weaver, 52, died five minutes after being admitted to a hospital.

Her husband is a widely known architect, archeologist and paleontologist.

Mrs. Weaver was the daughter of Mrs. Ralph Harris and the late Ralph Harris of San Angelo, a pioneer San Angelo rancher and banker.

MRS. WEAVER also is survived by two daughters.

Police said the explosion occurred in front of the Ralph Harris home, a San Angelo landmark, apparently as she got into the car. She was alone.

The Cadillac also was parked in front of the Harris home. It wasn't known immediately where her husband was at the time.

Police said they knew of no motive for the apparent bombing.

Det. Lee Braziel said he believed the fatal explosion was caused by a nitroglycerine bomb.

Publisher Dies

Ontario, Jan. 19 (AP)—Funeral services are being conducted today for William H. Vaughan, 83, former publisher of the Wayne County Mail. Vaughan died Monday. He was a native of Niagara county. He published The Mail in this Wayne county village from 1903 to 1945 when he retired.

Fire Coverage Is Not Settled By Ulster's Vols

Two-way radio and responsibility for fire companies answering calls on the New York State Thruway were two of the matters discussed at the January meeting of the Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's Association last evening at city hall.

After a lengthy discussion the matter of Thruway responsibility remained unsolved and until some definite plan is put into effect fire companies will not respond to a fire involving Thruway use unless some definite responsibility is assumed by a person duly authorized to act on behalf of the Authority. It was stated that the matter is under advisement and legislation may be necessary to place the entire state under a regulation which will cover all companies answering calls on the Thruway.

B. R. TOWNSEND, chief of the Bureau of Safety of the State of New York, was present at the meeting and discussed the matter of Thruway responsibility and answered questions from members. Also present at the meeting were F. W. Crowley of Elmira, field representative of the Bureau of Safety, and also William Marx, field representative from the Division of Safety

Woman Dies; Four Days In Stalled Plane in West

St. John's, Ariz., Jan. 19 (AP)—A young woman who lay for four days paralyzed from the waist down in the snow-covered wreckage of a light plane died en route to a hospital early today.

"There was still a spark of life left," when searchers found Melba Tomlinson, 22, of Denver, Sheriff Erant Hamblin of St. John's said. But she was pronounced dead on arrival after being rushed to a hospital here.

She was found a few hours after William C. Wilson, 33, Denver attorney, staggered in to an Arizona ranch on frost bitten feet and with a fractured ankle. He said Miss Tomlinson, his secretary, was paralyzed and near death in the wreckage.

DEPUTY SHERIFF Lester Platt said Wilson told him Miss Tomlinson was piloting the plane when it crashed in an attempted emergency landing.

The plane ran into a snowstorm and started icing up, Wilson said.

Miss Tomlinson tried to land on a flat, treeless area but hit the ground at a 45-degree angle with the nose down, Wilson said. The engine was driven back into the cabin.

A PARTY headed by Sheriff Hamblin and Arizona Patrolman R. E. Panell found the young woman lying in the snow beside the Stinson Voyager shortly after midnight.

Wilson and his secretary had been on a flight from Santa Fe, N. M., to Winslow, Ariz.

Wilson, resting in a St. John's hospital, said they had been in the plane since it stalled and crash-landed in a "flat area between mountains" on the New Mexico side of the line.

HE SAID BOTH had been knocked out when the plane struck the ground at an angle.

"We had only two blankets," he said. "I tried to make her comfortable."

Wilson said he had torn the plane's fabric to try to keep warm. He said they had no matches, food or water. They spent three days in the plane before he started for help yesterday morning.

The area—wild, rugged country—is covered with about 12 inches of snow. The CAA said the temperature in the area was about three below zero.

Termination of Express Offices Is Permitted at Accord and High Falls

Upon determinations that Railway Express Agency, Inc., has "no reasonable prospect of traffic sufficient to meet operating expenses" at its offices in Accord and High Falls, Ulster county, and that continuation of the unprofitable offices "would not be in the public interest," the Public Service Commission at Albany today authorized termination of service at both points.

The company had planned to discontinue its High Falls and Accord agencies in September but was prevented from so doing when the PSC, after receipt of complaints, suspended the proposal and ordered a public hearing thereon.

At that hearing, presided over by Examiner Morris A. Goldfarb, company officials testified that New York, Ontario and Western Railroad was to discontinue its express car as of last month because of inadequate revenues. It was further stated that express shipments to and from the two stations must travel a circuitous route which adds about 150 miles to shipping distances with consequent delays of deliveries because of the railroad's practice of routing Accord and High Falls express shipments via Weehawken, N. J.

It was also testified that during the three years ended last September 30, the average revenue per shipment to the two stations was $3.59 as compared with an average local handling cost of $3.41 thereby leaving only 18 cents to defray all other company costs involved in such shipments.

Various local merchants appeared in opposition to the company proposal, claiming a need for continued express service to the two communities.

In his report to the Commission, Examiner Goldfarb states: "Undoubtedly, the closing of the offices will result in some inconvenience is not sufficient warrant for disregarding the facts of economic life. The existence of one or two sizeable shippers does not of itself justify the maintenance

Tax Bill on Real Estate Higher in Nation for 1954

New York, Jan. 19 (AP)—If that real estate tax bill hit you a little harder last year, so did it just about everybody else in the country.

Any way you look at it, the old tax rate went up.

The conclusion is that of the Citizens Research Council of Michigan, as published in the National Municipal Review, organ of the National Municipal League.

Based on figures submitted by just about all the 409 U. S. cities with populations of more than 30,000, the council found:

1. The average actual dollar tax rate last year was $50.93 per $1,000 of assessed valuation, up $4.81 over 1953 and 30.7 per cent over 1945.

2. Average assessed valuations dropped slightly in 1954 to 315 million dollars, still the second highest figure in history and 40 per cent above 1945.

3. The average adjusted tax rate, a yardstick that balances out varying ratios of assessed to actual market values, rose 77 cents last year to $20.88. Though only slight, the increase was the first reversal of a downward trend that began in 1950. The 1954 average was still 30.5 per cent below 1945's $27.25.

4. Exempt property reported

The President's remarks came atop a statement yesterday by Secretary of State Dulles that the United States would offer no objections to the United Nations' seeking a cease fire. Dulles' statement created a sensation in Formosa, stronghold of the Chinese Nationalists.

AP CORRESPONDENT Spencer Moosa at Taipeh reported that qualified sources indicated the Chinese Nationalists would reject such an idea.

A cease fire in effect would end Chinese Nationalist hopes of ever returning to the mainland.

Eisenhower also told his news conference that Dag Hammarskjold's mission to Peiping in an effort to win release of 11 imprisoned American airmen cannot be regarded as a failure so long as negotiations are continuing.

Senate Republican leader Knowland (Calif.) has termed the Hammarskjold mission a failure.

While Eisenhower did not go along with Knowland on that, he said emphatically that efforts seeking the release of the airmen imprisoned as "spies" never can be termed a success until the fliers have been returned to their homeland.

FOR THE FIRST time in history, television and newsreel sound cameras were permitted to record the news conference for possible later public showing. White House aides will check first, however, to determine what is to be released.

The session drew 216 newsmen and Eisenhower noted with a smile at the outset that the cameras were on hand.

The President was in a chocolate brown suit with a white shirt and brown figured tie.

The questions covered a wide range of topics:

APPRAISAL — Responding to a request for an appraisal of his first two years in office, the President said the international situation looks better than it did when he was inaugurated two years ago tomorrow. But he added he would not go so far as to say the picture is rosy. As for the domestic situation, the Chief Executive summed it up by saying the economic outlook is good.

4 Convicts Hold To 'Break' Bid; Tank Moves In

CHAPLAIN ASSURES WOMAN—The Rev. Edward Hartigan, Catholic chaplain, assures Mrs. Martin S. Mulkern, wife of a state prison guard held hostage in Boston, Tuesday, that her husband is safe although still in the hands of the prison rioters. The priest was allowed to enter solitary confinement cell-block to hear confessions of four of the five guards. Four hardened inmates are holding the hostages in a desperate breakout attempt. Prisoners, Guards Are Captives

Warden to Make No Bargains

Boston, Jan. 19 (AP)—Four desperate convicts, holding five guards as hostages in an isolated cell block at Massachusetts ancient state prison, in a make-or-break bid for freedom, showed no sign of backing down today as the siege moved well into the second day.

Authorities brough a National Guard M-41 tank with 3-inch gun from Ft. Devens, Mass., to the prison for possible use "if things start humming," as State Public Safety Commissioner Otis M. Whitney put it.

Besides the five guards, the four rebels, armed with at least two pistols, also are holding six other convicts as hostages—making a total of 15 men in the cell block. Prison officials say they have no idea how they obtained the weapons.

YESTERDAY the rebels released 13 other prisoners from the cell block.

In midmorning, Deputy Warden Perley S. Vance said the rebels had agreed to let food be brought in to the guards. Shortly afterward hot meals were carried in.

The Rev. Edward F. Hartigan, the prison's 35-year-old Catholic chaplain, and Dr. Samuel Merlin, prison doctor, stood by to make certain none of the food went to the rebels.

"If the prisoners have even one bite of the food sent in," Warden John H. O'Brien said, "no more food will be permitted in that section."

VANCE SAID the rebels made the offer to admit food to Chaplain Hartigan when he visited them about 8 a. m. He said they offered to permit someone to stand by to make sure the meals went only to the guards.

The meal included chicken soup, eggs, toast and coffee. The clergymen reported none of the food went to any prisoner.

Medicine also was sent in for guard Eugene Wills, 40, the oldest of the five guards, whom Dr. Merlin treated yesterday for a virus infection. Deputy Vance reported Wills "seemed much improvd" today. He also has a heart ailment.

Warden O'Brien told newsmen that "definitely the next move is the rebellious prisoners'." "He repeated that there would be "no bargains, no deals."

"I just want those five officers. The prisoners know what faces them for their actions."

THE WARDEN, who got a little sleep during an overnight lull, said he had no present plans to go in and talk to the prisoners. He explained he has already made his position clear and has nothing to offer them. Deputy Vance said Fr. Martigan tried again to reason with the rebels but his appeal was ignored. He quoted the priest:

"Apparently they're not quarreling amongst each other. The tension is not yet completely, outwardly obvious."

Queried about the National Guard tank ordered by Commissioner Whitney, Warden O'Brien said he could not see no reason for "any display of force right now" and said he would not permit it inside the prison walls "at this time."

Treasury Receipts

Washington, Jan. 19 (AP)—The cash position of the treasury Jan. 14, 1955: Balance, $3,512,650,-641.13; deposits fiscal year July 1, $27,396,266,022.89; withdrawals fiscal year, $36,993,941,358.89; total debt, $278,511,821,577.05x; gold assets, $21,713,781,636.84; x—includes $516,568,489.47 debt not subject to statutory limit.

Texas Woman Killed By Bomb in Her Auto

San Angelo, Tex., Jan. 19 (AP)—Mrs. Harry A. Weaver, prominent San Angelo woman and wife of a well-known Texas architect, was killed today when an explosion blasted a car apart.

Police said they believed the explosion was caused by a nitroglycerine bomb.

Police said the car, a late-model Chevrolet, belonged to her husband. They found another bomb on a Cadillac belonging to Mrs. Weaver parked near the demolished car.

THE BLAST OCCURRED in downtown San Angelo in front of the home of Mrs. Weaver's parents. It happened about 8:30 a. m.

Mrs. Weaver, 52, died five minutes after being admitted to a hospital.

Her husband is a widely known architect, archeologist and paleontologist.

Mrs. Weaver was the daughter of Mrs. Ralph Harris and the late Ralph Harris of San Angelo, a pioneer San Angelo rancher and banker.

MRS. WEAVER also is survived by two daughters.

Police said the explosion occurred in front of the Ralph Harris home, a San Angelo landmark, apparently as she got into the car. She was alone.

The Cadillac also was parked in front of the Harris home. It wasn't known immediately where her husband was at the time.

Police said they knew of no motive for the apparent bombing.

Det. Lee Braziel said he believed the fatal explosion was caused by a nitroglycerine bomb.

Publisher Dies

Ontario, Jan. 19 (AP)—Funeral services are being conducted today for William H. Vaughan, 83, former publisher of the Wayne County Mail. Vaughan died Monday. He was a native of Niagara county. He published The Mail in this Wayne county village from 1903 to 1945 when he retired.

Fire Coverage Is Not Settled By Ulster's Vols

Two-way radio and responsibility for fire companies answering calls on the New York State Thruway were two of the matters discussed at the January meeting of the Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's Association last evening at city hall.

After a lengthy discussion the matter of Thruway responsibility remained unsolved and until some definite plan is put into effect fire companies will not respond to a fire involving Thruway use unless some definite responsibility is assumed by a person duly authorized to act on behalf of the Authority. It was stated that the matter is under advisement and legislation may be necessary to place the entire state under a regulation which will cover all companies answering calls on the Thruway.

B. R. TOWNSEND, chief of the Bureau of Safety of the State of New York, was present at the meeting and discussed the matter of Thruway responsibility and answered questions from members. Also present at the meeting were F. W. Crowley of Elmira, field representative of the Bureau of Safety, and also William Marx, field representative from the Division of Safety

Woman Dies; Four Days In Stalled Plane in West

St. John's, Ariz., Jan. 19 (AP)—A young woman who lay for four days paralyzed from the waist down in the snow-covered wreckage of a light plane died en route to a hospital early today.

"There was still a spark of life left," when searchers found Melba Tomlinson, 22, of Denver, Sheriff Erant Hamblin of St. John's said. But she was pronounced dead on arrival after being rushed to a hospital here.

She was found a few hours after William C. Wilson, 33, Denver attorney, staggered in to an Arizona ranch on frost bitten feet and with a fractured ankle. He said Miss Tomlinson, his secretary, was paralyzed and near death in the wreckage.

DEPUTY SHERIFF Lester Platt said Wilson told him Miss Tomlinson was piloting the plane when it crashed in an attempted emergency landing.

The plane ran into a snowstorm and started icing up, Wilson said.

Miss Tomlinson tried to land on a flat, treeless area but hit the ground at a 45-degree angle with the nose down, Wilson said. The engine was driven back into the cabin.

A PARTY headed by Sheriff Hamblin and Arizona Patrolman R. E. Panell found the young woman lying in the snow beside the Stinson Voyager shortly after midnight.

Wilson and his secretary had been on a flight from Santa Fe, N. M., to Winslow, Ariz.

Wilson, resting in a St. John's hospital, said they had been in the plane since it stalled and crash-landed in a "flat area between mountains" on the New Mexico side of the line.

HE SAID BOTH had been knocked out when the plane struck the ground at an angle.

"We had only two blankets," he said. "I tried to make her comfortable."

Wilson said he had torn the plane's fabric to try to keep warm. He said they had no matches, food or water. They spent three days in the plane before he started for help yesterday morning.

The area—wild, rugged country—is covered with about 12 inches of snow. The CAA said the temperature in the area was about three below zero.

Termination of Express Offices Is Permitted at Accord and High Falls

Upon determinations that Railway Express Agency, Inc., has "no reasonable prospect of traffic sufficient to meet operating expenses" at its offices in Accord and High Falls, Ulster county, and that continuation of the unprofitable offices "would not be in the public interest," the Public Service Commission at Albany today authorized termination of service at both points.

The company had planned to discontinue its High Falls and Accord agencies in September but was prevented from so doing when the PSC, after receip. of complaints, suspended the proposal and ordered a public hearing thereon.

At that hearing, presided over by Examiner Morris A. Goldfarb, company officials testified that New York, Ontario and Western Railroad was to discontinue its express car as of last month because of inadequate revenues. It was further stated that express shipments to and from the two stations must travel a circuitous route which adds about 150 miles to shipping distances with consequent delays of deliveries because of the railroad's practice of routing Accord and High Falls express shipments via Weehawken, N. J.

It was also testified that during the three years ended last September 30, the average revenue per shipment to the two stations was $3.59 as compared with an average local handling cost of $3.41 thereby leaving only 18 cents to defray all other company costs involved in such shipments.

Various local merchants appeared in opposition to the company proposal, claiming a need for continued express service to the two communities.

In his report to the Commission, Examiner Goldfarb states: "Undoubtedly, the closing of the offices will result in some inconvenience is not sufficient warrant for disregarding the facts of economic life. The existence of one or two sizeable shippers does not of itself justify the maintenance

Tax Bill on Real Estate Higher in Nation for 1954

New York, Jan. 19 (AP)—If that real estate tax bill hit you a little harder last year, so did it just about everybody else in the country.

Any way you look at it, the old tax rate went up.

The conclusion is that of the Citizens Research Council of Michigan, as published in the National Municipal Review, organ of the National Municipal League.

Based on figures submitted by just about all the 409 U. S. cities with populations of more than 30,000, the council found:

1. The average actual dollar tax rate last year was $50.93 per $1,000 of assessed valuation, up $4.81 over 1953 and 30.7 per cent over 1945.

2. Average assessed valuations dropped slightly in 1954 to 315 million dollars, still the second highest figure in history and 40 per cent above 1945.

3. The average adjusted tax rate, a yardstick that balances out varying ratios of assessed to actual market values, rose 77 cents last year to $20.88. Though only slight, the increase was the first reversal of a downward trend that began in 1950. The 1954 average was still 30.5 per cent below 1945's $27.25.

4. Exempt property reported

Two Legislators Call for N. Y. to Plow, Sand Hills

Senator Arthur H. Wicks of this city and Assemblyman Edwyn E. Mason, of Hobart, Delaware county, have introduced bills in the New York State Legislature which would compel the city of New York to remove snow and sand hills on its own highways which traverse its various water supply reservoirs in Ulster, Delaware and Sullivan counties.

These bills, if passed and approved by the governor, will transfer from the counties and towns to the city of New York the responsibility for removing snow on the highways which the city has built around the Ashokan, Merriman, Neversink and Pepacton Reservoirs.

THE PRESENT LAW (called the Administrative Code of the City of New York) provides that "The city is hereby required to build and construct such highways and bridges as may be made necessary by the construction of any reservoir * * *, and to repair and forever maintain such additional highways and bridges, except such as shall be part of any state route * * *."

The city of New York has always claimed that the word "maintain" does not mean removing snow from the roads it has built around these reservoirs, nor sanding the hills thereon. Therefore, for the safety and convenience of the traveling public, these services have been performed by counties or towns, which, at local expense, have removed the snow from these highways which are owned by the city of New York, were built by the city of New York, and are otherwise maintained by the city of New York.

SENATOR WICKS and Assemblyman Mason believe it was the intent of the Legislature when the original law was passed to include snow removal and sanding in the meaning of the word "maintain." They claim the word "maintain" means to keep in such condition as to be safe for the traveling public, and this must necessarily include snow removal and sanding. The two legislators also believe that it is the responsibility of the city of New York to remove the snow from its own highways and that the cost of such service should not be passed over to the taxpayers of the areas where the city's reservoirs are located.

TO GET SOME NEW LINKS—New roads for free-wheeling America take the spotlight as President Eisenhower asks Congress to approve his vast $101,000,000,000, ten-year roadbuilding program. Map shows the toll road situation at present. There are a few other existing and projected toll roads in the western part of the country, but they are comparatively small ones. Most ambitious project west of the Mississippi is Oklahoma's proposal for an interstate compact between Texas, Missouri, Kansas and Oklahoma for a series of interlocking turnpikes from Houston to Kansas City and St. Louis. There are in service today 840 miles of toll highways and parkways, with 1081 miles under construction. The Eisenhower highway program for the nation calls for a modern interstate network. The federal government will pay about 30 per cent of the cost, with states, cities, counties and other agencies paying 70 per cent.

Onteora School News in Brief

PHOENICIA ROTARY CLUB will pay the expenses to Albany for one member of the adult Americanization class in attendance at the local school. This was announced by Frank Platz, Rotary president. The adult Americanization project will be conducted Jan. 23 and 24 under the auspices of the New York State Department of Education and members of the various classes will make a two-day pilgrimage to Albany to visit Gov. Harriman and the state legislature in action.

THE POLIO FUND was increased by $110 through the cooperation of the music department at the school. The band concert and amateur night program was well attended by a crowd of about 400 persons. The program was under the direction of Harry Simon, instrumental teacher and was organized by Harry Allen, who is chairman of the March of Dimes committee for the town of Shandaken.

SPEAKING TONIGHT at the law class for laymen will be District Attorney Howard C. St. John, who will discuss all aspects of criminal law. Martin J. Rubin, Phoenicia attorney, spoke to the Onteora law class Jan. 12.

REGISTRATION NIGHT for the spring session of adult education will be held Thursday night, Feb. 3. It will not be necessary for adults who have already registered for the spring classes to attend this meeting. Two Legislators Call for N. Y. to Plow, Sand Hills

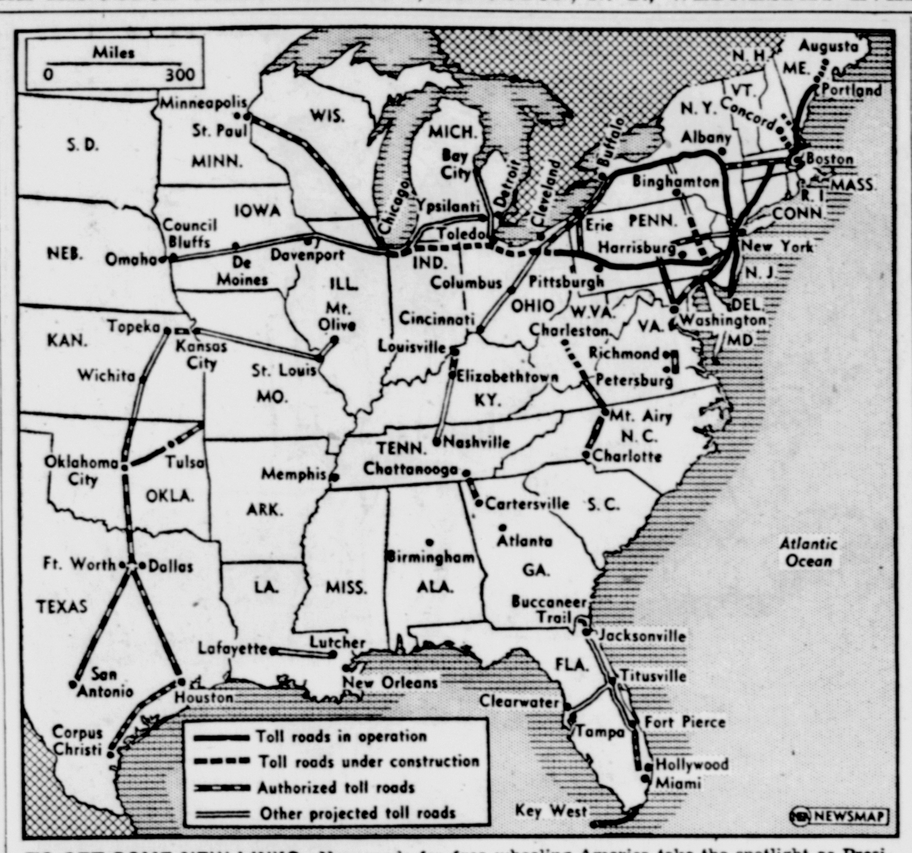
Senator Arthur H. Wicks of this city and Assemblyman Edwyn E. Mason, of Hobart, Delaware county, have introduced bills in the New York State Legislature which would compel the city of New York to remove snow and sand hills on its own highways which traverse its various water supply reservoirs in Ulster, Delaware and Sullivan counties.

These bills, if passed and approved by the governor, will transfer from the counties and towns to the city of New York the responsibility for removing snow on the highways which the city has built around the Ashokan, Merriman, Neversink and Pepacton Reservoirs.

THE PRESENT LAW (called the Administrative Code of the City of New York) provides that "The city is hereby required to build and construct such highways and bridges as may be made necessary by the construction of any reservoir * * *, and to repair and forever maintain such additional highways and bridges, except such as shall be part of any state route * * *."

The city of New York has always claimed that the word "maintain" does not mean removing snow from the roads it has built around these reservoirs, nor sanding the hills thereon. Therefore, for the safety and convenience of the traveling public, these services have been performed by counties or towns, which, at local expense, have removed the snow from these highways which are owned by the city of New York, were built by the city of New York, and are otherwise maintained by the city of New York.

SENATOR WICKS and Assemblyman Mason believe it was the intent of the Legislature when the original law was passed to include snow removal and sanding in the meaning of the word "maintain." They claim the word "maintain" means to keep in such condition as to be safe for the traveling public, and this must necessarily include snow removal and sanding. The two legislators also believe that it is the responsibility of the city of New York to remove the snow from its own highways and that the cost of such service should not be passed over to the taxpayers of the areas where the city's reservoirs are located.



TO GET SOME NEW LINKS—New roads for free-wheeling America take the spotlight as President Eisenhower asks Congress to approve his vast $101,000,000,000, ten-year roadbuilding program. Map shows the toll road situation at present. There are a few other existing and projected toll roads in the western part of the country, but they are comparatively small ones. Most ambitious project west of the Mississippi is Oklahoma's proposal for an interstate compact between Texas, Missouri, Kansas and Oklahoma for a series of interlocking turnpikes from Houston to Kansas City and St. Louis. There are in service today 840 miles of toll highways and parkways, with 1081 miles under construction. The Eisenhower highway program for the nation calls for a modern interstate network. The federal government will pay about 30 per cent of the cost, with states, cities, counties and other agencies paying 70 per cent.

Onteora School News in Brief

PHOENICIA ROTARY CLUB will pay the expenses to Albany for one member of the adult Americanization class in attendance at the local school. This was announced by Frank Platz, Rotary president. The adult Americanization project will be conducted Jan. 23 and 24 under the auspices of the New York State Department of Education and members of the various classes will make a two-day pilgrimage to Albany to visit Gov. Harriman and the state legislature in action.

THE POLIO FUND was increased by $110 through the cooperation of the music department at the school. The band concert and amateur night program was well attended by a crowd of about 400 persons. The program was under the direction of Harry Simon, instrumental teacher and was organized by Harry Allen, who is chairman of the March of Dimes committee for the town of Shandaken.

SPEAKING TONIGHT at the law class for laymen will be District Attorney Howard C. St. John, who will discuss all aspects of criminal law. Martin J. Rubin, Phoenicia attorney, spoke to the Onteora law class Jan. 12.

HEAVY TAX BURDEN

Residents of Ulster County will be called upon to pay $36,821,000 in direct and indirect Federal taxes if President Eisenhower's budget recommendations for 1955-56 are approved. This estimate of our burden of the national budget was released by the Empire State Chamber of Commerce.

Although the figure is only an approximation, it is believed to be conservative since the total burden of the residents of the state as estimated by the Chamber's formula is several billion dollars less than the actual Federal tax collections in the state as reported by the Bureau of Internal Revenue.

The Empire State Chamber of Commerce makes these county-by-county estimates because Federal budget figures are so large as to be unreal even to the experts. By bringing the Federal budget estimates closer home, it is possible to better comprehend their enormous size. William A. Mills, executive vice president, indicates that the chamber feels that with the pressing needs for state and local expenditures on highways, education and hospitals, any tax savings at the Federal level will be particularly welcome.

When the cost of state and local government is added to the Federal amount, the local taxpayer is called upon to shoulder a heavy tax load.

ENGINEER SHORTAGE

Dr. Robert E. Wilson, chairman of the board of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, recently blamed the shortage of engineers in this country on our educational system, particularly on the high schools. He said that in high schools science is too often taught "by a teacher who spent two or three times as much time learning how to teach as what to teach."

Dr. Wilson may or may not be justified in his indictment of the educational system. It may be true that teaching of the sciences in our schools leaves something to be desired. Yet men with talent in the sciences can earn far more money in industry than they can by teaching. It should not be surprised that there is a shortage of able teachers.

Dr. Wilson also pointed out that Russia is at present training more new engineers than we are. This is a matter which should be of concern to all of us. We cannot force young people with scientific ability to elect engineering career. But we can encourage them to do so.

Industry has already interested itself in the schools sufficiently to point out to students the need for engineers and the advantages of such careers. Perhaps by stepping up this effort and by increasing the number of scholarships so that no potentially good engineers are denied a college education the shortage can be alleviated.

AIR ACADEMY STARTS

In July the first class at the United States Air Force Academy will begin studies at the temporary site of the academy, Lowry Air Force Base, Denver.

Standards for admittance will be high. Qualified young men can get information on the possibility of appointments by writing to their Senators and candidates. Some of the appointments have been set aside for the sons of Medal of Honor winners, sons of deceased veterans and other special cases.

The Academy will not be a flying school. Young men who complete the four year course will be awarded Bachelor of Science degrees besides their commissions. Liberal Arts studies as well as scientific courses will be part of the curriculum.

The permanent Air Force Academy will be located at the edge of the Rocky Mountains near Colorado Springs.

The Air Force will play an increasingly important role in the future of our defense system. It will need able, well-educated, well-trained young men as leaders. The Air Force Academy will be able to supply them. It will take its place with our other service academies and come to occupy the same sort of place in the affection and interest of the public.

Money is handy stuff. Except when it comes to trying to buy such truly essential things as happiness, peace of mind and good health.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

THERE IS NO END . . . !

The President's statement concerning Wolf Ladejinsky left me wobbly because at last it was disclosed that the Government of the United States has no system, no method, no procedure, no uniformity concerning security. What the President told the newsmen, in answer to their questions, was, in summary:

John Foster Dulles and Scott McLeod thought Ladejinsky was excellent for employment by the Government of the United States; Ezra Taft Benson, who four months earlier refused to release Ladejinsky to the FOA because he was too valuable to the Agriculture Department, now declared him to be a security risk on information which, to use the President's own words, scared the President; that Harold Stassen, having the same information that Mr. Dulles and Mr. Benson had, chose to employ Ladejinsky, after consultation with the White House, about which the President apparently did not know, because he was not a security risk and was suitable for sensitive employment.

Then President Eisenhower took the position that all these men were right because they were responsible, which seems rather illogical because under our Constitution, the President is responsible for the Executive Branch of the Governmen, ours not being a ministerial arrangement such as the British use. Heads of departments in the United States are handymen in the Executive entourage.

The question then arises: What becomes of Ladejinsky's reputation, his dignity as a human being, his fitness for employment? There was an awful howl when Senator Joe McCarthy raised the issue of Major Peress, an open Communist. But here is a man who is not even accused of being a Communist. Actually he stands accused of nothing. President Eisenhower ceased to be "scared" by Ladejinsky because he had heard that Ladejinsky had written an anti-Communist book. That may be so, but I can find no record of such a book. I am sure that what the President should have said was that Ladejinsky had had an anti-Communist career in the Far East, for so the State Department has indicated in its publicity on the case.

What it all points up is that there is no plan, no method, no adequate investigation, no over-all system—and men's reputations are at stake. The Government ought not to employ a single Communist, but does that mean that if a bureaucrat wants to get rid of a man, all he needs to do is to smear him with that tar brush?

I want to say here that I do not know Wolf Ladejinsky, have never met him, and have never seen a confidential government file on him. I did not know he existed before this controversy started. Therefore, I do not know whether such information as Ezra Taft Benson gave the President would scare me or whether the information that Scott McLeod and Harold Stassen possess would cause me to embrace him as a fellow anti-Communist. What I do know is that as I read the transcript of the President's press conference, I could see only confusion, lack of system, and an open door for Communists to walk into our government.

What is required quickly is a rule. The Department of Justice, assisted by J. Edgar Hoover, who apart from being head of the FBI knows the subject, ought to work out a system of security screening applicable to every department of government, leaving nothing to the judgment of bureaucrats, petty or great. Their judgment is often too whimsical and self-serving. Such a rule ought to be made public with clear definitions of terms and unmistakable methods of screening. There is no need for secrecy about the rule. If necessary, for enforcement, it should be passed by Congress.

In a word, the present chaos ought to be brought to an end. No independent commission of citizens is needed to devise a plan because precisely what would they know about it? Most citizens cannot distinguish between a Communist and a civil service reformer, between a Trotzkyist and a Single-Taxer. This is a technical subject that requires a technical approach.

Unless a system is just, it is not worth while. The whim of a bureaucrat caught in the pride of personal opinion may not be the pursuit of justice. It may be nothing but cocktail party conversation by frivolous people tearing down other men's lives. It may even be personal vengeance. This is not good enough for the United States.

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

ACUTE AND CHRONIC BRONCHITIS

Bronchitis — inflammation of the bronchial tubes which lead from the windpipe to the lungs —occurs mostly in cold, damp weather. It may occur in any age group but most often in the young and the elderly. The cause is usually an ordinary cold of the nose or throat which extends downward into these tubes.

The symptoms in an acute attack are chills, hoarseness, pressure in chest at the breastbone, weakness, pain in limbs, loss of appetite, slight rise in temperature, a cough which is rough and dry at first but which later becomes loose with profuse sputum.

These attacks usually last about two weeks and go through three stages. The first stage has a tight cough, tough sputum; the second has a loose cough with thick sputum, and in the third stage there is decrease in the cough and sputum.

So far as treatment is concerned, it is sometimes possible to prevent bronchitis going past the first stage by the use of hot baths, hot foot baths in which a tablespoon of mustard has been added, hot lemonade, rest in bed, mustard or other poultices on the chest.

If the symptoms persist: continue to rest in bed. Breathing in steam or steam from friar's balsam (a teaspoon to a quart of water) helps loosen the tight cough. Powders or tablets containing a quarter to one-third grain powdered ipecac also loosens coughs and prevent the violent efforts used to get up the sputum. In children, syrup of ipecac—teaspoonful doses—is used to bring up sputum when breathing becomes difficult.

The symptoms of chronic bronchitis are the same as those in acute bronchitis except that the sputum is always thick and very "sticky." The cough is worse in the mornings and evenings. The patient may get out of breath easily and "asthmatic" symptoms may be present.

Warmth is the most important element in treatment. It is wise to try to build up resistance against bronchitis by means of sunshine, fresh air, good food, plenty of rest. The symptoms may be helped by breathing steam, friar's balsam, and volatile oils such as menthol, santal, creosote, turpentine, camphor, which help ease the painful and difficult breathing.

Edson's Washington News Notebook

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington (NEA) — What President Eisenhower has asked for in his new foreign economic message to the Congress is, in effect, a recodification of all U. S. laws dealing with this subject.

These laws are today something of a hodgepodge. They were passed separately to meet limited situations. They did not have as their objective the creation of a complete and consistent foreign economic policy meeting today's world conditions.

In trying to bring order out of this confusion, the House Ways and Means Committee has a job almost as big as the one it tackled in the two years past. This was to recodify the tax laws. The last Congress did a commendable job on that.

There is as yet no move to put together an omnibus foreign economic policy code of laws, all wrapped up neatly in a single package. All the parts in the President's foreign economic program are so interrelated, however, that they must be considered together by the Congress.

WHAT THESE PARTS ARE was spelled out by the President in the first of his special messages to Congress.

This is by no means the extreme program which some of the opponents of a reciprocal trade agreements programs have made it out to be. It is a moderate approach. It will satisfy neither the believers in completely free trade nor those who believe only in high protective tariffs.

The group of business leaders under Clarence B. Randall, board chairman of Inland Steel, who shaped up and support the Eisenhower program, believe that few American producers will be hurt by it.

There is no provision for government aid to U. S. industries affected by lowered tariffs, which is opposed by the American Tariff League and its high-duty supporters.

BUT THE ESCAPE CLAUSE and peril point limitations would be retained in the President's program. Tariff cuts would be limited to 5 per cent a year for three years. Tariff rates now over 50 per cent could be cut to that level and not below it in three years. And high rates on goods not now being imported in quantity could be cut not more than a half in this three-year period.

After the three years—in 1958 — Congress would be able to take another look at the situation. There is no proposal to make the trade agreements a permanent part of American law.

With respect to GATT, the new General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade now being negotiated in Geneva, Switzerland, will be submitted to Congress for the first time. Sen. Eugene Millikin (R., Colo.) agreed this had to be done, to settle the issue for good. Rep. Richard Simpson (R., Pa.) served with the U. S. GATT delegation this summer and presumably got a first-hand idea of its workings. Multilateral negotiations, rather than treaties between two nations, are now generally recognized as the best way to lower world trade barriers.

A CHARTER FOR THE proposed new International Finance Corporation is now being drawn up by a seven-member committee of the executive directors of the International Bank. Eugene R. Black, chairman of the executive directors, and Andrew Overby are American representatives.

It is hoped that the charter draft will be ready by spring. A sort of junior grade Bretton Woods conference of countries in the International Bank might then have to be called to approve the charter before submitting it to member governments for ratification.

If this schedule cannot be met, the charter might have to be held over for the Bank's board of governor's meeting in Instanbul, Turkey, next September. But the U. S. idea is to have the charter ready for approval by this session of Congress so that the new lending corporation can begin operations by the end of the year.

U. S. exports are now greatly in excess of its imports. The whole Eisenhower program is aimed at finding free enterprise substitutes for balancing international trade without continued multibillion - dollar - foreign - aid programs.

Bold Faith in Industrial Economy of U. S. Reflected in Auto Industry Talks

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Jan. 19 — The cynical in our midst who speak of American business men as standpatters or ultra-conservatives, timid about change and hesitant to move forward, would have been disillusioned if they could have attended the luncheon given by General Motors to several hundred of the top industrial and financial executives of the country.

Something of the imagination and boldness in planning which has made America the most powerful nation industrially in the world was reflected in the speeches made by Harlow H. Curtice, president, and Alfred P. Sloan Jr., chairman of the board of the General Motors Corp.

Sitting in the audience was Charles E. Wilson, former president of the corporation and now the secretary of defense and, if anybody had any doubt about that famous misquotation which was so widely circulated, he must have had such doubt removed. For it was plain from the speeches that what is good for America is what General Motors considers paramount for itself.

Thus, just a year ago when the prophets of gloom were shaking their heads and predicting a depression, Mr. Curtice stood before the same group of business men and predicted that there would be a continuing high level of employment and consumer expenditures, with unprecedented housing starts and a gross national product not far from the 1943 level. But he startled his audience then by announcing that General Motors was planning an expansion program of a billion dollars, which has since grown by a half billion. Such was his confidence in the future.

This time Mr. Curtice was able to say "I told you so." For his 1953 prediction as to car sales and volume of business was right on the button. General Motors crossed the ten billion mark in sales, and the whole industry produced close to 7,000,000 auto units.

Mr. Curtice is optimistic about 1955, which he thinks will be a great year in business. He forsees a gross national product for 1955 of $370 billions, which is a 3 per cent increase over last year. He added:

"A world-wide strengthening of national economies is clearly evident. I was greatly impressed with the economic recovery in England and six European countries which I visited last fall.... The increasing productivity and prosperity of the free world contributed added strength to our own economy."

Mr. Sloan was stimulating, too, as he presented, in extemporaneous remarks, his appraisal of the future. He said:

"The interesting thing is it took us thirty-two years to make the first 25,000,000 automobiles and fourteen years to make the second 25,000,000. Now how long is it going to take us in America to make the third 25,000,000? I won't make a prophecy. That belongs to Mr. Curtice but I venture to say it will be less than eight years."

Mr. Sloan pointed out that there has been an enormous expansion of auto plants abroad and that less and less export from America might be in prospect. He said that this was one reason why General Motors had just invested $200,000,000 in production facilities in England, on the Continent of Europe, and in Australia.

Calling on business men to do more basic research, Mr. Sloan stressed the importance of scientific discovery and technological improvement. But his most significant statement was in relation to "the economic climate in which business is operating today." He declared:

"For over twenty years, we had all kinds of discouragement from the standpoint of national economic policies—repression of industry, lack of appreciation of the great force and power of expanding the economy. This is now finished and, as I forecast last year in supporting Mr. Curtice's program of a billion-dollar expansion, I make the point that we are entering an era wherein business will be encouraged by more incentive, eliminating many things that have held us back for so many years.

"My plea to you gentlemen is this: Let us plan boldly in expansion and development. Don't let's wait until the thing is before us. Let's forecast that it is going to happen and let's go ahead and do the job before it happens. In that way, the job will be done in a bigger and better way than otherwise will occur."

This was a fitting supplement to the predictions of business growth made by Mr. Curtice as he declared that population by 1962 may total 184 million and that the number of households should increase from 48 to 54 million, "creating a tremendous demand for homes, motor vehicles and other goods and services."

Nowhere in the world, as the speakers indicated, has any industrial group demonstrated "such faith in the economy of its nation or such confidence in its own future as has the automobile industry."

It was an inspiring sermon of true progressivism for all business and industry.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Ike's current secretary of labor and some individuals claiming religious authority, have been opposing the right-to-work or open-shop laws which have been adopted by 17 of our sovereign states. These states have a right and the legislative power to protect their respective citizens from coercion, blackmail and taxation by private societies. Their citizens have a right to join the Eagles, Elks, Moose or Odd Fellows but they have a legal right to refrain from doing so. Any attempt to dragoon them into membership by threats of economic punishment, such as exclusion from employment, or by personal injury would be resented by public opinion and rebuked by law.

However, such coercion would be fantastic, for these societies never thrust their memberships on unwilling individuals. They claim no power to tax their members. Labor unions originally also pretended to be voluntary organizations for mutual benefit. That pretense has been repudiated by the entire racket. All unions now claim authority to debar law-abiding American citizens and taxpayers from employment everywhere in the United States and Canada and authority to tax all employed workers.

They all claim a right to keep secret accounts, to make their own rules, including laws for punishment of non-conformist subjects, and to provide life tenure on their national "officers." A few pretend that they do not insist on membership but these are pretexts and only a cover for extortion. David Dubinsky's garment workers, generously "permit" American workers in certain places to work at lawful toil provided their employers shall "voluntarily" pay dues and assessments in their names into the union's national treasury, in New York. The New York headquarters operates a socialist political party and a socialist "foreign service."

Another "exception" is the "permit" whereby workers who are not members are allowed to work under certificates issued by professional parasites called business agents. Construction unions preyed upon millions of citizens during the war in the building of barracks and the attendant grading, shoveling and blasting. The loot taken from the United States treasury by a few thousand licensed extortioners holding union charters amounted literally to billions.

Primarily, of course, this money was extorted from the individual toilers who had to pay "initiation" fees of from $50 to $300 and "dues" ranging up to $10 a week. But in the end it was added to the total cost of the "wah effawt," as Roosevelt called it.

With possibly some freak exceptions, these grafters were slackers. The movie and theatrical unions of Browne and Bioff, adopted a frank, unique Fascist stratagem. These vermin decided that "jobs" were property and issued title to such properties to individual racketeers in their executive group. These executive goons then rented out the jobs to workers. The goons collected the wages and deducted royalties for themselves. The workers got the remainder.

In Newkark, one Kaufman, who operated this system, finally was snared and sent to prison. But, such is the moral state of that unionism which is urged upon all Americans today as a social, political and even religious duty, that this parasite now undertakes to resume his racket. The racket is "legal" under public laws and the laws of the racket itself. It is not the extortion that offended the law in Kaufman's case. His error lay in some improvised personal methods of collection.

In all these years of disgrace, the American union movement has done nothing whatever to reform itself. William Green, president of the AF of L, put the interests of criminal union controllers above those of "labor" always. John L. Lewis told me, and others long ago that unions could not exist without the closed shop because the worker did not desire to be union men. They resent the sub-human status to which they are reduced by unionism.

The "right to work" or open-shop issue is a political problem within the authority of the states. Any religious counsel, whether of the Vatican or any council of ministers or rabbis is only advisory. The worker may reject such counsel without prejudice in his spiritual status.

In the winter of 1952, in the Vatican itself, a monsignor who was official advisor to the Pope on union matters, expressed amazement at my presentation of truth of the union racket in the United States. He said the Holy Father had been imposed upon with false representations. He asked me to write a survey. I agreed to undertake this task, when my interview was published in the United States a statement was released by an authority in Washington artfully suggesting that the whole episode was a fake.

Michael Chingo, the Rome correspondent of International News, told me later that an authority in Washington asked him how he might go about getting an official repudiation from the Vatican.

Chinigo replied: "You have come to the wrong man. I was the one who arranged the interview and my first assistant, Al Piccolo, was present as interpreter and observer."

Lake Bottled Up

Ann Arbor, Mich. (AP) — Bottles, 2,000 of them, have been used to register the speed of Lake Huron currents. The University of Michigan's Great Lakes Research Institute said it released bottles across Lake Huron to establish that currents flow generally toward the Canadian shore at three one-hundredths of a mile an hour. At the widest point in the lake it takes currents six months to a year to make it across. Post cards enclosed in the test bottles were picked up and mailed in, the location and date being noted. The Institute knew when and where each individual bottle was released.

Pick Your Figures

Grand Junction, Colo. (AP)— You can pick your figures to interpret the employment situation in this area. The Colorado State Employment Service figures showed unemployment was up, but so were employment and the number of jobs open. The area is attracting new population because of the recent uranium boom.

HEAVY TAX BURDEN

Residents of Ulster County will be called upon to pay $36,821,000 in direct and indirect Federal taxes if President Eisenhower's budget recommendations for 1955-56 are approved. This estimate of our burden of the national budget was released by the Empire State Chamber of Commerce.

Although the figure is only an approximation, it is believed to be conservative since the total burden of the residents of the state as estimated by the Chamber's formula is several billion dollars less than the actual Federal tax collections in the state as reported by the Bureau of Internal Revenue.

The Empire State Chamber of Commerce makes these county-by-county estimates because Federal budget figures are so large as to be unreal even to the experts. By bringing the Federal budget estimates closer home, it is possible to better comprehend their enormous size. William A. Mills, executive vice president, indicates that the chamber feels that with the pressing needs for state and local expenditures on highways, education and hospitals, any tax savings at the Federal level will be particularly welcome.

When the cost of state and local government is added to the Federal amount, the local taxpayer is called upon to shoulder a heavy tax load.

ENGINEER SHORTAGE

Dr. Robert E. Wilson, chairman of the board of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, recently blamed the shortage of engineers in this country on our educational system, particularly on the high schools. He said that in high schools science is too often taught "by a teacher who spent two or three times as much time learning how to teach as what to teach."

Dr. Wilson may or may not be justified in his indictment of the educational system. It may be true that teaching of the sciences in our schools leaves something to be desired. Yet men with talent in the sciences can earn far more money in industry than they can by teaching. It should not be surprised that there is a shortage of able teachers.

Dr. Wilson also pointed out that Russia is at present training more new engineers than we are. This is a matter which should be of concern to all of us. We cannot force young people with scientific ability to elect engineering career. But we can encourage them to do so.

Industry has already interested itself in the schools sufficiently to point out to students the need for engineers and the advantages of such careers. Perhaps by stepping up this effort and by increasing the number of scholarships so that no potentially good engineers are denied a college education the shortage can be alleviated.

AIR ACADEMY STARTS

In July the first class at the United States Air Force Academy will begin studies at the temporary site of the academy, Lowry Air Force Base, Denver.

Standards for admittance will be high. Qualified young men can get information on the possibility of appointments by writing to their Senators and candidates. Some of the appointments have been set aside for the sons of Medal of Honor winners, sons of deceased veterans and other special cases.

The Academy will not be a flying school. Young men who complete the four year course will be awarded Bachelor of Science degrees besides their commissions. Liberal Arts studies as well as scientific courses will be part of the curriculum.

The permanent Air Force Academy will be located at the edge of the Rocky Mountains near Colorado Springs.

The Air Force will play an increasingly important role in the future of our defense system. It will need able, well-educated, well-trained young men as leaders. The Air Force Academy will be able to supply them. It will take its place with our other service academies and come to occupy the same sort of place in the affection and interest of the public.

Money is handy stuff. Except when it comes to trying to buy such truly essential things as happiness, peace of mind and good health.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

THERE IS NO END . . . !

The President's statement concerning Wolf Ladejinsky left me wobbly because at last it was disclosed that the Government of the United States has no system, no method, no procedure, no uniformity concerning security. What the President told the newsmen, in answer to their questions, was, in summary:

John Foster Dulles and Scott McLeod thought Ladejinsky was excellent for employment by the Government of the United States; Ezra Taft Benson, who four months earlier refused to release Ladejinsky to the FOA because he was too valuable to the Agriculture Department, now declared him to be a security risk on information which, to use the President's own words, scared the President; that Harold Stassen, having the same information that Mr. Dulles and Mr. Benson had, chose to employ Ladejinsky, after consultation with the White House, about which the President apparently did not know, because he was not a security risk and was suitable for sensitive employment.

Then President Eisenhower took the position that all these men were right because they were responsible, which seems rather illogical because under our Constitution, the President is responsible for the Executive Branch of the Government, ours not being a ministerial arrangement such as the British use. Heads of departments in the United States are handymen in the Executive entourage.

The question then arises: What becomes of Ladejinsky's reputation, his dignity as a human being, his fitness for employment? There was an awful howl when Senator Joe McCarthy raised the issue of Major Peress, an open Communist. But here is a man who is not even accused of being a Communist. Actually he stands accused of nothing. President Eisenhower ceased to be "scared" by Ladejinsky because he had heard that Ladejinsky had written an anti-Communist book. That may be so, but I can find no record of such a book. I am sure that what the President should have said was that Ladejinsky had had an anti-Communist career in the Far East, for so the State Department has indicated in its publicity on the case.

What it all points up is that there is no plan, no method, no adequate investigation, no over-all system—and men's reputations are at stake. The Government ought not to employ a single Communist, but does that mean that if a bureaucrat wants to get rid of a man, all he needs to do is to smear him with that tar brush?

I want to say here that I do not know Wolf Ladejinsky, have never met him, and have never seen a confidential government file on him. I did not know he existed before this controversy started. Therefore, I do not know whether such information as Ezra Taft Benson gave the President would scare me or whether the information that Scott McLeod and Harold Stassen possess would cause me to embrace him as a fellow anti-Communist. What I do know is that as I read the transcript of the President's press conference, I could see only confusion, lack of system, and an open door for Communists to walk into our government.

What is required quickly is a rule. The Department of Justice, assisted by J. Edgar Hoover, who apart from being head of the FBI knows the subject, ought to work out a system of security screening applicable to every department of government, leaving nothing to the judgment of bureaucrats, petty or great. Their judgment is often too whimsical and self-serving. Such a rule ought to be made public with clear definitions of terms and unmistakable methods of screening. There is no need for secrecy about the rule. If necessary, for enforcement, it should be passed by Congress.

In a word, the present chaos ought to be brought to an end. No independent commission of citizens is needed to devise a plan because precisely what would they know about it? Most citizens cannot distinguish between a Communist and a civil service reformer, between a Trotzkyist and a Single-Taxer. This is a technical subject that requires a technical approach.

Unless a system is just, it is not worth while. The whim of a bureaucrat caught in the pride of personal opinion may not be the pursuit of justice. It may be nothing but cocktail party conversation by frivolous people tearing down other men's lives. It may even be personal vengeance. This is not good enough for the United States.

That Body of Yours

ACUTE AND CHRONIC BRONCHITIS

Bronchitis — inflammation of the bronchial tubes which lead from the windpipe to the lungs —occurs mostly in cold, damp weather. It may occur in any age group but most often in the young and the elderly. The cause is usually an ordinary cold of the nose or throat which extends downward into these tubes.

The symptoms in an acute attack are chills, hoarseness, pressure in chest at the breastbone, weakness, pain in limbs, loss of appetite, slight rise in temperature, a cough which is rough and dry at first but which later becomes loose with profuse sputum.

These attacks usually last about two weeks and go through three stages. The first stage has a tight cough, tough sputum; the second has a loose cough with thick sputum, and in the third stage there is decrease in the cough and sputum.

So far as treatment is concerned, it is sometimes possible to prevent bronchitis going past the first stage by the use of hot baths, hot foot baths in which a tablespoon of mustard has been added, hot lemonade, rest in bed, mustard or other poultices on the chest.

If the symptoms persist: continue to rest in bed. Breathing in steam or steam from friar's balsam (a teaspoon to a quart of water) helps loosen the tight cough. Powders or tablets containing a quarter to one-third grain powdered ipecac also loosens coughs and prevent the violent efforts used to get up the sputum. In children, syrup of ipecac—teaspoonful doses—is used to bring up sputum when breathing becomes difficult.

The symptoms of chronic bronchitis are the same as those in acute bronchitis except that the sputum is always thick and very "sticky." The cough is worse in the mornings and evenings. The patient may get out of breath easily and "asthmatic" symptoms may be present.

Warmth is the most important element in treatment. It is wise to try to build up resistance against bronchitis by means of sunshine, fresh air, good food, plenty of rest. The symptoms may be helped by breathing steam, friar's balsam, and volatile oils such as menthol, santal, creosote, turpentine, camphor, which help ease the painful and difficult breathing.

Edson's Washington News Notebook

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington (NEA) — What President Eisenhower has asked for in his new foreign economic message to the Congress is, in effect, a recodification of all U. S. laws dealing with this subject.

These laws are today something of a hodgepodge. They were passed separately to meet limited situations. They did not have as their objective the creation of a complete and consistent foreign economic policy meeting today's world conditions.

In trying to bring order out of this confusion, the House Ways and Means Committee has a job almost as big as the one it tackled in the two years past. This was to recodify the tax laws. The last Congress did a commendable job on that.

There is as yet no move to put together an omnibus foreign economic policy code of laws, all wrapped up neatly in a single package. All the parts in the President's foreign economic program are so interrelated, however, that they must be considered together by the Congress.

WHAT THESE PARTS ARE was spelled out by the President in the first of his special messages to Congress.

This is by no means the extreme program which some of the opponents of a reciprocal trade agreements programs have made it out to be. It is a moderate approach. It will satisfy neither the believers in completely free trade nor those who believe only in high protective tariffs.

The group of business leaders under Clarence B. Randall, board chairman of Inland Steel, who shaped up and support the Eisenhower program, believe that few American producers will be hurt by it.

There is no provision for government aid to U. S. industries affected by lowered tariffs, which is opposed by the American Tariff League and its high-duty supporters.

BUT THE ESCAPE CLAUSE and peril point limitations would be retained in the President's program. Tariff cuts would be limited to 5 per cent a year for three years. Tariff rates now over 50 per cent could be cut to that level and not below it in three years. And high rates on goods not now being imported in quantity could be cut not more than a half in this three-year period.

After the three years—in 1958 — Congress would be able to take another look at the situation. There is no proposal to make the trade agreements a permanent part of American law.

With respect to GATT, the new General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade now being negotiated in Geneva, Switzerland, will be submitted to Congress for the first time. Sen. Eugene Millikin (R., Colo.) agreed this had to be done, to settle the issue for good. Rep. Richard Simpson (R., Pa.) served with the U. S. GATT delegation this summer and presumably got a first-hand idea of its workings. Multilateral negotiations, rather than treaties between two nations, are now generally recognized as the best way to lower world trade barriers.

A CHARTER FOR THE proposed new International Finance Corporation is now being drawn up by a seven-member committee of the executive directors of the International Bank. Eugene R. Black, chairman of the executive directors, and Andrew Overby are American representatives.

It is hoped that the charter draft will be ready by spring. A sort of junior grade Bretton Woods conference of countries in the International Bank might then have to be called to approve the charter before submitting it to member governments for ratification.

If this schedule cannot be met, the charter might have to be held over for the Bank's board of governor's meeting in Instanbul, Turkey, next September. But the U. S. idea is to have the charter ready for approval by this session of Congress so that the new lending corporation can begin operations by the end of the year.

U. S. exports are now greatly in excess of its imports. The whole Eisenhower program is aimed at finding free enterprise substitutes for balancing international trade without continued multibillion - dollar - foreign - aid programs.

Bold Faith in Industrial Economy of U. S. Reflected in Auto Industry Talks

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Jan. 19 — The cynical in our midst who speak of American business men as standpatters or ultra-conservatives, timid about change and hesitant to move forward, would have been disillusioned if they could have attended the luncheon given by General Motors to several hundred of the top industrial and financial executives of the country.

Something of the imagination and boldness in planning which has made America the most powerful nation industrially in the world was reflected in the speeches made by Harlow H. Curtice, president, and Alfred P. Sloan Jr., chairman of the board of the General Motors Corp.

Sitting in the audience was Charles E. Wilson, former president of the corporation and now the secretary of defense and, if anybody had any doubt about that famous misquotation which was so widely circulated, he must have had such doubt removed. For it was plain from the speeches that what is good for America is what General Motors considers paramount for itself.

Thus, just a year ago when the prophets of gloom were shaking their heads and predicting a depression, Mr. Curtice stood before the same group of business men and predicted that there would be a continuing high level of employment and consumer expenditures, with unprecedented housing starts and a gross national product not far from the 1943 level. But he startled his audience then by announcing that General Motors was planning an expansion program of a billion dollars, which has since grown by a half billion. Such was his confidence in the future.

This time Mr. Curtice was able to say "I told you so." For his 1953 prediction as to car sales and volume of business was right on the button. General Motors crossed the ten billion mark in sales, and the whole industry produced close to 7,000,000 auto units.

Mr. Curtice is optimistic about 1955, which he thinks will be a great year in business. He forsees a gross national product for 1955 of $370 billions, which is a 3 per cent increase over last year. He added:

"A world-wide strengthening of national economies is clearly evident. I was greatly impressed with the economic recovery in England and six European countries which I visited last fall.... The increasing productivity and prosperity of the free world contributed added strength to our own economy."

Mr. Sloan was stimulating, too, as he presented, in extemporaneous remarks, his appraisal of the future. He said:

"The interesting thing is it took us thirty-two years to make the first 25,000,000 automobiles and fourteen years to make the second 25,000,000. Now how long is it going to take us in America to make the third 25,000,000? I won't make a prophecy. That belongs to Mr. Curtice but I venture to say it will be less than eight years."

Mr. Sloan pointed out that there has been an enormous expansion of auto plants abroad and that less and less export from America might be in prospect. He said that this was one reason why General Motors had just invested $200,000,000 in production facilities in England, on the Continent of Europe, and in Australia.

Calling on business men to do more basic research, Mr. Sloan stressed the importance of scientific discovery and technological improvement. But his most significant statement was in relation to "the economic climate in which business is operating today." He declared:

"For over twenty years, we had all kinds of discouragement from the standpoint of national economic policies—repression of industry, lack of appreciation of the great force and power of expanding the economy. This is now finished and, as I forecast last year in supporting Mr. Curtice's program of a billion-dollar expansion, I make the point that we are entering an era wherein business will be encouraged by more incentive, eliminating many things that have held us back for so many years.

"My plea to you gentlemen is this: Let us plan boldly in expansion and development. Don't let's wait until the thing is before us. Let's forecast that it is going to happen and let's go ahead and do the job before it happens. In that way, the job will be done in a bigger and better way than otherwise will occur."

This was a fitting supplement to the predictions of business growth made by Mr. Curtice as he declared that population by 1962 may total 184 million and that the number of households should increase from 48 to 54 million, "creating a tremendous demand for homes, motor vehicles and other goods and services."

Nowhere in the world, as the speakers indicated, has any industrial group demonstrated "such faith in the economy of its nation or such confidence in its own future as has the automobile industry."

It was an inspiring sermon of true progressivism for all business and industry.

In the winter of 1952, in the Vatican itself, a monsignor who was official advisor to the Pope on union matters, expressed amazement at my presentation of truth of the union racket in the United States. He said the Holy Father had been imposed upon with false representations. He asked me to write a survey. I agreed to undertake this task, when my interview was published in the United States a statement was released by an authority in Washington artfully suggesting that the whole episode was a fake.

Michael Chingo, the Rome correspondent of International News, told me later that an authority in Washington asked him how he might go about getting an official repudiation from the Vatican.

Chinigo replied: "You have come to the wrong man. I was the one who arranged the interview and my first assistant, Al Piccolo, was present as interpreter and observer."

Lake Bottled Up

Ann Arbor, Mich. (AP) — Bottles, 2,000 of them, have been used to register the speed of Lake Huron currents. The University of Michigan's Great Lakes Research Institute said it released bottles across Lake Huron to establish that currents flow generally toward the Canadian shore at three one-hundredths of a mile an hour. At the widest point in the lake it takes currents six months to a year to make it across. Post cards enclosed in the test bottles were picked up and mailed in, the location and date being noted. The Institute knew when and where each individual bottle was released.

Pick Your Figures

Grand Junction, Colo. (AP) — You can pick your figures to interpret the employment situation in this area. The Colorado State Employment Service figures showed unemployment was up, but so were employment and the number of jobs open. The area is attracting new population because of the recent uranium boom.

Questions -- Answers

Q—What is the Hunter's Moon?

A—The first full moon which comes after the harvest moon.

Q—How many times does the heart beat each minute?

A—The heart of a tiny baby beats about 120 times each minute, that of a child of 7 about 90 times, and that of an adult between 70 and 80 times.

Tillson

Tillson, Jan. 18 — The Boys' 4-H Club of Tillson held a successful card party at the Tillson School Saturday evening. Refreshments were served. It was announced that on February 19 the club will sponsor another card party at the school.

Mrs. Marian Gregory of New Paltz was guest speaker at the January meeting of the Tillson School Association. The speaker discussed the pre-reading program in kindergarten and the reading program from the first through the eighth grades. At present Mrs. Gregory is a reading specialist in the Kingston school system.

A new restaurant has been opened in New Paltz by George Hartaier of Tillson, who for several years has operated a butcher shop in New Paltz. A grand opening later this month is being planned. The restaurant is located at 38 Main street.

Regular weekly meetings of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Tillson Volunteer Fire Company are held at the Tillson Firehall, unless otherwise announced. This week the meeting will be held at the home of the president, Mrs. Russell Douglass. Ladies of the community who are interested in becoming members of the auxiliary are asked to contact Mrs. Douglass for complete details.

The Christian Endeavor Society of the Tillson Reformed Church will meet at the church Wednesday evening at 7 o'clock.

Injunction Granted

The proposed new Gardiner fire truck was the subject of a Special Term decision by Supreme Court Justice William R. Deckelman.

In the month of October 1954 the Board of Fire Commissioners of the Gardiner Fire District caused to be published in the local papers specifications for a new fire truck with a 158-inch wheelbase and equipped with certain brand name apparatus.

The bids were opened the night of October 14, 1954, C & E Motors of New Paltz submitted a bid of $7650.00; Kopp Motors of Kerhonkson a bid for $7997.00 and Stanton R. Tremper of Red Hook, N. Y., for $8200.00. The Fire Commissioners awarded the contract to the last named bidder who was $550 higher than the lowest bidder.

Several incensed citizens of the Town of Gardiner sought legal guidance and learned that both the Town Law and the General Municipal Law make it mandatory upon the commissioners to accept the lowest bid in the purchase of equipment. And moreover, the courts of N. Y. State have repeatedly held that it is improper and unlawful for bids to be requested on equipment made by only one manufacturer. The citizens committee examined the contract of the successful bidder and learned that he had actually bid on a truck with a smaller wheelbase than the specifications called for.

On the basis of these facts Supreme Court Justice Harry E. Schirick signed an order requiring the Board of Fire Commissioners to show cause at Special Term why the contract should not be rescinded and declared null and void; and at the same time granted the petitioner, John F. Fall, an injunction restraining the Commissioners from accepting delivery or paying for the fire truck and also enjoined the successful bidder from building the truck or delivering it to the fire district.

The Board of Fire Commissioners did not meet this challenge head-on. They applied to the court for an order dismissing the petition because the petitioner had chosen the wrong legal remedy in asking the court to declare the contract null and void.

In his decision affirming the right of John Fall to bring on the proceeding in the manner he had chosen, Supreme Court Justice Deckelman pointed out that it is ancient learning that "any citizen or resident of a political subdivision is capable of presenting to the court his petition for the enforcement by officials of their mandatory duties."

The Board of Fire Commissioners was represented by David Corwin of New Paltz, and John Fall, the petitioner, was represented by Norman Kellar of Kingston.

Appreciate Support

Editor, The Freeman:

Please accept the sincere gratitude of the Ulster County TB and Health Association for the generous assistance given by your paper and its staff to the 1954 Christmas Seals Sale. Your support of the campaign to raise funds for the fight against tuberculosis in the editorial and news columns was an example of the outstanding public spirit your newspaper has always shown in aiding efforts to build a better world for ourselves and our children.

Firm in the knowledge that the people of this community are determined to defeat tuberculosis, the Association now moves into a new year of increased effort toward this goal.

As you know Christmas Seals funds are used in Ulster County to fight tuberculosis and other diseases as well as to build the physical and mental health of our citizens.

Sincerely,
FREDERIC W. HOLCOMB, MD.
President

The proposed new Gardiner fire truck was the subject of a Special Term decision by Supreme Court Justice William R. Deckelman.

In the month of October 1954 the Board of Fire Commissioners of the Gardiner Fire District caused to be published in the local papers specifications for a new fire truck with a 158-inch wheelbase and equipped with certain brand name apparatus.

The bids were opened the night of October 14, 1954. C & E Motors of New Paltz submitted a bid of $7650.00; Kopp Motors of Kerhonkson a bid for $7997.00 and Stanton R. Tremper of Red Hook, N. Several incensed citizens of the Town of Gardiner sought legal guidance and learned that both the Town Law and the General Municipal Law make it mandatory upon the commissioners to accept the lowest bid in the purchase of equipment. And moreover, the courts of N. Y. State have per[illegible] held that it is improper and unlawful for bids to be requested on equipment made by only one manufacturer. The citizens committee examined the contract of the successful bidder and learned that he had actually bid on a truck with a smaller wheelbase than the specifications called for.

On the basis of these facts Supreme Court Justice Harry E. Schirick signed an order requiring the Board of Fire Commissioners to show cause at Special Term why the contract should not be rescinded and declared null and void; and at the same time granted the petitioner, John F. Fall, an injunction restraining the Commissioners from accepting delivery or paying for the fire truck and also enjoined the successful bidder from building the truck or delivering it to the fire district.

The Board of Fire Commissioners did not meet this challenge head-on. They applied to the court for an order dismissing the petition because the petitioner had chosen the wrong legal remedy in asking the court to declare the contract null and void.

In his decision affirming the right of John Fall to bring on the proceeding in the manner he had chosen, Supreme Court Justice Deckelman pointed out that it is ancient learning that "any citizen or resident of a political subdivision is capable of presenting to the court his petition for the enforcement by officials of their mandatory duties."

The Board of Fire Commissioners was represented by David Corwin of New Paltz, and John Fall, the petitioner, was represented by Norman Kellar of Kingston.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

This Contract Is Very Difficult

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

Tournament experts will assure you, if you ask them, that the most difficult of all contracts is one no-trump. Many game and slam contracts are absolute laydowns, but you will seldom play the hand at one no-trump unless the strength is so evenly divided that it's very hard to tell which side can make a majority of the tricks.

In today's hand for example, the high-card strength was equally divided. Each side had 20 points in high cards. The struggle sometimes went one way and sometimes the other, when this hand was played in the recent national tournament in Atlanta.

At many tables, West opened the deuce of hearts. This gave South the chance to develop three heart tricks immediately, and declarer usually made his contract without trouble..

At one table, West opened the fourth-best club on the theory that he preferred to keep his high hearts for use as entries later on. This opening lead struck oil. East held the first trick with the queen of clubs, held the second trick with the king of clubs, and continued the suit. South won the third trick with the ace of clubs, discarding a small heart from the dummy.

South now led the nine of spades from his hand. West saw no advantage in covering with the king, so he played low without hesitation. South let the nine of spades ride, and East won with the jack. East returned the eight of hearts, and West put up the queen to force out dummy's ace.

Declarer didn't know that he could catch the king of spades by just laying down the ace, so he returned the nine of hearts from the dummy in the hope of promoting a trick in that suit. West won with the king of hearts and promptly cashed his last club, dummy discarding a spade.

West could see that a diamond or heart return would help declarer, so he plumped dummy in by returning the king of spades. Dummy could cash three spades but then had to guess the best way of leading away from the diamonds.

At the end, South guessed wrong by leading the jack of diamonds out of the dummy. West won with the queen and returned a diamond, allowing East to win the last two tricks. At this table, therefore, alert defense managed to set the contract two tricks.

Dining-Living Room

If you have no dining room, you can effectively separate a dining area with a change of rug color and texture. This is subtle. Few notice exactly what it is, but they get the feeling of another room within the living room.

SWEETY PIE — By Nadine Seltzer

"Well, I cured your hiccups, didn't I?"

One Reported Killed

Tokyo, Jan. 18 (AP)—The Japan Coast Guard today said a U. S. military transport sliced through a Japanese fishing schooner in the Inland Sea last night, killing one Japanese and injuring two. Four are missing. The fishing boat Mie Maru sank immediately. The coast guard said the U. S. transport General Patrick picked up three survivors but one died.

Food Is Destroyed

Taipeh, Formosa, Jan. 18 (AP)—More than 140,000 pounds of food donated by the American people to the needy of Nationalist China were destroyed in the Communist bombing of the Tachen Islands Jan. 10, U. S. officials said today. That was about 70 per cent of the total sent to the Tachens.

Experts say that the use of whiskey often aggravates the symptoms of the common cold.

Clintondale

Clintondale, Jan. 18—Russell Rhodes, operator of the Clintondale Garage, was elected chief of the Clintondale Fire Department at the annual meeting. He succeeds Ned Conklin. Other officers named at the same election were Lawrence Capozzi, first assistant, and Freston Atkins, second assistant. Two foremen were chosen, Edward Nace and Guido Palazzo. Executive officers for 1955 will be Harold Minard, Jr., president; Isaac Wager, Jr., vice president; George C. Ronk, recording secretary, and Freston Atkins, financial secretary and treasurer. The drivers will be Sylwin Moshier, Freston Atkins, Harry Ronk, Lawrence Cappozzi, Isaac Wager and Guido Palazzo; fire police, Kenneth Ronk, Edward Nace, John Minard, Jr., Isaac Wager and Lawrence Morse; first aid and rescue squad, Lawrence Cappozzi, Harold Minard, Jr., and Thomas Powers. Plans for holding the annual banquet of the company are under way and a tentative date of Monday, Feb. 28, has been set. Minard announced that the Clintondale company will unite with Modena, Plattekill and Gardiner in entertaining the Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's Association at its May meeting.

Mrs. George Ronk is a patient at Vassar Hospital where she underwent surgery last week.

Donald H. Williamson, recently returned after several weeks in a New York hospital, and Frank Saberese of Ardonia are en route to Miami, Fla., where Williamson will spend two months. Sabarese will return in two weeks.

William Coy attended a meeting of the directors of the Ulster County Farm and Home Bureau and 4-H Clubs in Kingston last week.

Mrs. Flossie Decker has been named sunshine committee leader for Clintondale for the Highland chapter, Order of Eastern Star.

Philip Weller who underwent an operation at St. Luke's Hospital, Newburgh, recently, is much improved.

Mrs. Ruth Rhodes has returned to her home on Main street after spending several weeks in Highland where she cared for her sister Mrs. Walter Cole who was ill.

Myron Ronk, district deputy grand master of Ulster District, Independent Order of Odd Fellows, will be in West Saugerties Tuesday and in Kingston Tuesday night paying his official staff visits to those lodges. His brother Vernon Ronk, district deputy grand marshal, will accompany him.

Richard Coy of Modena was elected president of the Town of Plattekill Democratic Club at its meeting last week in Modena.

Isaac Wager has been appointed a constable for the town of Plattekill by Supervisor Eber Coy. He will serve in the Clintondale area.

Sgt. Tremper Sprague is now serving with the army in Korea.

Kurt Laser is enlarging the former Oliver Byrne store at Ardonia to twice the original size. Laser now owns the store.

Clayton Jenkins of Clintondale was appointed assistant cashier at the First National Bank of Highland during the annual meeting of the stockholders last Tuesday afternoon. William Coy was named to the board of directors.

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Strongman have returned to their home at Tuckers Corners after visiting their daughter and family at Phoenix, Ariz.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

This Contract Is Very Difficult

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

Tournament experts will assure you, if you ask them, that the most difficult of all contracts is one no-trump. Many game and slam contracts are absolute laydowns, but you will seldom play the hand at one no-trump unless the strength is so evenly divided that it's very hard to tell which side can make a majority of the tricks.

In today's hand for example, the high-card strength was equally divided. Each side had 20 points in high cards. The struggle sometimes went one way and sometimes the other, when this hand was played in the recent national tournament in Atlanta.

At many tables, West opened the deuce of hearts. This gave South the chance to develop three heart tricks immediately, and declarer usually made his contract without trouble..

At one table, West opened the fourth-best club on the theory that he preferred to keep his high hearts for use as entries later on. This opening lead struck oil. East held the first trick with the queen of clubs, held the second trick with the king of clubs, and continued the suit. South won the third trick with the ace of clubs, discarding a small heart from the dummy.

South now led the nine of spades from his hand. West saw no advantage in covering with the king, so he played low without hesitation. South let the nine of spades ride, and East won with the jack. East returned the eight of hearts, and West put up the queen to force out dummy's ace.

Declarer didn't know that he could catch the king of spades by just laying down the ace, so he returned the nine of hearts from the dummy in the hope of promoting a trick in that suit. West won with the king of hearts and promptly cashed his last club, dummy discarding a spade.

West could see that a diamond or heart return would help declarer, so he plumped dummy in by returning the king of spades. Dummy could cash three spades but then had to guess the best way of leading away from the diamonds.

At the end, South guessed wrong by leading the jack of diamonds out of the dummy. West won with the queen and returned a diamond, allowing East to win the last two tricks. At this table, therefore, alert defense managed to set the contract two tricks.

First Statewide Season on Beaver Starts March 12

Albany, Jan. 19 (AP)—The State Conservation Department yesterday issued orders giving trappers their first statewide season on beaver and otter and insuring them of more than a month's open season on muskrats.

At least part of every county will be open to beaver trappers.

Commissioner Louis A. Wehle set the season on beaver and otter to start March 12 and run until April 15 in the northern zone. There will be no bag limit. The part of St. Lawrence county north and west of Route 11 will be closed to beaver trappers.

In the southern zone, where there are no closed areas for beavers, the season will extend from March 1 through March 10 with a bag limit of six.

THE SAME DATES will apply to the otter season in the southern zone, but the territory will be limited to Cayuga, Fulton, Hermiker, Madison, Oneida, Oswego, Rensselaer, Saratoga, Sullivan, Dutchess, Putnam and Westchester counties, or parts thereof.

The muskrat season will open Jan. 29 in the southern zone, it will continue through February and into March, at which time the department will set the closing date.

The northern zone muskrat season will open Feb. 26 and run throught March and into April, when a closing date will be set.

THEY'LL DO IT EVERY TIME (Registered U. S. Patent Office) By JIMMY HATLO

A number of local people attended a farewell party given Airman James Klyve and family at the Irelands Corners Hotel recently. Airman Klyve's wife, the former June Roosa of Modena, and their daughter Cindy Lee, will make their home in Hamton, Va., where Klyve will be stationed with the USAF.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sutton and daughter Sharon, Plattekill, were recent visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Freston J. Paltridge.

Mrs. Harry Roosa and aunts, from Kingston, visited Mrs. Martha Steer, who remains seriously ill at Goshen, during the past week.

Cpl. and Mrs. Charles Smith and son Chickie are expected to arrive from Orlando, Fla., for a visit with relatives and friends in the near future. Mrs. Smith is the former Phyllis Paltridge of Modena.

First Statewide Season on Beaver Starts March 12

Albany, Jan. 19 (AP)—The State Conservation Department yesterday issued orders giving trappers their first statewide season on beaver and otter and insuring them of more than a month's open season on muskrats.

At least part of every county will be open to beaver trappers.

Commissioner Louis A. Wehle set the season on beaver and otter to start March 12 and run until April 15 in the northern zone. There will be no bag limit. The part of St. Lawrence county north and west of Route 11 will be closed to beaver trappers.

In the southern zone, where there are no closed areas for beavers, the season will extend from March 1 through March 10 with a bag limit of six.

THE SAME DATES will apply to the otter season in the southern zone, but the territory will be limited to Cayuga, Fulton, Hermiker, Madison, Oneida, Oswego, Rensselaer, Saratoga, Sullivan, Dutchess, Putnam and Westchester counties, or parts thereof.

The muskrat season will open Jan. 29 in the southern zone, it will continue through February and into March, at which time the department will set the closing date.

The northern zone muskrat season will open Feb. 26 and run throught March and into April, when a closing date will be set.

Competition Keen As Auto Buyers Making Demands

New York, Jan. 19 (AP)—The customer is calling the tune today—or, rather, naming the colors. You can see that plainly enough at General Motors' Motorama which opened today at the Waldorf Astoria.

Giving the customer his choice of color combinations for his new car isn't a production manager's idea exactly, GM officials admit. It causes plently of trouble and added effort at the factory.

BUT IT'S what the 1955 auto buyer wants. And it's what the auto industry—in this, its fiercest competitive year — feels forced to provide.

Not that GM has any monopoly on the rainbow. Walk a few blocks south of GM's big show and you'll see another big splash of color at the Chrysler International Auto Salon. Ford and all the independents are offering a similar wide range of color choice to lure the customer.

And letting the customer mix his colors isn't exactly an idea that auto dealers would think up, either, if they didn't feel the breath of competition. Turn a man and his wife loose in a dealer's show room to pick color combinations and listen to the arguments, the indecision, the changing of minds—far, far into next week probably.

AUTO ASSEMBLY lines get a little more complicated in this new age of color. It takes careful planning, GM officials point out, to see that when a yellow body rolls down the line it isn't met at the strategic point by a pink fender, or by an unwanted shade of seat upholsted.

And what happens if a man and his wife pick out a pretty far fetched color combination? GM officials say every care is taken to head this off. Dealers have charts of recommended combinations, which the company's designers think in the best taste, and which the assembly lines are set up to provide with reasonable dispatch.

If the customer should insist on something different from the wide choice of combinations offered him—well, in this year of competition, he probably could get it. He'd have to wait awhile, however, until the factory could provide it. And there would probably be an extra charge for the trouble.

ONCE THE AUTO owner gets behind the wheel in his new colorful and elegant chariot he may feel a little tacky by comparison. At least, the clothing industry hopes so. And it, too, reports a big shift in color this year.

At the convention here of the International Assn. of Clothing Designers the talk today is all about the big rush of men this year to deck themselves out in charcoal—a term which the clothing industry uses to cover anything that is dark in hue.

Some clothing makers report that the unexpected big demand for dark duds has created temporary shortages — while the lighter shades hang unsold on the store racks. Perhaps the rush for dark suits is because the driver doesn't want to feel lost entirely when he gets into his new brilliantly hued car.

HIS WIFE, meanwhile, is demanding more and more color in her kitchen. And the appliance industry is deep in competition this year, too, so the ladies are getting what they want.

Displays at the meeting today in Chicago of the National Assn. of Home Builders indicate that tomorrow's kitchen is going to boast almost every color but white. The appliances come in every hue. And there, too, it's the customer who is naming his colors.

Do You Remember

By SOPHIE MILLER

The other day there was mention in this column of Amasa J. Ormerod's Cafe and Restaurant at 41 E. Strand in Rondout where a substantial lunch could be had for 25 cents. This cafe took a full page in the 1897 Kingston City directory to list the following on their menu: Lobsters and soft shell crabs, oysters and clams, game in season. Choice steaks and chops, fresh vegetables, cuisine unsurpassed, also they served the finest wines and liquors and a fine line of Havana Cigars. Some of our most prominent men ate there and some who started there at their first jobs and from there made contacts for success in later life. As a little girl when my father used to bring me from Port Ewen he used to take me there for lunch around the 1920's, and I especially remember their excellent rice pudding. It was never runny, but thick and had real thick cream on it. I guess they spoiled me for any other kind of rice pudding. It also had a special delicious flavor to it like a good baked cake with mild spice.

I remember I was once asked where Diamond Hall was. I see in this 1897 directory it was at Broadway and Thomas street. Kennedy Hall also was in that vicinity. Academy of Music at the time was at O'Reilly street, Otis and Carters owned it and the Peckham Band were managers. The old Kingston Opera House was owned by John N. Cordts, and Charles V. DuBois managed it. It was, of course, corner Fair and John streets, which is a office and store building today. Steinmann's Hall was at 338 Broadway. The famous Washington Hall was owned by George Zeeh and was at 108-110 Abeel street in Rondout. I remember my father used to take me to watch basketball playing. Andy Murphy, father of Andy Murphy the Kingston Recreation Center director, was the only player we knew and so we always cheered for him. As I remember there were all big men playing there, anyway they all looked big to me. Those basketball games used to bring out quite a crowd and of course they were handy for us as we lived a block or more away. Griffiths Hall, owned by Frank H. Griffiths at 15 and 17 Hasbrouck avenue was used for lodge meetings and religious social affairs. As I remember I went to package parties and dances there run by religious groups. It was always warm and clean and we had nice times.

Peter Barmann takes a page in the 1897 directory with his picture in the center. At the top of the page is printed: "There is no better tonic, perfectly pure, Jacobs Valley Lager Beer. Made of the finest spring water, Bavarian hops and Canada Malt." Their motto seemed to be, "pure malt and hops, not adulterated." Their bottling works was at the foot of Clinton avenue, they had ale and porter, Pilsener and extra pale and standard. The brewery sold in case lots of bottled beer or bulk direct to families, hotels or saloon keepers. No doubt many local citizens could watch the makings of these various ale and beer products. I remember seeing the large vats which looked like copper after the plants were no longer in operation. As I understand the residue from beer production is now made up into vitamins for human use. It used to be thrown away or perhaps given as feed to animals. Perhaps old timers will remember what they did with it.

Cashmere Sweaters

The sweater gets an added extra. Those lovelies of the wardrobe, cashmere sweaters, now come lined in shirtwaist silk for a light, but opaque, jacket look. Warmer and smoother-hanging are these splurge sweaters.

Wicks and Wilson Ask for Tax on City Aqueducts

Senator Arthur H. Wicks and Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson, both of Ulster county, have introduced bills to end tax exemption on the reservoir aqueducts owned by the City of New York which carry water into the city from various reservoirs owned by the city and located principally in the Catskill mountain area.

New York is the only municipaltiy in the state which enjoys tax exemptions on water supply lines and aqueducts located in and passing through other towns. Every other city, village, town or water district in this state which owns a reservoir and brings its water supply through aqueducts or pipe lines, either on top or beneath the ground, to the point of distribution, is assessed on the value of these aqueducts or pipe lines and pays real estate taxes thereon to the town in which they are located. But New York city's aqueducts under present tax law are tax-exempt.

The present law in this connection discriminates in favor of New York city and against every other city, town, village and water district in the state.

Senator Wicks and Assemblyman Wilson have introduced the bills referred herein because they believe that New York city should be placed in the same category as the other municipalities of the state and should be taxed on their aqueducts.

If you lose your dog, your hat, your bicycle, don't lose your hair worrying about it. Pick up your telephone and let The Freeman Want Ad department experts explain how economically you can find it.

Great things ahead for your phone in '55

Faster Long Distance, more phones in service, wider dialing areas are part of the progress picture

Throughout the State, 1955 will be the biggest year yet in expansion and improvement of telephone service. The pictures shown here are only the highlights of our record $200 million construction program, which will make your service more convenient and useful than ever before.

The demand for service continues to grow steadily. To meet it thousands more phones will have to be installed; switchboards enlarged all over the State; many millions of miles of wire added.

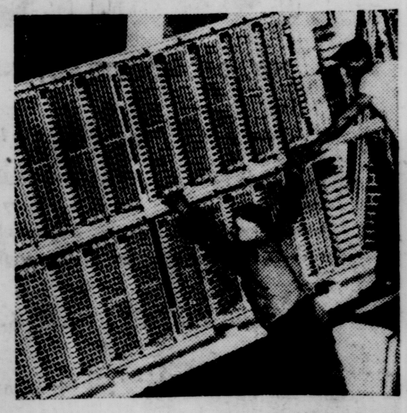
This is a big job and it presents many problems. For example, it will be necessary to obtain more than 100 million dollars in new capital money next year. Yet our rate of earnings has been declining steadily in the face of rising expenses and taxes. This is the most serious of our problems.

We are going ahead. We'll put more money by far into our expansion program in 1955 than we did in 1954, in the firm belief that our earnings problem will be solved fairly. We are convinced that the people of New York State want the best of telephone service. We are going to do our part to provide that sort of service.

More phones for more people! Every working day over 1,100 phones will be added to meet the growing demand for service. By the end of 1955, New York will boast 6,591,000 telephones – more than any other country in the world.

Long Distance calls even faster! In 18 more upstate communities, operators will dial your call direct to the telephones in distant towns—thanks to remarkable new equipment to be installed in 1955. Just another one of the great things ahead for phone service this year.

Nine out of ten will have dial! Dial service is coming to six more communities on Long Island, two in Westchester and four upstate. By year's end, over 90% of all phones served by New York Telephone Company will be dial.



MORE SPECIAL PHONE FEATURES FOR YOU IN '55

Button-control telephone. Just press the buttons for outside calls, to hold calls on a line, or call other phones in your office or home.

Executive phone. A loudspeaker and microphone arrangement lets you talk and listen without using the receiver, leaving your hands free. Or you can press a button and use as a regular phone.

Extension phones. For kitchen, bedroom, workshop—any room in the house. An extension saves steps, saves time—costs less than 3¢ a day.

And letting the customer mix his colors isn't exactly an idea that auto dealers would think up, either, if they didn't feel the breath of competition. Turn a man and his wife loose in a dealer's show room to pick color combinations and listen to the arguments, the indecision, the changing of minds—far, far into next week probably.

AUTO ASSEMBLY lines get a little more complicated in this new age of color. It takes careful planning, GM officials point out, to see that when a yellow body rolls down the line it isn't met at the strategic point by a pink fender, or by an unwanted shade of seat upholsted.

And what happens if a man and his wife pick out a pretty far fetched color combination? GM officials say every care is taken to head this off. Dealers have charts of recommended combinations, which the company's designers think in the best taste, and which the assembly lines are set up to provide with reasonable dispatch.

If the customer should insist on something different from the wide choice of combinations offered him—well, in this year of competition, he probably could get it. He'd have to wait awhile, however, until the factory could provide it. And there would probably be an extra charge for the trouble.

ONCE THE AUTO owner gets behind the wheel in his new colorful and elegant chariot he may feel a little tacky by comparison. At least, the clothing industry hopes so. And it, too, reports a big shift in color this year.

At the convention here of the International Assn. of Clothing Designers the talk today is all about the big rush of men this year to deck themselves out in charcoal—a term which the clothing industry uses to cover anything that is dark in hue.

Some clothing makers report that the unexpected big demand for dark duds has created temporary shortages — while the lighter shades hang unsold on the store racks. Perhaps the rush for dark suits is because the driver doesn't want to feel lost entirely when he gets into his new brilliantly hued car.

HIS WIFE, meanwhile, is demanding more and more color in her kitchen. And the appliance industry is deep in competition this year, too, so the ladies are getting what they want.

Displays at the meeting today in Chicago of the National Assn. of Home Builders indicate that tomorrow's kitchen is going to boast almost every color but white. The appliances come in every hue. And there, too, it's the customer who is naming his colors.

Do You Remember

By SOPHIE MILLER

The other day there was mention in this column of Amasa J. Ormerod's Cafe and Restaurant at 41 E. Strand in Rondout where a substantial lunch could be had for 25 cents. This cafe took a full page in the 1897 Kingston City directory to list the following on their menu: Lobsters and soft shell crabs, oysters and clams game in season. Choice steaks and chops, fresh vegetables, cuisine unsurpassed, also they served the finest wines and liquors and a fine line of Havana Cigars. Some of our most prominent men ate there and some who started there at their first jobs and from there made contacts for success in later life. As a little girl when my father used to bring me from Port Ewen he used to take me there for lunch around the 1920's, and I especially remember their excellent rice pudding. It was never runny, but thick and had real thick cream on it. I guess they spoiled me for any other kind of rice pudding. It also had a special delicious flavor to it like a good baked cake with mild spice.

I remember I was once asked where Diamond Hall was. I see in this 1897 directory it was at Broadway and Thomas street. Kennedy Hall also was in that vicinity. Academy of Music at the time was at O'Reilly street, Otis and Carters owned it and the Peckham Band were managers. The old Kingston Opera House was owned by John N. Cordts, and Charles V. DuBois managed it. It was, of course, corner Fair and John streets, which is a office and store building today. Steinmann's Hall was at 338 Broadway. The famous Washington Hall was owned by George Zeeh and was at 108-110 Abeel street in Rondout. I remember my father used to take me to watch basketball playing. Andy Murphy, father of Andy Murphy the Kingston Recreation Center director, was the only player we knew and so we always cheered for him. As I remember there were all big men playing there, anyway they all looked big to me. Those basketball games used to bring out quite a crowd and of course they were handy for us as we lived a block or more away. Griffiths Hall, owned by Frank H. Griffiths at 15 and 17 Hasbrouck avenue was used for lodge meetings and religious social affairs. As I remember I went to package parties and dances there run by religious groups. It was always warm and clean and we had nice times.

Peter Barmann takes a page in the 1897 directory with his picture in the center. At the top of the page is printed: "There is no better tonic, perfectly pure, Jacobs Valley Lager Beer. Made of the finest spring water, Bavarian hops and Canada Malt." Their motto seemed to be, "pure malt and hops, not adulterated." Their bottling works was at the foot of Clinton avenue, they had ale and porter, Pilsener and extra pale and standard. The brewery sold in case lots of bottled beer or bulk direct to families, hotels or saloon keepers. No doubt many local citizens could watch the makings of these various ale and beer products. I remember seeing the large vats which looked like copper after the plants were no longer in operation. As I understand the residue from beer production is now made up into vitamins for human use. It used to be thrown away or perhaps given as feed to animals. Perhaps old timers will remember what they did with it.

Cashmere Sweaters

The sweater gets an added extra. Those lovelies of the wardrobe, cashmere sweaters, now come lined in shirtwaist silk for a light, but opaque, jacket look. Warmer and smoother-hanging are these splurge sweaters.

Wicks and Wilson Ask for Tax on City Aqueducts

Senator Arthur H. Wicks and Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson, both of Ulster county, have introduced bills to end tax exemption on the reservoir aqueducts owned by the City of New York which carry water into the city from various reservoirs owned by the city and located principally in the Catskill mountain area.

New York is the only municipaltiy in the state which enjoys tax exemptions on water supply lines and aqueducts located in and passing through other towns. Every other city, village, town or water district in this state which owns a reservoir and brings its water supply through aqueducts or pipe lines, either on top or beneath the ground, to the point of distribution, is assessed on the value of these aqueducts or pipe lines and pays real estate taxes thereon to the town in which they are located. But New York city's aqueducts under present tax law are tax-exempt.

The present law in this connection discriminates in favor of New York city and against every other city, town, village and water district in the state.

Senator Wicks and Assemblyman Wilson have introduced the bills referred herein because they believe that New York city should be placed in the same category as the other municipalities of the state and should be taxed on their aqueducts.

Great things ahead for your phone in '55

Faster Long Distance, more phones in service, wider dialing areas are part of the progress picture

Throughout the State, 1955 will be the biggest year yet in expansion and improvement of telephone service. The pictures shown here are only the highlights of our record $200 million construction program, which will make your service more convenient and useful than ever before.

The demand for service continues to grow steadily. To meet it thousands more phones will have to be installed; switchboards enlarged all over the State; many millions of miles of wire added.

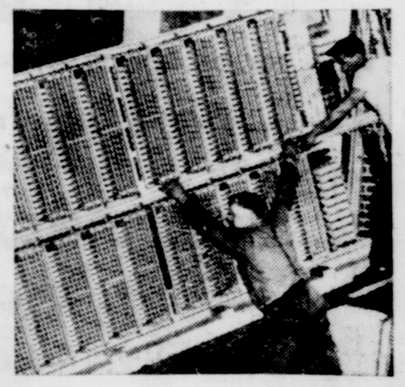
This is a big job and it presents many problems. For example, it will be necessary to obtain more than 100 million dollars in new capital money next year. Yet our rate of earnings has been declining steadily in the face of rising expenses and taxes. This is the most serious of our problems.

We are going ahead. We'll put more money by far into our expansion program in 1955 than we did in 1954, in the firm belief that our earnings problem will be solved fairly. We are convinced that the people of New York State want the best of telephone service. We are going to do our part to provide that sort of service.

More phones for more people! Every working day over 1,100 phones will be added to meet the growing demand for service. By the end of 1955, New York will boast 6,591,000 telephones – more than any other country in the world.

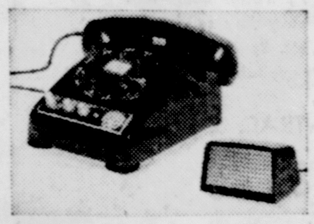
Long Distance calls even faster! In 18 more upstate communities, operators will dial your call direct to the telephones in distant towns—thanks to remarkable new equipment to be installed in 1955. Just another one of the great things ahead for phone service this year.

Nine out of ten will have dial! Dial service is coming to six more communities on Long Island, two in Westchester and four upstate. By year's end, over 90% of all phones served by New York Telephone Company will be dial.

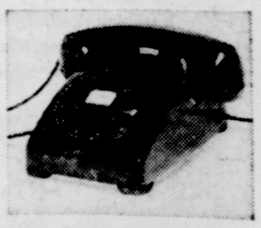


MORE SPECIAL PHONE FEATURES FOR YOU IN '55

Button-control telephone. Just press the buttons for outside calls, to hold calls on a line, or call other phones in your office or home.



Executive phone. A loudspeaker and microphone arrangement lets you talk and listen without using the receiver, leaving your hands free. Or you can press a button and use as a regular phone.



Extension phones. For kitchen, bedroom, workshop—any room in the house. An extension saves steps, saves time—costs less than 3¢ a day.

Car Checks May Cost $2, Less; One Man Would Do It Free

Albany, Jan. 19—Upstate car-owners may expect to pay $2 or less for inspection of their automobiles under the state's new periodic inspection program, it was indicated today by the Bureau of Motor Vehicles.

The Bureau reported that applicants for official inspection station licenses in the upstate area are filing proposed inspection fees averaging about $2 for passenger cars.

THE BUREAU'S report was based on an analysis of the first several hundred applications for station licenses filed by upstate garagemen. No figures have been compiled for New York city, where application forms were not distributed until last week.

Although no licenses have been issued thus far, the Bureau expects to have stations licensed in time to begin inspections May 1. Every vehicle registered in the state must display the approved inspection sticker starting next September 1.

The new inspection law, adopted unanimously by the 1954 Legislature, leaves the setting of inspection fees up to the official inspection stations, but empowers the motor vehicle commissioner to suspend or revoke a station's license if the charge is "excessive." Applicants are required to submit schedules of proposed fees when they apply for station licenses.

THE LAW DOES NOT require that a fee be charged for the semi-annual inspection and at least one applicant for an official station license has already indicated that he would make free inspections.

On upstate station applications thus far received, the proposed fees range from nothing to $5 for passenger car inspection, but in most cases the proposed fee is $2 or less.

Applications from the Buffalo area showed proposed fees ranging from $1 to $3.50. In Rochester, the average was $2 with a low of $1.50 and a high of $3.

In the Albany-Schenectady-Troy area, the range of proposed inspection fees was from $2 to $3.50, with an average slightly over $2.

In the Binghamton area proposed fees ranged from $1.25 to $3, and the average was less than $2. In Elmira, the range was $1.50 to $2 and the average was below $2.

Syracuse applications show a range of $1.75 to $3, and Utica from $1.50 to $3.50, with averages in both cases running over $2.

IN SEVERAL localities, automobile dealer organizations have recommended to their members certain maximum fees for passenger car inspection.

These recommendations of the dealer groups include: $1.50 in Buffalo, and $2 in Rochester, Broome County (Binghamton), Schenectady and Livingston County.

Clinic Scheduled On Child Diseases

A clinic for immunization against whooping cough, diphtheria, tetanus and smallpox will be conducted by the Ulster County Health Department, 15 Main street, Saturday, from 9:30 to 11:30 a. m.

Immunization for whooping cough should be started at three months of age; diphtheria and tetanus at six months and smallpox vaccination some time during the first year of life, the department advises.

These clinics serve those who may not otherwise secure these immunizations or for referral of patients by their physician.

Moore Addresses Lions on Thrift

Thrift and saving are essential to high national income and employment, Donald A. Moore, executive vice president of the Poughkeepsie Trust Company, said at a regular meeting of the Lions Club at the Governor Clinton Hotel on Tuesday.

The program was arranged in connection with local observance of National Thrift Week this week. Robert C. Murray, cashier of the State of New York National Bank, introduced the speaker.

Moore contended that it was the investment in "tools to provide more jobs that has lifted this nation to unparalleled heights," and such investments require dollars saved through thrift and economy.

"The expansion of plants and production equipment, the building of homes, public buildings, roads and the like require continued investment in durable goods requires continued thrift and saving," he said. "No level of income and employment can long persist if it is higher than the equilibrium level of saving and investment."

Moore said that the question has been asked whether there can be too much saving. "The answer is that saving will do no harm to national income so long as it is not greater than what business can profitably invest."

Thrift and saving develop, in the individual, character and independence that are "sorely needed in the world today," the speaker said. He advised his hearers that, "A part of what you earn is yours to keep.

"Enjoy life while you are here. Do not over-strain or try to save too much. If one-tenth of all you earn is as much as you can comfortably keep, be content and keep this portion. Live otherwise according to your income and let not yourself get stingy and afraid to spend. Life is good and life is rich with things worth while and things to enjoy," he quoted.

Doremus Divorce

According to an announcement from the law firm of Strickland, Strickland and Tull of Denver, Colo., Mrs. Mary F. Doremus, formerly Miss Mary F. Butler of this city, has obtained an interlocutory decree in divorce against Frederick H. Doremus, son of Mrs. Edward Doremus of High Falls, in District Court in and for the City and County of Denver, State of Colorado. The decree awarded sole care, custody and control of four minor children to Mrs. Doremus and provided for alimony and support payment to her of $500 a month.

Reno, Jan. 19 (AP)—The Ty Cobbs have settled their differences and will take an ocean voyage. Mrs. Frances C. Cobb, 45, yesterday withdrew the divorce suit she filed Jan. 7, and her attorney, Harlan Heward, said, "they are very much in love." Baseball's once great "Georgia Peach," 66, and Mrs. Cobb were married in 1949 at Buffalo, N. Y. It was Cobb's second marriage.

Dies Under Train

Battle Creek, Mich., Jan. 19 (AP)—Standing on the tracks with her arms folded, Mrs. Pearl Roscoe, 65, calmly faced the New York Central's passenger train, The Mercury, yesterday as it swiftly bore down on her. Moments later she died beneath the wheels of its big locomotive. The woman was the mother of Robert Roscoe, 28, who was committed to the Ionia State Hospital for the Criminally Insane for the slaying of Mrs. Beulah Pontius last July 12.

Idea Is Abandoned

Washington, Jan. 19 (AP)—New York city's air traffic experts have abandoned the dream of using skyscraper roofs for helicopter landings. They now believe that, generally speaking, rooftop heliports will be limited to buildings no taller than three or four stories The American Helicopter Society was advised on this, at a dinner meeting here last night, by Thomas Sullivan, chief of aviation planning for the Port of New York Authority.

Card of Thanks

I wish to express my sincere thanks to my many relatives, neighbors and friends for their kind expressions of sympathy and many acts of kindness shown me during my recent bereavement in the death of my mother, Mrs. Caroline Bittner.

Late Bulletin

Boston, Jan. 19 (AP)—Brunette 17-year-old Toby Green appealed through the steel bars of a state prison window today to her father to give up the revolt he is leading in an attempted prison break.

The father, bank robber Theodore "Teddy" Green, 39, is the acknowledged ringleader of three other tough, armed convicts who are holding five guards as hostages. They have stood off heavily armed police and guards since shortly after 5 a. m. Tuesday.

Green's daughter, her face serious, as though on the verge of tears, stood in the prison courtyard about 15 minutes talking and listening through the low window of the besieged solitary confinement block.

Warden John H. O'Brien said later the meeting apparently failed to soften Green. The warden said he asked the girl as she left the prison, "how does it look?" And she shook her head, looking thoroughly depressed, and said nothing.

Toby's talk with her father was the third family appeal made to Green to end the revolt. Toby and her mother had talked to him by telephone last night.

Washington, Jan. 19 (AP)—President Eisenhower said today he knows of no military authority who considers either Yikiangshan, the island outpost now reported all but overrun by the Chinese Communists, or the nearby Tachen islands, as essential to the the defense of Formosa.

His statement at a news conference lent new weight to earlier indications that the United States is curtailing its commitments in defence of the Chinese Nationalist stronghold on Formosa to the minimum called for under the new Mutual Defense Pact with Chiang Kai-shek.

IT HAD BECOME apparent that this country will not use the American 7th fleet in defense of the Tachens.

Eisenhower conceded that the Tachens, reported under increasing Red air pressure, are more important defensively than Yikiankshan which lies 200 miles north of the Nationalist redoubt.

He said the Tachens are manned by Nationalist regular troops, in contrast to Yikiangshan where there are only guerrillias, and that they have a value as an outpost for Formosa.

Johnston Pays Du Vall Tribute

Eric Johnston, president of the Motion Picture Association of America, yesterday said that the death of Frederick W. DuVall, 62, in Montclair, N. J., Monday, is a great loss in the motion picture industry.

DuVall, a native of Napanoch, had been with the association for more than 25 years, and was treasurer since 1948.

"The loss of Fred DuVall," said Johnston, "will be felt deeply and grievously by his colleagues. The entire motion picture industry is indebted to him for his long years of devoted, faithful and able service. He was dedicated to the industry's interests.

"THE TRIBUTE that those who knew Fred DuVall personally, will pay him," he said, "is their abiding affection and lasting respect for him. His passing has created a void among us, which is a monument to his fine character and unusual competence. It will always be easy to remember Fred DuVall, and impossible to forget him."

DuVall's funeral is to be held from the Arthur Brown Funeral Home, Montclair, tomorrow. Burial will be in Fantinekill Cemetery, Ellenville.

Progress Claims Made by 2 Sides

San Jose, Costa Rica, Jan. 19 (AP)—Costa Rica's government and rebels swapped new progress claims today as inter-American observers moved toward the Nicaraguan frontier to take up watch against possible rebel reinforcements.

As the rebellion moved into its eighth day, these were the top developments:

The general staff announced that advanced government units battled rebel troops north of Santa Rosa in "hard" fighting yesterday afternoon and a spokesman declared: "We've got them on the run there." Santa Rosa is near the Inter-American highway, about 40 miles from the northwestern frontier with Nicaragua. President Jose Figueres said he had heard the fighting stopped at sundown.

THE REBEL RADIO claimed its forces had been reinforced by 300 men in the La Cruz region, about 25 miles north of Santa Rosa.

Neutral sources estimated at least 500 rebels were operating in the northwest. The government force in the immediate area of Santa Rosa was put at about 275 men.

Fifteen observers representing the organization of American states prepared to watch the Nicaraguan-Costa Rican frontier for any rebel reinforcements or supplies crossing the border. The chairman of a five-nation OAS investigating commission warned the observers to stay out of rebel-controlled territory.

Costa Rica has accused neighboring Nicaragua of arming, training and suppying the insurgent forces, a charge denied by Nicaragua.

Nautilus Ends First Trial

Groton, Conn., Jan. 19 (AP)—The atomic-powered submarine Nautilus returned to her dock here at 1:02 p. m. (EST) today, after completing her builders' trial.

A sustained blast from the whistles of the Electric Boat Division where she was built signalled the end of man's first voyage under nuclear power. She had been at sea 50 hours one minute.

Three Children Are Suffocated

South Amboy, N. J., Jan. 19 (AP)—Three young children of a fireman, including a pair of twins, suffocated early today in a blaze that swept their frame home here.

The victims were Geraldine and Jacqueline Deliman, both 3 and their 2-year-old brother, Raymond Jr.

Their father, Raymond, 38, suffered first and second degree burns as flames tore through the two-story dwelling. He was taken to South Amboy Memorial Hospital.

HIS WIFE, who had been sleeping downstairs with a one-month-old daughter, fled to safety with the infant. They were unhurt.

Deliman, who was upstairs, heard his wife's screams when the fire broke out in the living room. He raced down, but found his way blocked by a wall of quick-spreading flames when he tried to get back to his other youngsters on the second floor.

Police Chief John Gleason said the fire apparently was caused by a faulty kerosene heater in the living room.

Four firefighters at the scene were hurt or affected by smoke. They were released after treatment at the hospital.

British Spike Their Milk

London, Jan. 19 (AP)—A big London dairy began production today of an alcoholic milkshake—a potent brew of three parts milk and honey to one part whiskey—to sell for the equivalent of 35 cents a four-ounce slug.

The lacteal liquor was thought up by Brian Laidlaw, a director of a suburban dairy chain, after his firm's fruit-flavored milk scored a big hit with the local small fry.

"We decided that if the kids liked it, their fathers might go for something similar with a kick in it," he said.

After tests, the government gave the dairy a license yesterday.

Farm Board Has Program For Governor; Aim Is Given

Albany, Jan. 19 (AP)—The Conference Board of Farm Organizations has given Gov. Harriman and legislative leaders a program it says is geared to "self help."

The board representing eight big farm organizations laid the legislative program before the governor yesterday and said the government never should try to take over "functions which farmers can perform for themselves on a self-help basis."

TWENTY MEMBERS met with Harriman in the executive chamber and later with Republican majority leaders of the Legislature.

Edward S. Foster, conference secretary, said afterward that the governor had "made no commitments, and we sought none."

The program urged the state to take "strong leadership" to improve milk distributing, merchandising and promoting techniques. But it said that "under no circumstances should the state engage in milk advertising."

The program added that federal indemnities "do not appear to meet the needs of New York state" on brucellosis, a disease affecting cattle. Because of differences over the best age to vaccinate beef animals, the report said, "probably not more than half of the positive animals can qualify for federal indemnities."

STATE FUNDS should be devoted to accelerating the state's present control program rather than supplementing federal indemnities, the board asserted.

Gasoline taxation was endorsed in the program as "the most equitable method of financing roads."

The board suggested increased research in ornamental horticulture, bird and pest control, poultry disease and a potato blight known as golden nematode.

OTHER POINTS in the program were:

1. Continuing the freeze on equalization rates as applied to school and highway aid.
2. A $10,000 appropriation for a Cornell University study of migrant workers' problems.
3. An open season on doe in agricultural counties next fall.
4. Addition of six food inspectors by the Agricultural Department.
5. Taxation of production credit associations on the same basis as state and national banks.
6. Increase livestock facilities at the College of Agriculture.

The Conference Board represents the State Farm Bureau, the Grange League Federation, the Dairymen's League, the Home Bureau, the State Grange, Poultry Council and the State Vegetable Growers' Assn.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Jan. 19 (AP)—The stock market advanced today for the second straight time following its bad break of Monday. About two-thirds of the Monday loss now has been retraced.

The rise today was well distributed throughout most major divisions with buying favor shifting from one section to another with a moderate intensity.

The more bullishly inclined brokers were disappointed over the low volume of business coming from the rise. It was at a rate well below yesterday's 3,020,000 shares.

News of Interest to Fraternal Organizations

The regular meeting of Kingston Lodge 970, Loyal Order of Moose, will be held Thursday evening at 8 o'clock in the Moose Temple, 156 West Chestnut street. A large attendance is requested.

Turkey Output Drops'

Albany, Jan. 19 (AP)—The 1955 turkey output in New York state is expected to be 5 per cent below last year's. The New York crop reporting service estimated today that 969,000 turkeys would be raised this year compared with 1,020,000 in 1935. It said the most frequent reason given by growers for their planned reduction was that turkey prices fell last year and there was no comparable drop in feed prices.

Labor Department Says Fraud Issue Can Be Eliminated

Albany, Jan. 19 (AP)—Investigation showed that about 2½ per cent of unemployment insurance claims last year were fraudulent, the State Labor Department reports.

Richard C. Brockway, executive director of the department's employment division, declared yesterday that "much of the fraud that now goes undetected" could be stopped if his agency had the money to check up on claimants regularly.

Brockway reported the results of what he called an "exhaustive" inquiry into a cross-section of claims for jobless benefits. The survey was financed by federal funds.

THE REPORT followed an assertion by the state conference on unemployment insurance, which says it represents 73 employers' groups, that one out of four persons collecting benefits last year was not actually looking for work.

The conference called for legislation to bar what it called "windfall profits" for such persons.

Meanwhile, proposals to increase jobless benefit maximums from $30 to $36 a week came in for criticism from the Empire State Chamber of Commerce.

WILLIAM A. MILLS, the chamber's executive vice president, estimated yesterday that the plan would cost employers in the state an additional $21,750,000 a year. He said "this would further aggravate New York's already precarious competitive position" in industry.

The Democratic state administration and the Republican majorities in the Legislature each have called for increases in maximum benefits. Employers bear the full cost of the program.

Brockway said in a report to Industrial Commissioner Isador Lubin that 75 investigators had checked on 2,033 of the 200,000 claims for benefits that were on the books last March 21 to 27.

Fifty-one cases of fraud and 30 cases of incorrect payments not involving fraud were uncovered, Brockway reported. Most of the alleged frauds involved persons collecting benefits while holding jobs, he said.

The inquiry was financed by a $75,000 federal grant in an experiment to find out whether additional controls and funds were needed.

Fire Coverage

at Albany. All three entered into the discussion period and answered questions.

THE ASSOCIATION was guest of Weiner Hose Company and following the meeting at the meeting at the city hall a social hour was held at central fire station.

The meeting was well attended with 75 per cent of the membership being represented. The next meeting will be held in the town of Ulster on Tuesday evening, February 15, when the Association will be the guests of Ulster Hose Company, No. 5.

Two new fire companies have become members of the Association, Onteora Hose Company of Mt. Tremper and Malden-West Camp company of Malden. There are now 68 companies in the county.

CHIEF WINFRED SNYDER of Hurley reported progress on the two-way radio communications system which has been under discussion for some time and the membership felt that it will not be long before Ulster county joins most other counties of the state with radio control communications for the volunteer firemen of the county. Recently the board of supervisors were notified by the owners that a control tower could be erectd on the Minnewaska property.

President William Ulrich of Wallkill presided at the meeting.

Delegates were named to the New York State Firemen's Association convention to be held at Lake George on September 12 to 16, and the Hudson Valley Volunteer Firemen's Association Convention in Kingston on June 16-18. William Ulrich was named to attend the State convention and Chief Joseph L. Murphy will attend the Hudson Valley convention.

THE VOLUNTEERS indicated during the session that they are willing to go along with fire companies in smaller communities in their holding of a convention without a parade.

This was indicated when Elder Smith, of Modena, first vice president, said he would invite the convention in 1956 if a parade were not required. He suggested a field day with firefighting demonstrations, and this appeared to be acceptable at the session.

Diesels Are Cheaper

Experts estimate that if the work now being done by Diesel locomotives on American railroads were done by steam locomotives, it would cost two million dollars a year more.

Termination of

of offices which overall do not attract any other substantial business and consequently operate at considerable loss. There is even less reason for the continuance of such offices in the instant case where the principal (local) shipper via express (Valley Gardens, Inc.,) finds it more expedient to avoid the use of the local office for outgoing shipments," using Binghamton, Kingston and Troy for shipping points instead.

He adds that "it appears, in fact, that transportation to and from Accord and High Falls has been so unsatisfactory that the use of those offices has in large part been shunned by many express patrons in favor of the superior facilities and service obtainable by the use of express offices at Ellenville, Kingston and other relatively nearby points."

After closure of the two express offices, shipments to and from Accord will be handled at the company's Ellenville office and those for High Falls will be handled at Kingston.

No Bail . . .

had been there that he learned of his mother's death.

Placing a hand on Sheppard's shoulder, Dr. Richard said to him:

"You must know why we are here."

Quietly he added:

"Dad passed away tonight."

Sheppard sobbed, his head in his hands.

The two Sheppard brothers said their father "lost his will to live" after his wife, locked in an upstairs bedroom, put a .32 caliber revolver to her head, leaving a note saying she "could not manage without dad."

HIS CONDITION, poor since then, took a turn for the worse earlier in the day, Dr. Richard said.

Sheppard came to Cleveland about 1923. In 1935 he founded what later became the Bay View Hospital. He was a former president of the National Osteopathic Hospital Association and the American College of Osteopathic Surgeons.

The elder Sheppard bore most of the burden of the hospital's surgical work during the more than nine weeks his youngest son was on trial, accused of clubbing to death his pregnant, 31-year-old wife, Marilyn, as she lay in bed July 4. His other sons were at the courthouse daily.

During the trial, which started Oct. 18 the elder doctor became ill. He was in the hospital Dec. 21 when his son was convicted of second degree murder and sentenced to life imprisonment.

Attorneys for Sheppard, who maintains an intruder committed the crime, have asked the appellate court to release the prisoner on bail pending the appeal. The court took the matter under advisement.

Dies Under Train

Battle Creek, Mich., Jan. 19 (AP)—Standing on the tracks with her arms folded, Mrs. Pearl Roscoe, 65, calmly faced the New York Central's passenger train, The Mercury, yesterday as it swiftly bore down on her. Moments later she died beneath the wheels of its big locomotive. The woman was the mother of Robert Roscoe, 28, who was committed to the Ionia State Hospital for the Criminally Insane for the slaying of Mrs. Beulah Pontius last July 12.

Idea Is Abandoned

Washington, Jan. 19 (AP)—New York city's air traffic experts have abandoned the dream of using skyscraper roofs for helicopter landings. They now believe that, generally speaking, rooftop heliports will be limited to buildings no taller than three or four stories The American Helicopter Society was advised on this, at a dinner meeting here last night, by Thomas Sullivan, chief of aviation planning for the Port of New York Authority.

Card of Thanks

I wish to express my sincere thanks to my many relatives, neighbors and friends for their kind expressions of sympathy and many acts of kindness shown me during my recent bereavement in the death of my mother, Mrs. Caroline Bittner.

Signed,

Late Bulletin

Boston, Jan. 19 (AP)—Brunette 17-year-old Toby Green appealed through the steel bars of a state prison window today to her father to give up the revolt he is leading in an attempted prison break.

The father, bank robber Theodore "Teddy" Green, 39, is the acknowledged ringleader of three other tough, armed convicts who are holding five guards as hostages. They have stood off heavily armed police and guards since shortly after 5 a. m. Tuesday.

Green's daughter, her face serious, as though on the verge of tears, stood in the prison courtyard about 15 minutes talking and listening through the low window of the besieged solitary confinement block.

Warden John H. O'Brien said later the meeting apparently failed to soften Green. The warden said he asked the girl as she left the prison, "how does it look?" And she shook her head, looking thoroughly depressed, and said nothing.

Toby's talk with her father was the third family appeal made to Green to end the revolt. Toby and her mother had talked to him by telephone last night.

Washington, Jan. 19 (AP)—President Eisenhower said today he knows of no military authority who considers either Yikiangshan, the island outpost now reported all but overrun by the Chinese Communists, or the nearby Tachen islands, as essential to the the defense of Formosa.

His statement at a news conference lent new weight to earlier indications that the United States is curtailing its commitments in defence of the Chinese Nationalist stronghold on Formosa to the minimum called for under the new Mutual Defense Pact with Chiang Kai-shek.

IT HAD BECOME apparent that this country will not use the American 7th fleet in defense of the Tachens.

Eisenhower conceded that the Tachens, reported under increasing Red air pressure, are more important defensively than Yikiankshan which lies 200 miles north of the Nationalist redoubt.

He said the Tachens are manned by Nationalist regular troops, in contrast to Yikiangshan where there are only guerrillias, and that they have a value as an outpost for Formosa.

Progress Claims Made by 2 Sides

San Jose, Costa Rica, Jan 19 (AP)—Costa Rica's government and rebels swapped new progress claims today as inter-American observers moved toward the Nicaraguan frontier to take up watch against possible rebel reinforcements.

As the rebellion moved into its eighth day, these were the top developments:

The general staff announced that advanced government units battled rebel troops north of Santa Rosa in "hard" fighting yesterday afternoon and a spokesman declared: "We've got them on the run there." Santa Rosa is near the Inter-American highway, about 40 miles from the northwestern frontier with Nicaragua. President Jose Figueres said he had heard the fighting stopped at sundown.

THE REBEL RADIO claimed its forces had been reinforced by 300 men in the La Cruz region, about 25 miles north of Santa Rosa.

Neutral sources estimated at least 500 rebels were operating in the northwest. The government force in the immediate area of Santa Rosa was put at about 275 men.

Fifteen observers representing the organization of American states prepared to watch the Nicaraguan-Costa Rican frontier for any rebel reinforcements or supplies crossing the border. The chairman of a five-nation OAS investigating commission warned the observers to stay out of rebel-controlled territory.

Costa Rica has accused neighboring Nicaragua of arming, training and suppying the insurgent forces, a charge denied by Nicaragua.

Johnston Pays Du Vall Tribute

Eric Johnston, president of the Motion Picture Association of America, yesterday said that the death of Frederick W. DuVall, 62, in Montclair, N. J., Monday, is a great loss in the motion picture industry.

DuVall, a native of Napanoch, had been with the association for more than 25 years, and was treasurer since 1948.

"The loss of Fred DuVall," said Johnston, "will be felt deeply and grievously by his colleagues. The entire motion picture industry is indebted to him for his long years of devoted, faithful and able service. He was dedicated to the industry's interests.

"THE TRIBUTE that those who knew Fred DuVall personally, will pay him," he said, "is their abiding affection and lasting respect for him. His passing has created a void among us, which is a monument to his fine character and unusual competence. It will always be easy to remember Fred DuVall, and impossible to forget him."

DuVall's funeral is to be held from the Arthur Brown Funeral Home, Montclair, tomorrow. Burial will be in Fantinekill Cemetery, Ellenville.

Nautilus Ends First Trial

Groton, Conn., Jan. 19 (AP)—The atomic-powered submarine Nautilus returned to her dock here at 1:02 p. m. (EST) today, after completing her builders' trial.

A sustained blast from the whistles of the Electric Boat Division where she was built signalled the end of man's first voyage under nuclear power. She had been at sea 50 hours one minute.

Three Children Are Suffocated

South Amboy, N. J., Jan. 19 (AP)—Three young children of a fireman, including a pair of twins, suffocated early today in a blaze that swept their frame home here.

The victims were Geraldine and Jacqueline Deliman, both 3 and their 2-year-old brother, Raymond Jr.

Their father, Raymond, 38, suffered first and second degree burns as flames tore through the two-story dwelling. He was taken to South Amboy Memorial Hospital.

HIS WIFE, who had been sleeping downstairs with a one-month-old daughter, fled to safety with the infant. They were unhurt.

Deliman, who was upstairs, heard his wife's screams when the fire broke out in the living room. He raced down, but found his way blocked by a wall of quick-spreading flames when he tried to get back to his other youngsters on the second floor.

Police Chief John Gleason said the fire apparently was caused by a faulty kerosene heater in the living room.

British Spike Their Milk

London, Jan. 19 (AP)—A big London dairy began production today of an alcoholic milkshake—a potent brew of three parts milk and honey to one part whiskey—to sell for the equivalent of 35 cents a four-ounce slug.

The lacteal liquor was thought up by Brian Laidlaw, a director of a suburban dairy chain, after his firm's fruit-flavored milk scored a big hit with the local small fry.

"We decided that if the kids liked it, their fathers might go for something similar with a kick in it," he said.

After tests, the government gave the dairy a license yesterday.

Farm Board Has Program For Governor; Aim Is Given

Albany, Jan. 19 (AP)—The Conference Board of Farm Organizations has given Gov. Harriman and legislative leaders a program it says is geared to "self help."

The board representing eight big farm organizations laid the legislative program before the governor yesterday and said the government never should try to take over "functions which farmers can perform for themselves on a self-help basis."

TWENTY MEMBERS met with Harriman in the executive chamber and later with Republican majority leaders of the Legislature.

Edward S. Foster, conference secretary, said afterward that the governor had "made no commitments, and we sought none."

The program urged the state to take "strong leadership" to improve milk distributing, merchandising and promoting techniques. But it said that "under no circumstances should the state engage in milk advertising."

The program added that federal indemnities "do not appear to meet the needs of New York state" on brucellosis, a disease affecting cattle. Because of differences over the best age to vaccinate beef animals, the report said, "probably not more than half of the positive animals can qualify for federal indemnities."

STATE FUNDS should be devoted to accelerating the state's present control program rather than supplementing federal indemnities, the board asserted.

Gasoline taxation was endorsed in the program as "the most equitable method of financing roads."

The board suggested increased research in ornamental horticulture, bird and pest control, poultry disease and a potato blight known as golden nematode.

OTHER POINTS in the program were:

1. Continuing the freeze on equalization rates as applied to school and highway aid.
2. A $10,000 appropriation for a Cornell University study of migrant workers' problems.
3. An open season on doe in agricultural counties next fall.
4. Addition of six food inspectors by the Agricultural Department.
5. Taxation of production credit associations on the same basis as state and national banks.
6. Increase livestock facilities at the College of Agriculture.

The Conference Board represents the State Farm Bureau, the Grange League Federation, the Dairymen's League, the Home Bureau, the State Grange, Poultry Council and the State Vegetable Growers' Assn.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Jan. 19 (AP)—The stock market advanced today for the second straight time following its bad break of Monday. About two-thirds of the Monday loss now has been retraced.

The rise today was well distributed throughout most major divisions with buying favor shifting from one section to another with a moderate intensity.

The more bullishly inclined brokers were disappointed over the low volume of business coming from the rise. It was at a rate well below yesterday's 3,020,000 shares.

Turkey Output Drops'

Albany, Jan. 19 (AP)—The 1955 turkey output in New York state is expected to be 5 per cent below last year's. The New York crop reporting service estimated today that 969,000 turkeys would be raised this year compared with 1,020,000 in 1935. It said the most frequent reason given by growers for their planned reduction was that turkey prices fell last year and there was no comparable drop in feed prices.

Labor Department Says Fraud Issue Can Be Eliminated

Albany, Jan. 19 (AP)—Investigation showed that about 2½ per cent of unemployment insurance claims last year were fraudulent, the State Labor Department reports.

Richard C. Brockway, executive director of the department's employment division, declared yesterday that "much of the fraud that now goes undetected" could be stopped if his agency had the money to check up on claimants regularly.

Brockway reported the results of what he called an "exhaustive" inquiry into a cross-section of claims for jobless benefits. The survey was financed by federal funds.

THE REPORT followed an assertion by the state conference on unemployment insurance, which says it represents 73 employers' groups, that one out of four persons collecting benefits last year was not actually looking for work.

The conference called for legislation to bar what it called "windfall profits" for such persons.

Meanwhile, proposals to increase jobless benefit maximums from $30 to $36 a week came in for criticism from the Empire State Chamber of Commerce.

WILLIAM A. MILLS, the chamber's executive vice president, estimated yesterday that the plan would cost employers in the state an additional $21,750,000 a year. He said "this would further aggravate New York's already precarious competitive position" in industry.

The Democratic state administration and the Republican majorities in the Legislature each have called for increases in maximum benefits. Employers bear the full cost of the program.

Brockway said in a report to Industrial Commissioner Isador Lubin that 75 investigators had checked on 2,033 of the 200,000 claims for benefits that were on the books last March 21 to 27.

Fifty-one cases of fraud and 30 cases of incorrect payments not involving fraud were uncovered, Brockway reported. Most of the alleged frauds involved persons collecting benefits while holding jobs, he said.

The inquiry was financed by a $75,000 federal grant in an experiment to find out whether additional controls and funds were needed.

Fire Coverage

at Albany. All three entered into the discussion period and answered questions.

THE ASSOCIATION was guest of Weiner Hose Company and following the meeting at the meeting at the city hall a social hour was held at central fire station.

The meeting was well attended with 75 per cent of the membership being represented. The next meeting will be held in the town of Ulster on Tuesday evening, February 15, when the Association will be the guests of Ulster Hose Company, No. 5.

Two new fire companies have become members of the Association, Onteora Hose Company of Mt. Tremper and Malden-West Camp company of Malden. There are now 68 companies in the county.

CHIEF WINFRED SNYDER of Hurley reported progress on the two-way radio communications system which has been under discussion for some time and the membership felt that it will not be long before Ulster county joins most other counties of the state with radio control communications for the volunteer firemen of the county. Recently the board of supervisors were notified by the owners that a control tower could be erectd on the Minnewaska property.

President William Ulrich of Wallkill presided at the meeting.

Delegates were named to the New York State Firemen's Association convention to be held at Lake George on September 12 to 16, and the Hudson Valley Volunteer Firemen's Association Convention in Kingston on June 16-18. William Ulrich was named to attend the State convention and Chief Joseph L. Murphy will attend the Hudson Valley convention.

THE VOLUNTEERS indicated during the session that they are willing to go along with fire companies in smaller communities in their holding of a convention without a parade.

This was indicated when Elder Smith, of Modena, first vice president, said he would invite the convention in 1956 if a parade were not required. He suggested a field day with firefighting demonstrations, and this appeared to be acceptable at the session.

Diesels Are Cheaper

Experts estimate that if the work now being done by Diesel locomotives on American railroads were done by steam locomotives, it would cost two million dollars a year more.

Assignments Are Made at Capital

Washington, Jan. 19 (AP)—House Republicans agreed today on committee assignments for their 203 members, completing organizational routine for the House.

Democrats, who are in the majority, previously had made their assignments.

The GOP assignments, worked out by a special committee and subject to formal approval by the House tomorrow, include:

Agriculture: Williams of New York.

Appropriations: Taber, Coudert and Ostertag of New York.

Armed services: Cole of New York.

Banking and currency: Gamble of New York.

Education and labor: Gwinn, Bosch and Wainwright of New York.

Foreign affairs: Hadwan of New York.

Government Operations: Riehlman of New York.

Interior and Insular Affairs: Wharton and Pillion of New York.

Interstate and Foreign Commerce: Derounian of New York.

Judiciary: Keating of New York, Miller of New York, Taylor of New York.

Merchant Marine and Fisheries: Ray and Dorn of New York.

Post Office and Civil Service: St. George of New York.

Public Works: Becker of New York.

Rules: Latham of New York.

Un-American Activities: Kearney of New York.

Veterans Affairs: Kearney and Fino of New York.

Ways and Means: Reed of New York.

Termination of

of offices which overall do not attract any other substantial business and consequently operate at considerable loss. There is even less reason for the continuance of such offices in the instant case where the principal (local) shipper via express (Valley Gardens, Inc.,) finds it more expedient to avoid the use of the local office for outgoing shipments," using Binghamton, Kingston and Troy for shipping points instead.

He adds that "it appears, in fact, that transportation to and from Accord and High Falls has been so unsatisfactory that the use of those offices has in large part been shunned by many express patrons in favor of the superior facilities and service obtainable by the use of express offices at Ellenville, Kingston and other relatively nearby points."

After closure of the two express offices, shipments to and from Accord will be handled at the company's Ellenville office and those for High Falls will be handled at Kingston.

No Bail . . .

had been there that he learned of his mother's death.

Placing a hand on Sheppard's shoulder, Dr. Richard said to him:

"You must know why we are here."

Quietly he added:

"Dad passed away tonight."

Sheppard sobbed, his head in his hands.

The two Sheppard brothers said their father "lost his will to live" after his wife, locked in an upstairs bedroom, put a .32 caliber revolver to her head, leaving a note saying she "could not manage without dad."

HIS CONDITION, poor since then, took a turn for the worse earlier in the day, Dr. Richard said.

Sheppard came to Cleveland about 1923. In 1935 he founded what later became the Bay View Hospital. He was a former president of the National Osteonathic Hospital Association and the American College of Osteopath'c Surgeons.

The elder Sheppard bore most of the burden of the hospital's surgical work during the more than nine weeks his youngest son was on trial, accused of clubbing to death his pregnant, 31-year-old wife, Marilyn, as she lay in bed July 4. His other sons were at the courthouse daily.

During the trial, which started Oct. 18 the elder doctor became ill. He was in the hospital Dec. 21 when his son was convicted of second degree murder and sentenced to life imprisonment.

Attorneys for Sheppard, who maintains an intruder committed the crime, have asked the appellate court to release the prisoner on bail pending the appeal. The court took the matter under advisement.

Bills Proposed In Legislature

Albany, Jan. 19 (AP)—A Republican senator proposes repeal of a state law barring public officials and party officers from jobs with companies that do business with race tracks.

Sen. William F. Condon of Yonkers yesterday introduced a bill in the Legislature that would strike the ban out of a law enacted last year in a crackdown following the harness race scandals.

The present law forbids public officers and employes and party officers from holding any office or employment with persons or firms that have an interest in a track where parimutuel betting is permitted. It applies to BHT thoroughbred and harness tracks.

MUNICIPAL employes earning less than $5,000 a year are exempt from the statute. Condon also introduced a bill to repeal that exemption, which would be unnecessary if the first measure were adopted.

Other measures introduced yesterday would:

Amend the constitution to set up a separate motor vehicle department, replacing the present motor vehicle bureau of the taxation and finance department (Sen. John F. Furey, D.-Brooklyn.)

Broaden the youthful offender law to apply to persons between 16 and 21 years of age, instead of 16 to 19 (Sen. John J. Donovan, Jr., D.-Bronx.)

Provide that detention of a person for trial as a youthful offender should not be deemed an arrest (Donovan).

PERMIT YOUTHFUL offenders, three years after discharge from probation, to ask court permission to get their fingerprint records, photographs and physical descriptions back from the correction department (Donovan).

Exempt from thruway tolls automobiles supplied to disabled veterans by the U. S. Veterans Administration (Furey).

Provide state aid of $1,800 a year for classes of eight or more mentally retarded children (Assemblyman Frank J. McMullen, R.-Brooklyn).

Require automobiles operated by drivers holding learners' permits to bear signs reading "Caution — Learner Driving" (Sen. Jacob H. Gilbert, D.-Bronx.)

Indians Own 9-Acre Tract

Riverhead, Jan. 19 (AP)—The Shinnecock Indians have been ruled the owners of a nine-acre tract on which a Long Island real estate company had started to build 29 houses.

Acting Suffolk County Judge Edgar F. Hazelton yesterday said the land, on the western border of the 400-acre Shinnecock Reservation, is part of a tract granted to the tribe by the town of Southampton in 1859.

Attorneys for the builder claimed the land has been privately owned and taxes paid on it since that year. They said they will appeal the decision.

MAYOR WISHES DOWNTOWN SUCCESS—Mayor Frederick H. Stang signs proclamation designating the remainder of January as bargain time for the Downtown Business Men's Association in presence of Henry Singer, president of the organization, and George M. Hard, representative of The Freeman business staff, who planned an advertising campaign for the merchants. (Freeman photo).

Youth Rally Set Saturday Night at Phoenicia Church

A youth rally will be held Saturday at 7:30 p. m. at the Phoenicia Baptist Church, the Rev. Leo Insinga, pastor, announced today.

The program will consist of a movie, Operation Orient, and several musical numbers including a vocal duet, saxophone solo, youth choir and boys' chorus. Don Robertson, a popular young people's conference speaker, will be guest speaker at this rally.

He also will speak at the regular 11 a. m. worship service Sunday and show slides of missionary work at 7:30 p. m. Sunday at the Phoenicia Baptist Church.

Robertson also will preach at the 2:15 p. m. service at the Clovesville Bible Baptist Church.

Bullet Mi[illegible]

Los Angeles, Jan. 19 (AP)—A [illegible] George (Georgie) Hormel, 26, piano-playing scion of the wealthy meat packing family, as he sat in his apartment early today, police reported. The bullet was fired through a window of his Laurel Canyon Boulevard residence. Only a week ago Hormel was acquitted of a marijuana possession charge. Hormel contended he had been framed and coached into a confession by narcotics officers. He was arrested Sept. 19 after officers said they found a bundle of 13 marijuana cigarettes in his car.

Man's Body Found

New York, Jan. 19 (AP)—The body of a man, with a bullet wound in the back of the head, was found today in an automobile in the east New York section of Brooklyn. Police said the man apparently was the victim of a gang ride. They said that recently there have been several mysterious killings in the section, which is in the area where the old murder-for-hire gang operated several years ago.

Had Rocks in Head

Chickasha, Okla., Jan. 19 (AP)—An 18-year-old girl who literally had rocks in her head since childhood said she is feeling much better after a surprised doctor removed five pebbles from her nose cavity. Mildred Taylor remembers stuffing a handful of pebbles up her nose when she was 3. "It's wonderful," she said after the minor operation. "This is the first time I've breathed out of that side of my nose."

Houston Crusade Featured Topic In Graham Movie

The Rev. Billy Graham, nationally known evangelist and producer of the world's first Christian western film Mr. Texas will be seen in another religious film, Oiltown, U. S. A., to be presented Jan. 21-22 in the Bethany Hall, Old Dutch Church.

The Kingston Ministerial Association in charge of local arrangements for the showing, announced that the picture will begin at 7:30 p. m. with the doors of the auditorium opened at 6:30 p. m.

GRAHAM'S FILM features the Evangelist and members of his team in their city-wide evangelistic crusade in Houston, Tex. Highlighting the film are scenes from the meeting in Rice Stadium where 60,000 gathered to hear Graham for one of the largest evangelistic meetings in American history.

Featured in the film are professional Hollywood players who have become Christians themselves, including Colleen Townsend Evans, Georgie Lee, Paul Power, Robert Clarke and the stars of Mr. Texas, Redd Harper and Cindy Walker. Oiltown, U. S. A. is in natural color and is approximately 90 minutes in length.

The Rev. Donald E. Brown, president of the KMA pointed out that there is no charge for admission, and that the 400-plus seats in Bethany Hall will be on a "first come" basis.

A man who bragegd that he intended to remain a bachelor all his life told a close friend that he didn't say it for effect—he really meant it. The friend left town for a few months and when he returned he found that Charlie had suddenly married. He called him up and asked what had happened.

Charlie—I married a girl from Gimbel's. I used to buy at her counter and she was always considerate. I invited her to lunch one day, and one thing led to another—you know how it is.

Friend—Well, now that you're a settled married man, what do you think of it all?

After a brief pause, Charlie said,

Charlie—Sometimes I think I could have done better at Macy's.

PORT EWEN NEWS

Corps Still Seeking More Men for Unit

Port Ewen, Jan. 19—The regular rehearsal of the bugle section of the Port Ewen Drum Corps will be held Friday at 8:30 p. m., at the Town of Esopus Auditorium in Port Ewen. William Longdo of Waterford, the new bugle instructor, will be present to start new men in the bugle section. The drum corps is interested in having new men 16 years of age or over join at this meeting and get started in the new instruction.

Longdo has instructed such corps as Empire State Grenadiers, Imperials of Mechanicville, St. Mary's and other named drum corps. With the addition of Longdo, the drum corps has Vincent Ratford as drill instructor. Ratford has instructed such corps as Gabarina of New York, National American Legion Champions, Hackensack American Legion, Syracuse PLAV, Cohoes, Darby, Conn., and other top corps.

The drum corps also acquired the services of William Borner of Brooklyn who is drum instructor. Boerner has instructed Gabarina, Cohoes, New York Chinese Corps, St. Mary's of New Jersey and other top corps. He was captain of Gabarina when they were National American Legion champions. With the instructors, the drum corps is planning a big season. All instruction, instruments and equipment is furnished free of charge to members and it is hoped that many young men from the village will join the corps.

Village Notes

At the Presentation Church today at 7:30 p. m., Novena to Our Lady of Perpetual Help with sermon followed by Benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament and confessions. The Presentation Women's Club will hold its monthly meeting at the parish hall after the novena. Harry C. Jump and son, Cleon Jump, attended the motor boat show in New York Monday.

Tunnel Cars Planned

New York (AP)—Narrow-gauge electric cars are being tried out for use of patrolmen in the Holland and Lincoln tunnels under the Hudson river linking Manhattan and New Jersey. The cars have transparent plastic bodies, travel on a track on the raised 30-inch catwalks of the tunnels and have speeds of 6 and 12 miles an hour. They are planned for use by police who now walk the ledges to keep an eye on traffic. If use of the car is approved, four patrolmen would be able to do the work that now takes six. But cost of installing four cars in the two tunnels would be $700,000.

Savings-Loan Assets at Peak

Total assets of the Savings and Loan Association of Kingston have reached an all-time high, E. Frank Flanagan, president, reported at the annual shareholders' meeting held at the association building, 267 Wall street, on Friday night.

Shareholders reelected the following directors for three-year terms: Arthur H. Wicks, J. Richard Shults and Clarence S. Rowland.

Following the shareholders' meeting, the board of directors met and reelected all present officers, including Mr. Flanagan, president; H. Van Wyck Darrow, executive vice president; S. D. Scudder, Jr., secretary-treasurer; William R. Stall, cashier and Thomas Lebert, auditor.

REPORTING on one of the association's most successful years, President Flanagan pointed out that assets as of December 31, 1954, totaled $11,295,351.32, an increase of $371,247.27, or 6.9 per cent over last year.

"I look for an increased volume of loan business during 1955," Flanagan said. He pointed out that with the completion of the new IBM plant there will be many people in the market for new homes.

THE MORTGAGE PORTFOLIO—the amount outstanding on home loans—reached $10,011,704.26 as of Dec. 31, also a new all-time high. A total of 417 loans were closed during the year for a total amount of $2,033,562. Of this total, 82 were G.I. loans amounting to $672,775.12.

The Association has 7,715 members, of whom 5,638 were savers and 2,077 borrowers.

Dividends paid out to savers during 1954 totaled $225,474.34.

THE ASSOCIATION added $87,834.17 to its reserve fund in the past year, increasing its total reserves to $978,775.45, or 9.6 per cent of savings.

The number of mortgages satisfied during the year was 183.

President Flanagan, in his report, paid tribute to R. Frederick Chidsey, assistant secretary-treasurer, who passed away during the year. The meeting was adjourned out of respect to Mr. Chidsey.

A New Arrival!

GRANDMA BROWN'S grandchildren were always one of her greatest sources of happiness. It seemed that each new arrival as it came along was an even greater thrill than the last. Now with the same pride that every new grandparent feels, Grandma Brown is equally proud of the new addition to her product family. Ever since Grandma took the first pan of her delicious home baked beans out of the old kitchen range, the same painstaking methods of home preparation have been faithfully followed.

and now you can enjoy these wonderful home baked beans in a brand new can . . .

GRANDMA BROWN'S HOME BAKED BEANS in the Convenient New Casserole Can!

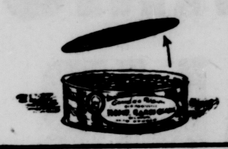
The Can's the Pan!

HEAT IN IT—SERVE IN IT!

Here's all you do to enjoy these real home baked beans at their best . . .

1. Completely remove the top of the can



2. Place opened can in pre-heated (450°) oven about 15 minutes, or under broiler until brown

3. Then SERVE 'em, right in their attractive can!

However You Buy Them,

Grandma Brown's Home Baked Beans are carefully baked in open pans—deliciously flavored with pork and spices. Serve them bubbling hot right from the oven or broiler, or they're delicious cold—especially in bean sandwiches.

PORT EWEN NEWS

Corps Still Seeking More Men for Unit

Port Ewen, Jan. 19—The regular rehearsal of the bugle section of the Port Ewen Drum Corps will be held Friday at 8:30 p. m., at the Town of Esopus Auditorium in Port Ewen. William Longdo of Waterford, the new bugle instructor, will be present to start new men in the bugle section. The drum corps is interested in having new men 16 years of age or over join at this meeting and get started in the new instruction.

Longdo has instructed such corps as Empire State Grenadiers, Imperials of Mechanicville, St. Mary's and other named drum corps. With the addition of Longdo, the drum corps has Vincent Ratford as drill instructor. Ratford has instructed such corps as Gabarina of New York, National American Legion Champions, Hackensack American Legion, Syracuse PLAV, Cohoes, Darby, Conn., and other top corps.

The drum corps also acquired the services of William Borner of Brooklyn who is drum instructor. Boerner has instructed Gabarina, Cohoes, New York Chinese Corps, St. Mary's of New Jersey and other top corps. He was captain of Gabarina when they were National American Legion champions. With the instructors, the drum corps is planning a big season. All instruction, instruments and equipment is furnished free of charge to members and it is hoped that many young men from the village will join the corps.

Tunnel Cars Planned

New York (AP)—Narrow-gauge electric cars are being tried out for use of patrolmen in the Holland and Lincoln tunnels under the Hudson river linking Manhattan and New Jersey. The cars have transparent plastic bodies, travel on a track on the raised 30-inch catwalks of the tunnels and have speeds of 6 and 12 miles an hour. They are planned for use by police who now walk the ledges to keep an eye on traffic. If use of the car is approved, four patrolmen would be able to do the work that now takes six. But cost of installing four cars in the two tunnels would be $700,000.

Savings-Loan Assets at Peak

Total assets of the Savings and Loan Association of Kingston have reached an all-time high, E. Frank Flanagan, president, reported at the annual shareholders' meeting held at the association building, 267 Wall street, on Friday night.

Shareholders reelected the following directors for three-year terms: Arthur H. Wicks, J. Richard Shults and Clarence S. Rowland.

Following the shareholders' meeting, the board of directors met and reelected all present officers, including Mr. Flanagan, president; H. Van Wyck Darrow, executive vice president; S. D. Scudder, Jr., secretary-treasurer; William R. Stall, cashier and Thomas Lebert, auditor.

REPORTING on one of the association's most successful years, President Flanagan pointed out that assets as of December 31, 1954, totaled $11,295,351.32, an increase of $371,247.27, or 6.9 per cent over last year.

"I look for an increased volume of loan business during 1955," Flanagan said. He pointed out that with the completion of the new IBM plant there will be many people in the market for new homes.

THE MORTGAGE PORTFOLIO—the amount outstanding on home loans—reached $10,011,704.26 as of Dec. 31, also a new all-time high. A total of 417 loans were closed during the year for a total amount of $2,033,562. Of this total, 82 were G.I. loans amounting to $672,775.12.

The Association has 7,715 members, of whom 5,638 were savers and 2,077 borrowers.

Dividends paid out to savers during 1954 totaled $225,474.34.

THE ASSOCIATION added $87,834.17 to its reserve fund in the past year, increasing its total reserves to $978,775.45, or 9.6 per cent of savings.

The number of mortgages satisfied during the year was 183.

President Flanagan, in his report, paid tribute to R. Frederick Chidsey, assistant secretary-treasurer, who passed away during the year. The meeting was adjourned out of respect to Mr. Chidsey.

Boy Scouts to Run Village February 7

Saugerties, Jan. 19 — Representatives of the Boy Scouts and Explorer Scouts met in convention at the regular meeting of the village board of trustees Monday night for the purpose of electing a mayor and other village officials.

The Scouts elected will administer the official business of the village on Monday, Feb. 7, which will be officially proclaimed as Boy Scout Day in Saugerties.

The innovation in Saugerties will be a part of the program for the national observance of Boy Scout Week Feb. 6 to 12.

The elections followed a hearty welcome by Mayor George P. Holmes who also explained the various functions of village government and indoctrinated the Scouts who will serve in official capacity on Scout Day.

The scouts elected were mayor, Richard Brackett, Troop 32; deputy mayor and street commissioner, James Mergendahl, Troop 32; police commissioner, Wilbur Wynne, Post 130; fire commissioner, Eugene Lang, Post 130; park commissioner, John Wey, Troop 31; sewer commissioner, Fred Kurtzweg, Troop 32; public building commissioner, Gordon Purchell, Troop 31, and superintendent of water department, William Schaffer, Post 130.

The water board appointed by the board of trustees included Edward Kime of Troop 35, president, Joseph Davi and John Barone, both of Troop 35.

Other officers designated were clerk of the water department, Wallace Michaels, Post 130; multiple dwelling inspector, Marzell Roming, Troop 32; police justice, Thomas Brennan, Troop 31; acting police justice, William Spring, Troop 32; village clerk and treasurer, Dale Ruby, Troop 36; chief of police, James Whitehead, Troop 36; fire chief, Joseph Buytkins, Troop 36; superintendent of public works, James Benison, Troop 36.

All Scout and Explorer units were represented except Troop 33 of Malden-West Camp and Troop 37, Quarryville.

Scout leaders in charge of the program were District Commissioner Eugene H. Davis, William C. Plimley, explorer advisor of Post 130, VFW; Raymond Ruby, vice-chairman of Saugerties District and scoutmaster of Troop 36, St. Mary's Church, and Kenneth Maclary, scoutmaster of Troop 32, Atonement Lutheran Church.

Also included on the program for Scout Week will be a huge district rally to be held in the municipal auditorium on Wednesday, Feb. 9, at which Cub Scouts, Boy Scouts ad Explorers will offer a presentation towards the evening's program.

During National Boy Scout Week various store windows in the business district will have scouting displays which will be set by the Scouts and their leaders.

Stowaway Caught

New York, Jan. 19 (AP)—Hartmut Liskow, a 21-year-old German stowaway, picked for traveling companions three circus elephants shipped here aboard the German liner Berlin. Liskow had worked as a circus roustabout and tended the elephants in Germany. When they were bought by the Ringling Brothers & Barnum & Bailey Circus he decided to come along to America. He spent most of the voyage hidden in the hold with the animals, sleeping on their hay and sharing the bread fed to them. He was discovered when he went on deck for air on the last day of the trip. When the ship docked yesterday, Capt. Heinrich Lorenz said Liskow, a fugitive from East Germany, had hoped to win political asylum in the United States. The steamship line said arrangements were being made to return him to Germany.

Mrs. Werner Presents Adult Civic Program

Saugerties, Jan. 19 — The Young Adult Civic Council will hear a variety program presentation from the American theatre by Mrs. Grace W. Werner, wife of the pastor of the Saugerties Methodist Church.

The presentation will be made at the Thursday meeting of the council to be held in the projection room of the Saugerties High School.

Mrs. Werner who recently made a 10-state tour in 10 days is a veteran of nearly 2,000 performances throughout the nation.

She is a member of the Board of School Assembly Service and currently appears in many of its programs in the country.

Mrs. Werner has studied drama at Bradley University and McCombe State Teachers College in Illinois, the Comer-Rice Studio Theatre in Chicago and has been a pupil of Maude Shearer at the Beaux Arts Studio in New York.

The agenda of the meeting will include a final report on the Christmas party and coming social events and committee reports on the community directory project. Mrs. Barbara L. Hildebrandt will preside.

Firemen to Sponsor Boy Scout Troop 35

Saugerties, Jan 19—At a special troop committee meeting held in the Glasco Fire Hall Monday night the Glasco Fire Company accepted sponsorship of Boy Scout Troop 35.

Scout officials of the troop registered are Institutional Representatives Louis S. Barone, Jr., Troop Chairman Michael Aiello, Committeemen Salvatore Davi, Louis S. Barone, Sr., and Anthony Riozzi.

The new Scoutmaster will be Orville Whitaker who served as assistant scoutmaster for Troop 32. The assignment for assistant scoutmaster was accepted by John J. Carpino.

Troop 35 under the new registration will meet on Tuesdays at 7:30 p. m. in the Glasco Fire Hall.

District Chairman John J. Wood Sr., was in attendance and assisted with arrangements for the re-registering of the troop and committee.

The assignment for neighborhood commissioner for Glasco will be announced at the next district meeting scheduled for Thursday, Feb. 3, at 8 p. m. in the meeting rooms of the Saugerties Reformed Church.

Stowaway Caught

New York, Jan. 19 (AP)—Hartmut Liskow, a 21-year-old German stowaway, picked for traveling companions three circus elephants shipped here aboard the German liner Berlin. Liskow had worked as a circus roustabout and tended the elephants in Germany. When they were bought by the Ringling Brothers & Barnum & Bailey Circus he decided to come along to America. He spent most of the voyage hidden in the hold with the animals, sleeping on their hay and sharing the bread fed to them. He was discovered when he went on deck for air on the last day of the trip. When the ship docked yesterday, Capt. Heinrich Lorenz said Liskow, a fugitive from East Germany, had hoped to win political asylum in the United States. The steamship line said arrangements were being made to return him to Germany.

Art's Mountaineers To Play for Dances, Stone Ridge Grange

The Stone Ridge Grange has announced that a new series of dances will begin Saturday at 9 p. m. Music will be furnished by Art's Mountaineers of Poughkeepsie for square and round dancing.

The dances at Stone Ridge had been held weekly since early 1952 until December. Effective this week the dances will be held every other Saturday.

THE MUSIC of Art's Mountaineers is under the direction of Arthur Schoonmaker of Poughkeepsie. He and his orchestra have been playing for over five years on alternating Saturdays at the Upton Lake Grange in Dutchess county. His orchestra consists of five musicians on piano, drums, banjo, base and saxe-clarinet alternating.

Mr. Schoonmaker has played twice during the fall at Stone Ridge and the reception by the dancers of his music and their request to the committee has prompted the committee to engage him for the new dance series.

ROSS K. OSTERHOUDT, chairman of the dance committee, extends his appreciation to all who have attended the dances during the last three years and on behalf of the Grange, he invites all to join in the new series.

Refreshments will be available. The dance committee consists of Mr. Osterhoudt, Mrs. Ernest Smith, Richard Mack, Clifford Sheeley and Daniel Barnhart, master of the Grange.

MONEY AS GOING AWAY PRESENT

A reader explains as follows: "Another young woman and myself are planning to give a going-away party for a friend who is going abroad to further her studies. She can carry only a certain amount of luggage and she has all the things that she will need. We would like to present her with a purse so that she may have extra spending money. We also would like to have the guests send the money beforehand so that we may present her with a check for the full amount at the party. Will you please tell us just how to go about this, and also if it would be proper to ask each guest for a specific amount, or do we leave it up to them to give what they please? Your help in this matter will be very much appreciated."

Only the closest friends of the person going away could possibly be asked to contribute. You call each one on the telephone and tell them exactly what you have written me and ask if they would like to contribute to a purse for Mary, and if they would, to please send it to you beforehand. Leave it up to them whatever they feel they can afford and say that the amounts are not to be made public and that as they are received they will be put directly into the purse which will be given to Mary the night of the party. The names of the donors would be listed on the card enclosed but not the amounts.

Revolving Doors

Dear Mrs. Post: Does a man precede a lady through a revolving door in order to push it for her, or does he push it from the rear? If the revolving door is in motion, does he still precede her in order to control the door, or does he follow?

Answer: In either case he lets the lady go first and pushes and controls the door from the rear.

Does She Help With Coat?

Dear Mrs. Post: I believe it is considered bad form for a girl to help a man on with his coat. If this is true, is it also bad form for a girl to help another woman on with her coat?

Answer: A girl does not help a man on with his coat unless he is an invalid or otherwise enfeebled. She does, however, help a woman on with her's if this can be done easily.

When should a gentleman lift his hat or remove it? Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail. Her leaflet E-15, "Manners in Public," answers the above and many other questions on manners in public. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to Dept. EP, c/o The Freeman, P. O. Art's Mountaineers To Play for Dances, Stone Ridge Grange

The Stone Ridge Grange has announced that a new series of dances will begin Saturday at 9 p. m. Music will be furnished by Art's Mountaineers of Poughkeepsie for square and round dancing.

The dances at Stone Ridge had been held weekly since early 1952 until December. Effective this week the dances will be held every other Saturday.

THE MUSIC of Art's Mountaineers is under the direction of Arthur Schoonmaker of Poughkeepsie. He and his orchestra have been playing for over five years on alternating Saturdays at the Upton Lake Grange in Dutchess county. His orchestra consists of five musicians on piano, drums, banjo, base and saxe-clarinet alternating.

Mr. Schoonmaker has played twice during the fall at Stone Ridge and the reception by the dancers of his music and their request to the committee has prompted the committee to engage him for the new dance series.

ROSS K. OSTERHOUDT, chairman of the dance committee, extends his appreciation to all who have attended the dances during the last three years and on behalf of the Grange, he invites all to join in the new series.

Refreshments will be available. The dance committee consists of Mr. Osterhoudt, Mrs. Ernest Smith, Richard Mack, Clifford Sheeley and Daniel Barnhart, master of the Grange.

MONEY AS GOING AWAY PRESENT

A reader explains as follows: "Another young woman and myself are planning to give a going-away party for a friend who is going abroad to further her studies. She can carry only a certain amount of luggage and she has all the things that she will need. We would like to present her with a purse so that she may have extra spending money. We also would like to have the guests send the money beforehand so that we may present her with a check for the full amount at the party. Will you please tell us just how to go about this, and also if it would be proper to ask each guest for a specific amount, or do we leave it up to them to give what they please? Your help in this matter will be very much appreciated."

Only the closest friends of the person going away could possibly be asked to contribute. You call each one on the telephone and tell them exactly what you have written me and ask if they would like to contribute to a purse for Mary, and if they would, to please send it to you beforehand. Leave it up to them whatever they feel they can afford and say that the amounts are not to be made public and that as they are received they will be put directly into the purse which will be given to Mary the night of the party. The names of the donors would be listed on the card enclosed but not the amounts.

Revolving Doors

Dear Mrs. Post: Does a man precede a lady through a revolving door in order to push it for her, or does he push it from the rear? If the revolving door is in motion, does he still precede her in order to control the door, or does he follow?

Answer: In either case he lets the lady go first and pushes and controls the door from the rear.

Does She Help With Coat?

Dear Mrs. Post: I believe it is considered bad form for a girl to help a man on with his coat. If this is true, is it also bad form for a girl to help another woman on with her coat?

Answer: A girl does not help a man on with his coat unless he is an invalid or otherwise enfeebled. She does, however, help a woman on with her's if this can be done easily.

Eastman Graduates Will Give Recital At St. James Church

Donald Jensen and his wife, Wilma Hoyle Jensen will present a voice and organ recital at the St. James Methodist Church, Pearl and Fair streets, Sunday, Feb. 13, at 7:30 p. m.

Mrs. Jensen, a former student of Catherine Crozier Gleason, has a master of music degree from the Eastman School of Music in Rochester. While at Eastman, she received the Performers Certificate and was chosen to play Dr. Howard Hanson's Concerto for Organ, Strings and Harp with the Eastman Rochester Orchestra, Dr. Hanson conducting. Mrs. Jensen has given many recitals throughout the country.

Mr. Jensen also holds a master of music degree from the Eastman School of Music. He has sung in many Eastman Opera productions and in a concert version of Rigoletto with the Rochester Philharmonic. This summer he returned to Rochester to sing in their Opera Under the Stars productions.

Last winter, he was the bass soloist with the Vassar and Princeton choirs in the Stravinsky Mass. Mr. Jensen is presently serving duty with the army and is the vocal soloist with the United States Military Academy Band at West point.

The public is invited.

Hercules Credit Union to Meet

Hercules Employes New York Federal Credit Union will hold its first annual meeting Saturday at 3 p. m., in the YMCA Auditorium, Broadway and Pine Grove avenue, it was announced today by Frederick J. Scott, president of the organization, which was granted its federal charter on November 1, 1954.

The objective of the credit union is to provide a ready means for employes of the Port Ewen plant to save, and also to provide them with quick, low-interest loans when they need them, Scott said.

The credit union is operated independent of the company, which however, furnishes office space and makes authorized payroll deductions. More than 400 employes of Hercules are members of the organization, the president said.

Directors are F. J. Scott, Richard Fay, Clarence Herdman, and G. Mustaparta. Serving on the loans committee are John Bach, Harriet Light and Donald Decker. Auditors are H. W. Wiggins and Leo Lynch.

Electrol Holds

tive vice president, and Edgar Roesch, factory manager.

The plant recently announced a layoff of more than 100 workers, due largely to a tightening of competition in the field, resulting in cuts in orders.

The meeting, and others planned for the future, the spokesman said, aims at "knitting the organization in closer cooperation." Different type programs will be arranged for other similar gatherings in the future.

Tax Bill . . .

averaged 19.2 percent of 1954, as compared with 18.8 per cent in 1943 and 18.4 per cent in 1952. The figures indicate a "serious problem" in local taxation, the league says, because "with an average of 19.2 per cent of the tax base exempt non exempt property is forced to bear the costs of governmental services not only for itself but for those 'privileged' classes of property as well."

5. Tax collections averaged 96.5 per cent last year, off .2 per cent from 1953. Says the study:

"During the past 10 years, average tax collections have varied less than 1 per cent, compared to the experience of the 1930s, when collections varied sharply with fluctuations in the national economy.

"The contrast reflects both the mildness of economic fluctuations in recent years and the influence of government-insured mortgage systems under which tax payments are made from escrow accounts, built up in advance, providing a cushion against tax delinquencies during short-term recessions."

On the whole, the league interpreted the findings as an indication of present levels of prosperity and more realistic levels of assessment.

Man Admits 18 Burglaries

Poughkeepsie, Jan. 19 (AP) —A 33-year-old Ancramdale man was held as a parole violator today after, authorities said, he admitted staging 18 Dutchess county burglaries in six weeks.

The suspect identified as George D. Schook, was arrested last night in a relative's home in nearby Pine Plains.

Authorities said the burglaries occurred along the so-called Dutchess Turnpike, which runs from Poughkeepsie to Connecticut. The loot ranged from household items up to $400 in cash.

Speaker Stresses Po'keepsie Likes Community Chest

Dean Temple, executive director of the Poughkeepsie Community Chest and general secretary of the YMCA spoke on the Community Chest to the Council of Social Agencies, Tuesday afternoon at the YWCA.

The Community Chest has been in operation 18 years in Poughkeepsie and in evaluating this project, some interesting comparisons were made, had it not existed. There would have been 235 separate and distinct campaigns instead of 19 carried on by the Community Chest in this time. This would have been an average of better than one a month each month of a year. The people of Poughkeepsie appreciate that the Chest has relieved them by combining "many campaigns in one," Temple continued, and is the basic reason for any chest existing.

THE PEOPLE of the community would have been getting less for their dollar, since much more of it would have been consumed in campaign expenses and publicity. That expense is paid only once in the Chest Campaign.

Essential community services, with little dramatic appeal to the public, would have found it extremely difficult to raise necessary funds and might have been forced to discontinue, thus depriving the community of their service.

Industrial and commercial firms have been willing and anxious to have personnel help the chest campaign through the payroll deduction plan since they pledge "Once for all 14 agencies."

TEMPLE ALSO explained that the participating agencies have responsibilities to the Community Chest. Monthly reports are made out and yearly summaries given to the board of directors. Publicity wise, the agencies identify themselves at every opportunity with the Community Chest.

The chest in Poughkeepsie established a new record for percentage of pledges collected, reaching the all time high of 99.9 per cent. Thus, against a national average of 3.3 per cent of pledges not collected, Poughkeepsie has a record of less than 1 per cent uncollected. This fact speaks for the interest and support of the people in the success of their Community Chest.

Mrs. Herbert Shultz conducted the regular business meeting in the absence of the president, Adrian Kaplan.

POLIO VICTIMS THINK OF OTHERS—Mrs. Ruth Ford of this city and Rudy Frank, Shandaken youngster, who has been chosen New York Poster Boy for the March of Dimes, are among the most active workers in this year's drive to fight infantile paralysis. Mrs. Ford is publicity chairman, taking care of press, TV and radio information for the entire county. She attends all meetings. Little Rudy, who has to be carried is making public appearances despite his handicap, and always wears a winning smile. Both these victims are eager to help others and to make a strong fight to stamp out the disease, which strikes children and adults alike. (Freeman photo).

The people of Poughkeepsie appreciate that the Chest has relieved them by combining "many campaigns in one," Temple continued, and is the basic reason for any chest existing.

THE PEOPLE of the community would have been getting less for their dollar, since much more of it would have been consumed in campaign expenses and publicity. That expense is paid only once in the Chest Campaign.

Essential community services, with little dramatic appeal to the public, would have found it extremely difficult to raise necessary funds and might have been forced to discontinue, thus depriving the community of their service.

Industrial and commercial firms have been willing and anxious to have personnel help the chest campaign through the payroll deduction plan since they pledge "Once for all 14 agencies."

TEMPLE ALSO explained that the participating agencies have responsibilities to the Community Chest. Monthly reports are made out and yearly summaries given to the board of directors. Publicity wise, the agencies identify themselves at every opportunity with the Community Chest.

The chest in Poughkeepsie established a new record for percentage of pledges collected, reaching the all time high of 99.9 per cent. Thus, against a national average of 3.3 per cent of pledges not collected, Poughkeepsie has a record of less than 1 per cent uncollected. This fact speaks for the interest and support of the people in the succcess of their Community Chest.

Mrs. Herbert Shultz conducted the regular business meeting in the absence of the president, Adrian Kaplan.

POLIO VICTIMS THINK OF OTHERS—Mrs. Ruth Ford of this city and Rudy Frank, Shandaken youngster, who has been chosen New York Poster Boy for the March of Dimes, are among the most active workers in this year's drive to fight infantile paralysis. Mrs. Ford is publicity chairman, taking care of press, TV and radio information for the entire county. She attends all meetings. Little Rudy, who has to be carried is making public appearances despite his handicap, and always wears a winning smile. Both these victims are eager to help others and to make a strong fight to stamp out the disease, which strikes children and adults alike. (Freeman photo).

Kingston High drubbed Fallsburgh Central's Comets, 85-53, last night at Fallsburgh and elsewhere in the DUSO conference things began to shape up for the final pennant run.

Monticello virtually eliminated Poughkeepsie High from the race, shading the Blues on the bandbox court, 75-74.

Middletown turned back an Ellenville challenge, 53-50, making it all the cozier for the pace setting Goldbacks.

HIGHLIGHT OF Kingston's triumph at Fallsburgh was Marty Kantrowitz's sharpshooting. According to unofficial tally, the KHS tennis wizard hit on 9 out of 10 shots to rack up 20 points. That made him high for the night, with Skip Brodhead hitting 18, Bob Maines 15 and Richie Strong 12.

Coach Kias had a chance to use everybody on the varsity without affecting Kingston's shooting power. The Maroons had quarter totals of 22-21-20-22 for their most consistent performance of the season. Their conference record is now 4-3.

MONTICELLO forged ahead of Poughkeepsie, 48-44 at the end of the third quarter and the Blues never quite caught up in a sensational battle at Poughkeepsie. The teams were tied 33-33 at the half.

Monty Stickles continued his heavy scoring for Poughkeepsie with 31 points. Charlie Johnson had 16 and Bobby Nelson 10. Ronnie Trachtenburgh hooped 25 and Mendy Ringel 18 for the mountaineers.

MICKEY BURKOSKI unloaded 26 points, Harold Kaplan had 17 and Rich Clark 14 in NFA's romp over Port Jervis. Set-shooting Bob Jenkins canned 20 for the Red and Black.

Steve Tompkins led wtih 18 points and Tony Perna hit 12 in Middletown's 53-50 squeaker over Ellenville. Lee Roberts led the Ellies with 16.

Long Platform

Manchester England claims it has the longest single railroad station platform in the world—2,195 feet—although many stations have more than that length of platform, broken into several sections.

East's Rally Defeats West In All-Star

New York, Jan. 19 (AP)—The eastern division of the National Basketball Assn. continues to dominate the league's annual all-star game.

The east and the west came to grips at Madison Square Garden last night where a partisan crowd of 13,148 saw the east win for the fourth time in five meetings 100-91. Bill Sharman of the Boston Celtics was voted the game's outstanding player, the fourth easterner to receive the award since the start of the all-star game in 1951.

It was nip-and-tuck most of the way before the east, sparked by Sharman and his equally talented teammate, Bob Cousy, erupted in the fourth period. A 10-point spurt by Sharman and Cousy's seven points erased a one-point lead early in the last period.

COUSY, WHOSE classy ball-handling and play-making dazzled the spectators, also headed the scoring parade with 20 points. Sharman, hitting consistently with his one-hander, and Syracuse's Dolph Schayes, a tower of strength under the boards, contributed 15 each.

A pair of Minneapolis veterans, Jim Pollard and Verne Mikkelsen, kept the westerners in contention with 17 and 16 points respectively.

The east did a good defensive job on Milwaukee's sharp-shooting rookies, Frank Selvy and Bob Pettit, who are averaging 20.6 points in regular season play. Pettit was limited to eight points and Selvy seven.

Yanks Sign Morgan

New York, Jan. 19 (AP)—The New York Yankees announced today that pitcher Tom Morgan had sent in his signed 1955 contract from his home in El Monte, Calif. He was the 19th Yankee to sign. Morgan, a righthander who served in the army in 1953, had an 11-5 record with the Yankees last season. He pitched 143 innings in 32 games and had an earned run average of 3.34.

Honolulu — Stanley Harrington, 145½, Honolulu, knocked out Joe Gilmer, 144½, Oakland, Calif., 1.

North Carolina Traps State Wolfpack, 84-80

(By The Associated Press)

North Carolina State, rated right behind Kentucky, and Maryland, the latest Atlantic Coast Conference power, took their places alongside virtually every top team in the country today—they have been bitten by the upset bug.

North Carolina whipped State, 84-80, while George Washington, perhaps the strongest team in the Southern Conference, took the measure of Maryland, 75-53, in the two top games on last night's schedule.

And as if that wasn't enough, Yale turned in a double overtime triumph over Dartmout in the Ivy League, 83-79, and Rice whipped Texas Christian, the Southwest Conference favorite 73-63.

NORTH CAROLINA'S victory over the mighty Wolfpack was indeed a stunner. The defeat was only the third for State in 18 games and it sent North Carolina into undisputed possession of first place in the Atlantic Coast Conference.

Further, it was only the second victory for the Tarheels over State in 23 games. Both have been by teams under the tutelage of Frank McGuire, who arrived in Chapel Hill in 1952 after a fine career at St. John's in Brooklyn.

McGuire, used only five men and four of them scored in double figures. The capacity crowd of 10,500 at Raleigh sat on the edge of their seats as State strove to cut a 71-54 deficit. The Wolfpack did trim it to 74-70 with five minutes to go, but from there on, the tiring North Carolina outfit held on doggedly.

STATE'S RONNIE Shavlik hit for 32 points in a losing cause.

George Washington put on a fine defensive exhibition in snapping Maryland's nine-game winning skein. The Terps, ranked sixth in this week's Associated Press poll, stayed close until midway in the second half. But from then on, GW's zone defense stopped them.

Buzz Cieriello was the big man in stopping Maryland. He tied with Corky Devlin for high scoring honors with 24 points, passed the Terps dizzy and grabbed off a flock of rebounds.

Dartmouth's demise at the hands of Yale was about as close as they come. The Indians had a 17-point lead with about 6½ minutes to go, but the Elis kept whittling away until Charlie Ross tied it in the closing seconds.

AGAIN IN THE first overtime, Dartmouth pulled ahead, only to have Ross deadlock it again. Then Dave Hobson took over the main scoring and Yale pulled away. The loss dealt a severe blow to Dartmouth's hopes of winning the league title.

Rice's victory halted an eight-game Texas Christian victory streak. It also was TCU's first conference defeat. Dick O'Neal of TCU, the league scoring leader, was held to 13 points and went out on fouls with 7:49 remaining.

In other major games, Washington State defeated Idaho, 53-39; South Carolina edged Clemson 90-87; William and Mary stopped VMI, 88-68, and Baylor halted Texas A&M, 89-77.

Suppies Beat MRO In Girls' Loop, 17-13

The Suppies had Jean Suppies score 10 points as they defeated the MRO girls, 17-13, in the Recreation girls basketball league last night.

Suppies (17)—Jean Suppies f 10, Marion Goercke f 1, Pat Haber f 6; Pet Perry, Ann Griffin, Rosalie Kreine, Kay Thompson, guards.

MRO (13)—Pat Hayman f 6, Cathy Juhl f 3, Joan Grant f 4; Jane Howard, Shirley Buckman, Vivian Richards, Josephine DeMicco, guards.

Rapp's, Turck's Score Wins in 'A' Contests

Beaky Smith Hits 20 Points

Beaky Smith canned 20 points and Jake Smith had 19 as Newkirk Aces romped over the Yellow Jackets, 54-42, last night in the YMCA "A" League.

In the companion piece, Rapp's Express overpowered Turck's Insurance, 58-48.

SMITH HOOPED ten field goals for his 20 points and sparked a second half drive after the teams tied at 22-22 at the half. John Burris led the Jackets with 14.

Rapp's grabbed an early lead —12-9 at the quarter — and stayed ahead of Turck's all the way.

Phil McCloskey was high scorer with 13 points. Bob Kozlowski and Fred Jackson rimmed 11 each for the winners. George Fisher was top man for Turck's with 15 and Ronnie Marks hit 10.

Frank Bartroff Slams 643 in Central League

Sugar Ray 3-1 Pick Over Jones

Chicago, Jan. 19 (AP)—Ralph "Tiger" Jones should be considered more than just a whistle stop on Sugar Ray Robinson's comeback timetable tonight.

Their 10-rounder at Chicago Stadium will start at 10 p. m., EST, and will be televised nationally (CBS).

Robinson, looking as sleek and as magnificently confident as ever, is a solid 3-1 choice to dispose of the 26-year-old Yonkers, N. Y., "crowder," noted as a rough-and-ready body-punisher who once was a third ranked middleweight contender.

IT WILL BE the second fight in two weeks for Robinson, who at 34 is trying for a comeback that he hopes to climax by regaining the middleweight crown now worn by Bobo Olson.

If he succeeds, he will be the first fighter to come out of retirement and win back his title.

Frank Bartroff, who generally bowls in the shadow of his brother, Ernie, stepped out by himself last night to crack 643 in the Central Rec League.

Bartroff's three games were 226, 185 and 232 and made high best-of night in local ranks. Jim Secreto soloed for 241. Frank Bruno slammed a 611.

Jayvees Cop Sixth Victory

The KHS Jayvees shut out Fallsburgh Central's yearlings, 8-0, in the first period and went on to win, 47-24, on the mountain boards.

It was the sixth victory in eight starts for Coach John Gilligan's cagers, who led 19-3 at the half.

Neither team scored in the first four minutes of the game, but the Maroons picked up eight in the next two minutes and were never seriously challenged.

TONY GRIMALDI and Bob Smith shared scoring honors with nine points each. Larry Johnson hooped seven.

Charlie Fox led Fallsburgh with nine.

Kingston High drubbed Fallsburgh Central's Comets, 85-53, last night at Fallsburgh and elsewhere in the DUSO conference things began to shape up for the final pennant run.

Newburgh Academy made it six straight with an 87-67 crusher over Port Jervis.

Monticello virtually eliminated Poughkeepsie High from the race, shading the Blues on the bandbox court, 75-74.

Middletown turned back an Ellenville challenge, 53-50, making it all the cozier for the pace setting Goldbacks.

HIGHLIGHT OF Kingston's triumph at Fallsburgh was Marty Kantrowitz's sharpshooting. According to unofficial tally, the KHS tennis wizard hit on 9 out of 10 shots to rack up 20 points. That made him high for the night, with Skip Brodhead hitting 18, Bob Maines 15 and Richie Strong 12.

Coach Kias had a chance to use everybody on the varsity without affecting Kingston's shooting power. The Maroons had quarter totals of 22-21-20-22 for their most consistent performance of the season. Their conference record is now 4-3.

MONTICELLO forged ahead of Poughkeepsie, 48-44 at the end of the third quarter and the Blues never quite caught up in a sensational battle at Poughkeepsie. The teams were tied 33-33 at the half.

Monty Stickles continued his heavy scoring for Poughkeepsie with 31 points. Charlie Johnson had 16 and Bobby Nelson 10. Ronnie Trachtenburgh hooped 25 and Mendy Ringel 18 for the mountaineers.

MICKEY BURKOSKI unloaded 26 points, Harold Kaplan had 17 and Rich Clark 14 in NFA's romp over Port Jervis. Set-shooting Bob Jenkins canned 20 for the Red and Black.

Steve Tompkins led wtih 18 points and Tony Perna hit 12 in Middletown's 53-50 squeaker over Ellenville. Lee Roberts led the Ellies with 16.

Long Platform

Manchester England claims it has the longest single railroad station platform in the world—2,195 feet—although many stations have more than that length of platform, broken into several sections.

East's Rally Defeats West In All-Star

New York, Jan. 19 (AP)—The eastern division of the National Basketball Assn. continues to dominate the league's annual all-star game.

The east and the west came to grips at Madison Square Garden last night where a partisan crowd of 13,148 saw the east win for the fourth time in five meetings 100-91. Bill Sharman of the Boston Celtics was voted the game's outstanding player, the fourth easterner to receive the award since the start of the all-star game in 1951.

It was nip-and-tuck most of the way before the east, sparked by Sharman and his equally talented teammate, Bob Cousy, erupted in the fourth period. A 10-point spurt by Sharman and Cousy's seven points erased a one-point lead early in the last period.

COUSY, WHOSE classy ball-handling and play-making dazzled the spectators, also headed the scoring parade with 20 points. Sharman, hitting consistently with his one-hander, and Syracuse's Dolph Schayes, a tower of strength under the boards, contributed 15 each.

A pair of Minneapolis veterans, Jim Pollard and Verne Mikkelsen, kept the westerners in contention with 17 and 16 points respectively.

The east did a good defensive job on Milwaukee's sharp-shooting rookies, Frank Selvy and Bob Pettit, who are averaging 20.6 points in regular season play. Pettit was limited to eight points and Selvy seven.

Yanks Sign Morgan

New York, Jan. 19 (AP)—The New York Yankees announced today that pitcher Tom Morgan had sent in his signed 1955 contract from his home in El Monte, Calif. He was the 19th Yankee to sign. Morgan, a righthander who served in the army in 1953, had an 11-5 record with the Yankees last season. He pitched 143 innings in 32 games and had an earned run average of 3.34.

Honolulu — Stanley Harrington, 145½, Honolulu, knocked out Joe Gilmer, 144½, Oakland, Calif., 1.

Onteora Plans Tripleheader For Polio Fund

North Carolina Traps State Wolfpack, 84-80

(By The Associated Press)

North Carolina State, rated right behind Kentucky, and Maryland, the latest Atlantic Coast Conference power, took their places alongside virtually every top team in the country today—they have been bitten by the upset bug.

North Carolina whipped State, 84-80, while George Washington, perhaps the strongest team in the Southern Conference, took the measure of Maryland, 75-53, in the two top games on last night's schedule.

And as if that wasn't enough, Yale turned in a double overtime triumph over Dartmout in the Ivy League, 83-79, and Rice whipped Texas Christian, the Southwest Conference favorite 73-63.

NORTH CAROLINA'S victory over the mighty Wolfpack was indeed a stunner. The defeat was only the third for State in 18 games and it sent North Carolina into undisputed possession of first place in the Atlantic Coast Conference.

Further, it was only the second victory for the Tarheels over State in 23 games. Both have been by teams under the tutelage of Frank McGuire, who arrived in Chapel Hill in 1952 after a fine career at St. John's in Brooklyn.

McGuire, used only five men and four of them scored in double figures. The capacity crowd of 10,500 at Raleigh sat on the edge of their seats as State strove to cut a 71-54 deficit. The Wolfpack did trim it to 74-70 with five minutes to go, but from there on, the tiring North Carolina outfit held on doggedly.

STATE'S RONNIE Shavlik hit for 32 points in a losing cause.

George Washington put on a fine defensive exhibition in snapping Maryland's nine-game winning skein. The Terps, ranked sixth in this week's Associated Press poll, stayed close until midway in the second half. But from then on, GW's zone defense stopped them.

Buzz Cieriello was the big man in stopping Maryland. He tied with Corky Devlin for high scoring honors with 24 points, passed the Terps dizzy and grabbed off a flock of rebounds.

Dartmouth's demise at the hands of Yale was about as close as they come. The Indians had a 17-point lead with about 6½ minutes to go, but the Elis kept whittling away until Charlie Ross tied it in the closing seconds.

AGAIN IN THE first overtime, Dartmouth pulled ahead, only to have Ross deadlock it again. Then Dave Hobson took over the main scoring and Yale pulled away. The loss dealt a severe blow to Dartmouth's hopes of winning the league title.

Rice's victory halted an eight-game Texas Christian victory streak. It also was TCU's first conference defeat. Dick O'Neal of TCU, the league scoring leader, was held to 13 points and went out on fouls with 7:49 remaining.

In other major games, Washington State defeated Idaho, 53-39; South Carolina edged Clemson 90-87; William and Mary stopped VMI, 88-68, and Baylor halted Texas A&M, 89-77.

Suppies Beat MRO In Girls' Loop, 17-13

The Suppies had Jean Suppies score 10 points as they defeated the MRO girls, 17-13, in the Recreation girls basketball league last night.

Rapp's, Turck's Score Wins in 'A' Contests

Beaky Smith Hits 20 Points

Beaky Smith canned 20 points and Jake Smith had 19 as Newkirk Aces romped over the Yellow Jackets, 54-42, last night in the YMCA "A" League.

In the companion piece, Rapp's Express overpowered Turck's Insurance, 58-48.

SMITH HOOPED ten field goals for his 20 points and sparked a second half drive after the teams tied at 22-22 at the half. John Burris led the Jackets with 14.

Rapp's grabbed an early lead —12-9 at the quarter — and stayed ahead of Turck's all the way.

Phil McCloskey was high scorer with 13 points. Bob Kozlowski and Fred Jackson rimmed 11 each for the winners. George Fisher was top man for Turck's with 15 and Ronnie Marks hit 10.

Sugar Ray 3-1 Pick Over Jones

Chicago, Jan. 19 (AP)—Ralph "Tiger" Jones should be considered more than just a whistle stop on Sugar Ray Robinson's comeback timetable tonight.

Their 10-rounder at Chicago Stadium will start at 10 p. m., EST, and will be televised nationally (CBS).

Robinson, looking as sleek and as magnificently confident as ever, is a solid 3-1 choice to dispose of the 26-year-old Yonkers, N. Y., "crowder," noted as a rough-and-ready body-punisher who once was a third ranked middleweight contender.

IT WILL BE the second fight in two weeks for Robinson, who at 34 is trying for a comeback that he hopes to climax by regaining the middleweight crown now worn by Bobo Olson.

If he succeeds, he will be the first fighter to come out of retirement and win back his title.

Jayvees Cop Sixth Victory

The KHS Jayvees shut out Fallsburgh Central's yearlings, 8-0, in the first period and went on to win, 47-24, on the mountain boards.

It was the sixth victory in eight starts for Coach John Gilligan's cagers, who led 19-3 at the half.

Neither team scored in the first four minutes of the game, but the Maroons picked up eight in the next two minutes and were never seriously challenged.

TONY GRIMALDI and Bob Smith shared scoring honors with nine points each. Larry Johnson hooped seven.

Charlie Fox led Fallsburgh with nine.

Saugerties High boasted a new seasonal scoring record and its sixth straight Ulster County Athletic League victory, after flattening Wallkill Central, 93-45, last night at Wallkill.

On the other side of the standings, Onteora Central succumbed to New Paltz, 75-53, for its seventh straight setback. New Paltz now has a 2-4 record.

COACH BILL STRAUB used 11 players for Saugerties and each got at least one point. The big guns were [illegible] 21 and Joe Martin with 20. Others in double figures were Bert Ledwith with 11 and Andy Talmadge with 12.

Saugerties blew the game apart with a 30-point third period and finished off with a second 30-point finale. The 30 points also represented a new quarter mark for the season.

THREE OF WALLKILL'S starters fouled out and some of the team's scoring aces had bad nights. Ronnie Wager paced the southern Ulsterites with 10 points, while sharpshooting John O'Connor hit only eight and Wilson Edmunds was blanked.

Onteora came up with 21 points in the fourth quarter against New Paltz, but by that time Coach Larry Johnson's cagers had piled up a 62-32 lead.

SPORTS

By Charles J. Tiano
Sports Editor

The 89-team entry for the Kingston Bowling Association's annual championships proves that the bowlers have reverted to common sense and a wholesome approach to the question of tournament entries.

Another sub-par entry would have seriously endangered the future of the championships. It would have been senseless for the KBA to continue operating a half-tournament every year.

Although the entry is the best in three years, the officials of the Kingston Bowling Association cannot afford to relax and must take every precaution to forestall another division within the association. This can best be done by getting all parties concerned to sit down together and put all the cards on the table.

Meanwhile, Tom Orr, the tournament chairman, secretary Irwin J. Thomas, and president Ed Norton deserve credit for the improved showing. And Mannie Colao rates a nod for breaking down resistance among some keglers.

• ABC Suspends 65 Bowlers:

For the first time in history, the American Bowling Congress has revealed the number of bowlers suspended in one year. The total for 1954 was 65.

Ken Hurley, manager of the rules department of the ABC, estimates there are about 16,000,000 bowlers in the United States, 2,000,000 of whom are members of the ABC.

The four major reasons for suspension were:

1. Misappropriation of league funds.

2. Falsification of bowling averages, and holding down a league average to gain an advantage in handicap tournaments.

3. Leaving a team (usually without paying fees) and thus unbalancing a league.

4. Altering equipment to raise scores.

The ABC's suspension system is similar to court action. Bowling associations in various cities first hold hearings for those accused of violating ABC rules.

The city associations then make recommendations to the ABC's four-man legal committee, made up of two attorneys and two laymen, which hand down verdicts.

In case of misappropriation, the committee never starts criminal action, but leaves that to bonding companies. League officers must be bonded under ABC rules.

Hurley says that some bowlers in the 180-190 bracket have been known to throw sloppy league games to bring their published averages around 155 or so. In other leagues, high average keglers quit cold or throw gutter balls when a game is out of the wood in handicap leagues. Fortunately, the ABC has cleared most of these sharpies out of the game.

"Suspensions encourage sportsmanship," the ABC says. "Surprisingly, nearly 100 per cent of those suspended ask to be reinstated."

• Jake Chichelsky's Corner:

It didn't take Charlie Gildersleeve long to catch on with Jones Dairy upon his discharge from the Navy. . . . He took Dick Howard's place, the latter shifting to Rapp's Express. . . . Randy Kelder has begun his mid-season drive to achieve that fine touch for the KBA tournament. . . . Kelder is always around or near the top in the annual scramble. . . . Tab Frank "Boots" Leskie among the sharpest competitors in bowling. . . . Mitzie Arlensky has moved into the No. 1 spot in Good Neighbor League averages. . . . Scott Vining is good enough to roll in either of the major leagues. . . . Jones Dairy's Women's Classic squad surprised sponsor Ad with a nice Christmas present. . . . We thought it very considerate of Eleanor Singer and her teammates to honor the leading bowling sponsor in town. . . . Whatever happened to Evelyn Gross, the "Blonde Bomber" of yesteryear? Terry Beckert is another of those young women keglers on the way up. George "Putzie" Brown has the Cities Service team rolling in the City Minor where a five-team race could go right to the wire. . . . What's this about Mannie Colao proving on a big hit on TV?

When a bowler arrives late and is "in the building" when the fourth frame is about to start, he is not "present" to bowl. He must be on the runways, with his bowling shoes on, ready to take his turn. Any other interpretation of the tardy rule is strictly a myth.

Remember, Take A Nice Big Divot

St. Louis, Jan. 19 (AP)—The griping, divot-digging golfer found a friend today in of all places—a meeting of the nation's golf turf specialists.

The gripers had a champion in Bob Williams, superintendent of Chicago's Beverly Country Club.

And the divot-diggers had the support of the president of the Golf Course Superintendent's Association of America, Norman C. Johnson of Jacksonville, Fla.

JOHNSON recommended, in fact insisted, a good iron shot couldn't be made without taking a healthy chunk of turf—say about an 18-inch square patch.

Williams, who thinks maybe college psychology ought to be standard equipment of the golf course superintendent along with technical turf knowledge, says a golfer who comes out to play after a tense day at the office is entitled to let off steam.

Richmond, Calif.—Eddie Chavez, 138¼, knocked out Johnny Hart, 135½, Phoenix, 3.

Saugerties High boasted a new seasonal scoring record and its sixth straight Ulster County Athletic League victory, after flattening Wallkill Central, 93-45, last night at Wallkill.

On the other side of the standings, Onteora Central succumbed to New Paltz, 75-53, for its seventh straight setback. New Paltz now has a 2-4 record.

COACH BILL STRAUB used 11 players for Saugerties and each got at least one point. The big guns were [illegible] 21 and Joe Martin with 20. Others in double figures were Bert Ledwith with 11 and Andy Talmadge with 12.

Saugerties blew the game apart with a 30-point third period and finished off with a second 30-point finale. The 30 points also represented a new quarter mark for the season.

THREE OF WALLKILL'S starters fouled out and some of the team's scoring aces had bad nights. Ronnie Wager paced the southern Ulsterites with 10 points, while sharpshooting John O'Connor hit only eight and Wilson Edmunds was blanked.

Onteora came up with 21 points in the fourth quarter against New Paltz, but by that time Coach Larry Johnson's cagers had piled up a 62-32 lead.

SPORTS

By Charles J. Tiano
Sports Editor

The 89-team entry for the Kingston Bowling Association's annual championships proves that the bowlers have reverted to common sense and a wholesome approach to the question of tournament entries.

Another sub-par entry would have seriously endangered the future of the championships. It would have been senseless for the KBA to continue operating a half-tournament every year.

Although the entry is the best in three years, the officials of the Kingston Bowling Association cannot afford to relax and must take every precaution to forestall another division within the association. This can best be done by getting all parties concerned to sit down together and put all the cards on the table.

Meanwhile, Tom Orr, the tournament chairman, secretary Irwin J. Thomas, and president Ed Norton deserve credit for the improved showing. And Mannie Colao rates a nod for breaking down resistance among some keglers.

• ABC Suspends 65 Bowlers:

For the first time in history, the American Bowling Congress has revealed the number of bowlers suspended in one year. The total for 1954 was 65.

Ken Hurley, manager of the rules department of the ABC, estimates there are about 16,000,000 bowlers in the United States, 2,000,000 of whom are members of the ABC.

The four major reasons for suspension were:

1. Misappropriation of league funds.

2. Falsification of bowling averages, and holding down a league average to gain an advantage in handicap tournaments.

3. Leaving a team (usually without paying fees) and thus unbalancing a league.

4. Altering equipment to raise scores.

The ABC's suspension system is similar to court action. Bowling associations in various cities first hold hearings for those accused of violating ABC rules.

The city associations then make recommendations to the ABC's four-man legal committee, made up of two attorneys and two laymen, which hand down verdicts.

In case of misappropriation, the committee never starts criminal action, but leaves that to bonding companies. League officers must be bonded under ABC rules.

Hurley says that some bowlers in the 180-190 bracket have been known to throw sloppy league games to bring their published averages around 155 or so. In other leagues, high average keglers quit cold or throw gutter balls when a game is out of the wood in handicap leagues. Fortunately, the ABC has cleared most of these sharpies out of the game.

"Suspensions encourage sportsmanship," the ABC says. "Surprisingly, nearly 100 per cent of those suspended ask to be reinstated."

• Jake Chichelsky's Corner:

It didn't take Charlie Gildersleeve long to catch on with Jones Dairy upon his discharge from the Navy. . . . He took Dick Howard's place, the latter shifting to Rapp's Express. . . . Randy Kelder has begun his mid-season drive to achieve that fine touch for the KBA tournament. . . . Kelder is always around or near the top in the annual scramble. . . . Tab Frank "Boots" Leskie among the sharpest competitors in bowling. . . . Mitzie Arlensky has moved into the No. 1 spot in Good Neighbor League averages. . . . Scott Vining is good enough to roll in either of the major leagues. . . . Jones Dairy's Women's Classic squad surprised sponsor Ad with a nice Christmas present. . . . We thought it very considerate of Eleanor Singer and her teammates to honor the leading bowling sponsor in town. . . . Whatever happened to Evelyn Gross, the "Blonde Bomber" of yesteryear? George "Putzie" Brown has the Cities Service team rolling in the City Minor where a five-team race could go right to the wire. . . . What's this about Mannie Colao proving on a big hit on TV?

When a bowler arrives late and is "in the building" when the fourth frame is about to start, he is not "present" to bowl. He must be on the runways, with his bowling shoes on, ready to take his turn. Any other interpretation of the tardy rule is strictly a myth.

Harriman . . .

Wicks, former Senate majority leader and still a powerful senator.

Ed. NOTE—WICKS IN OPPOSING any means of legalizing bingo other than a constitutional amendment, said the fact that the Legislature permitted bookmaking at racetracks in 1934—a precedent cited by Democrats in support of their bingo bill—should not be applied to the bingo situation. He said the Legislature confined bookmaking within an enclosure where policing would be simple. The bingo proposals would not allow any policing, he said.)

THE BATTLE OVER BINGO warmed up as the battle of the budget died down for the moment.

Republican sources said yesterday that Harriman's advisers were split on whether he should veto bills to continue present tax rates on incomes and unincorporated business earnings.

The GOP majorities are backing measures to retain personal income taxes at 90 per cent of the full legal rate and the unincorporated business levy at 75 per cent.

If Harriman were to veto the measures, the full rates would become effective in 1955 for payments on 1954 earnings. That would add approximately $46,700,000 to the state's coffers in a year when the administration is hard pressed for revenue.

WALTER J. MAHONEY, majority leader of the Senate, told a reporter yesterday, "the Senate will pass the two tax bills next Monday or Tuesday." It was not certain that the Assembly would act with equal speed.

Democratic sources, however, voiced doubt that the measures would be adopted by the GOP majorities before Harriman delivered his budget message to the lawmakers on Feb. 1.

After passage, Harriman would have 10 days, not counting Sundays, to sign or veto the bills. Otherwise they would become law without his signature. In the meantime the governor would have time to deliver his budget message.

The governor kept his own counsel on what he would do if the measures were passed. His office said there was no indication of whether he would sign them or veto them.

HOTEL SOLD—Florida man takes Elizabethtown property.

Davenport Sells Hotel Property

Guy Davenport of Ellenville and Elizabethtown has announced the sale of Hotel Windsor at Elizabethtown to Frank Mebane, Jr., vice president and general manager of the Mount Plymouth Hotel and Country Club at Sorrento, Fla.

Davenport has owned and operated the Windsor for 47 years.

The sale was negotiated through the office of Ralph Deininger of New York city and Daytona Beach, Fla. The hotel is located at the intersection of Routes 9 and 9N at Elizabethtown, Essex county. It does not include Mr. and Mrs. Davenport's summer residence, Davenport Cottage, and their frontage and garden acreage along both sides of Route 9N. C. E. Fitzgerald of McPhillips, Fitzgerald and McCarthy, Glens Falls, represented Davenport, and Voile Williams, Jr., of Sanford, Fla., represented Mebane.

GUY DAVENPORT

DAVENPORT BEGAN his career in hotel work as bellboy at the Lake Mohonk Mountain House. In 1923 he became associated with Canadian Pacific Railway Hotels and in 1927 opened and managed the new Banff Springs Hotel. He went to Honolulu in 1930 as assistant to the general manager of the Royal Hawaiian Hotel, and later managed the Moana and Seaside Hotels in Honolulu for seven years. He purchased the Windsor Hotel in 1938, and the Fort William Henry Hotel at Lake George in 1939, selling the latter to the Fort William Henry Corporation in January, 1952.

Action of Reds

draw him out on whether he will seek re-election. The attempt, in a light vein, was tied to the request for an appraisal of his first two years in office, plus a forecast of what the next two or, as the reporter put it, the next six, might bring.

Referring to the latter part of the inquiry, the President laughed and said that sounded like a loaded question.

SECURITY—As an aftermath of the controversial Wolf Ladejinsky case, the President said, he has issued instructions that hereafter when two government departments reach a conflicting conclusion as to whether a man is a security risk, there must be an attempt to coordinate the different views.

Ladejinsky, Russian-born but a naturalized American, was ousted by Secretary of Agriculture Benson on technical and security grounds from his post as agricultural attache in Tokyo. Ladejinsky previously had received security clearance from the State Department.

Foreign Operations Administrator Harold E. Stassen later gave Ladejinsky full clearance and a new job in Communist-threatened Viet Nam.

FEDERAL BUDGET—Told by a newsman that some congressmen are complaining they can't understand the administration's $62,480,000,000 new budget, the President replied that it is the job of the appropriate congressional committee and administration officials who testify before those groups to work out an understanding of the budget. He said administration officials will do everything possible to set members of Congress straight regarding it.

As for Democratic criticism that his administration has again failed to balance the budget, the President said he wanted to read a bit from a speech he made Oct. 2, 1952 in Peoria, Ill., during the presidential campaign.

AT THAT TIME, Eisenhower said his goal was to cut federal spending from about 80 billion dollars a year to something in the neighborhood of 60 billion dollars by the end of four years.

A paragraph from the text of that speech said:

"My goal, assuming that the cold war gets no worse, is to cut federal spending to something like 60 billion dollars within four years. Such a cut would eliminate the deficit in the budget and would make way for substantial tax reduction."

A big tax reduction went into effect last year.

NOTING THAT the new budget calls for spending $62,408,000,000, the President remarked that under the circumstances—at the end of his first two years of office—he can almost claim to be a prophet.

Eisenhower said that spending still needs to be whittled more than two billion dollars to achieve his goal.

Foreign trade — A reporter called Eisenhower's attention to Secretary of Defense Wilson's statement yesterday favoring increased trade with Communist countries in non strategic goods. Then the reporter asked whether Wilson's position had the President's "considered approval." Eisenhower replied that it certainly couldn't be said to bear his considered approval although the matter long has been under study by administration officials.

PLANS FOR SOLICITING local firms in the March of Dimes to fight infantile paralysis are discussed by Albert M. Roosa (right), of Prudential Life Insurance Co., chairman of the industrial committee, and one of his vice chairmen, David C. Cates, personnel manager of Sprague Electric Co. The other vice chairman is John J. Strittar, personnel manager at Electrol Incorporated. (Freeman photo)

20-foot snowdrifts and fallen telephone lines.

Another blizzard interrupted rescue operations late yesterday.

Freezing weather early today put some check on flooding in the Mosel and Rhine rivers of western Germany.

At Mehlem, near Bonn, the U. S. High Commission was flooded out of its headquarters, where 2,000 Germans and 450 Americans are employed.

IN FRANCE, the flooding Garonne neared the danger mark and there was fear that the dam at Toury, on the Eure river, would burst. More than 3,700 persons were evacuated from low-lying areas in the Rhone valley.

Winds ranging up to 60 miles an hour lashed Italy's Ligurian coast, smashing summer cottages, uprooting trees and driving huge waves across coastal roads. Mountainous waves continued to last the sea.

Heavy snow blocked highways in south Sweden. More snow, high winds and freezing temperatures were predicted for Denmark, where road and railway traffic has been hard hit by falls ranging up to 20 inches in depth.

The winter storms also hit east of the iron curtain.

Harriman . . .

Wicks, former Senate majority leader and still a powerful senator.

Ed. NOTE—WICKS IN OPPOSING any means of legalizing bingo other than a constitutional amendment, said the fact that the Legislature permitted bookmaking at racetracks in 1934—a precedent cited by Democrats in support of their bingo bill—should not be applied to the bingo situation. He said the Legislature confined bookmaking within an enclosure where policing would be simple. The bingo proposals would not allow any policing, he said.)

THE BATTLE OVER BINGO warmed up as the battle of the budget died down for the moment.

Republican sources said yesterday that Harriman's advisers were split on whether he should veto bills to continue present tax rates on incomes and unincorporated business earnings.

The GOP majorities are backing measures to retain personal income taxes at 90 per cent of the full legal rate and the unincorporated business levy at 75 per cent.

If Harriman were to veto the measures, the full rates would become effective in 1955 for payments on 1954 earnings. That would add approximately $46,700,000 to the state's coffers in a year when the administration is hard pressed for revenue.

WALTER J. MAHONEY, majority leader of the Senate, told a reporter yesterday, "the Senate will pass the two tax bills next Monday or Tuesday." It was not certain that the Assembly would act with equal speed.

Democratic sources, however, voiced doubt that the measures would be adopted by the GOP majorities before Harriman delivered his budget message to the lawmakers on Feb. 1.

After passage, Harriman would have 10 days, not counting Sundays, to sign or veto the bills. Otherwise they would become law without his signature. In the meantime the governor would have time to deliver his budget message.

The governor kept his own counsel on what he would do if the measures were passed. His office said there was no indication of whether he would sign them or veto them.

HOTEL SOLD—Florida man takes Elizabethtown property.

Davenport Sells Hotel Property

Guy Davenport of Ellenville and Elizabethtown has announced the sale of Hotel Windsor at Elizabethtown to Frank Mebane, Jr., vice president and general manager of the Mount Plymouth Hotel and Country Club at Sorrento, Fla.

Davenport has owned and operated the Windsor for 47 years.

The sale was negotiated through the office of Ralph Deininger of New York city and Daytona Beach, Fla. The hotel is located at the intersection of Routes 9 and 9N at Elizabethtown, Essex county. It does not include Mr. and Mrs. Davenport's summer residence, Davenport Cottage, and their frontage and garden acreage along both sides of Route 9N. C. E. Fitzgerald of McPhillips, Fitzgerald and McCarthy, Glens Falls, represented Davenport, and Voile Williams, Jr., of Sanford, Fla., represented Mebane.

GUY DAVENPORT

DAVENPORT BEGAN his career in hotel work as bellboy at the Lake Mohonk Mountain House. In 1923 he became associated with Canadian Pacific Railway Hotels and in 1927 opened and managed the new Banff Springs Hotel. He went to Honolulu in 1930 as assistant to the general manager of the Royal Hawaiian Hotel, and later managed the Moana and Seaside Hotels in Honolulu for seven years. He purchased the Windsor Hotel in 1938, and the Fort William Henry Hotel at Lake George in 1939, selling the latter to the Fort William Henry Corporation in January, 1952.

Action of Reds

draw him out on whether he will seek re-election. The attempt, in a light vein, was tied to the request for an appraisal of his first two years in office, plus a forecast of what the next two or, as the reporter put it, the next six, might bring.

Referring to the latter part of the inquiry, the President laughed and said that sounded like a loaded question.

SECURITY—As an aftermath of the controversial Wolf Ladejinsky case, the President said, he has issued instructions that hereafter when two government departments reach a conflicting conclusion as to whether a man is a security risk, there must be an attempt to coordinate the different views.

Ladejinsky, Russian-born but a naturalized American, was ousted by Secretary of Agriculture Benson on technical and security grounds from his post as agricultural attache in Tokyo. Ladejinsky previously had received security clearance from the State Department.

Foreign Operations Administrator Harold E. Stassen later gave Ladejinsky full clearance and a new job in Communist-threatened Viet Nam.

FEDERAL BUDGET—Told by a newsman that some congressmen are complaining they can't understand the administration's $62,480,000,000 new budget, the President replied that it is the job of the appropriate congressional committee and administration officials who testify before those groups to work out an understanding of the budget. He said administration officials will do everything possible to set members of Congress straight regarding it.

As for Democratic criticism that his administration has again failed to balance the budget, the President said he wanted to read a bit from a speech he made Oct. 2, 1952 in Peoria, Ill., during the presidential campaign.

AT THAT TIME, Eisenhower said his goal was to cut federal spending from about 80 billion dollars a year to something in the neighborhood of 60 billion dollars by the end of four years.

A paragraph from the text of that speech said:

"My goal, assuming that the cold war gets no worse, is to cut federal spending to something like 60 billion dollars within four years. Such a cut would eliminate the deficit in the budget and would make way for substantial tax reduction."

A big tax reduction went into effect last year.

NOTING THAT the new budget calls for spending $62,408,000,000, the President remarked that under the circumstances—at the end of his first two years of office—he can almost claim to be a prophet.

Eisenhower said that spending still needs to be whittled more than two billion dollars to achieve his goal.

Foreign trade — A reporter called Eisenhower's attention to Secretary of Defense Wilson's statement yesterday favoring increased trade with Communist countries in non strategic goods. Then the reporter asked whether Wilson's position had the President's "considered approval." Eisenhower replied that it certainly couldn't be said to bear his considered approval although the matter long has been under study by administration officials.

NEW RAINBOW LODGE at Mt. Tremper, badly damaged by fire less than a year ago, is given a close check by John Pike, Woodstock artist who designed the new building, and Dick Kahil, owner. (Freeman photo)

WOODSTOCK NEWS

By RICHARD E. THIBAUT, Jr.

Artist Assists Restoration of Rainbow Lodge

Woodstock, Jan. 19—Less than a year ago a disastrous fire routed Blanche and Dick Kahil and their three young sons a few moments before their home and business, the Rainbow Lodge of Mt. Tremper, collapsed in ruins. The fire was discovered shortly before 1 a. m. March 8, and by dawn there was little remaining of the main building but the charred timbers of the four walls and the back end of the kitchen. In exactly a month's time, April 9, to be exact a handsome new lodge one-story high, still in the rough to be sure, opened to accommodate 27 guests, visiting fishermen, who had previously made reservations at the old lodge for the opening of the fishing season. A good share of the feat is owing to Woodstock artist John Pike who designed the new building from the floor plan made by Dick Kahil. During the past year Pike has been putting the finishing touches on the lodge and the recently completed guest house.

DURING THE WINTER of 1953-54, Blanche and Dick began extensive renovations on the two-story, white frame lodge and the first week in March had almost completed the work in readiness for the opening of the fishing season. The upstairs was freshly painted and papered and he had just finished painting the lounge and had stripped the dining room wall of old paper—including several layers. Saturday morning they went to Kingston to order cedar for the wall panelling, to be delivered on Monday. Late Sunday night Dick had just finished addressing letters to his clients announcing opening of trout season. At 1 a. m., Blanche awoke in their upstairs bedroom saying: "What do I smell?"

Dick, half asleep dashed to the bedroom of Rickey, aged 8, their oldest boy, and discovered the wall and ceiling illuminated with a bright pink glow as well as a light apparent from the outside through the window. He routed Rickey and the two younger boys, Arthur 4, and Edward 2, and as he ran down the hallway he heard a terrific roar. "I knew we were on fire!" At that moment a neighbor, George Mayhew, drove in the drive way sounding a warning with his horn.

"George came in and stayed right with me. He helped with the children while I got back upstairs and dressed, grabbed some of the children's clothes. Even then I had no idea how bad it was until I dumped some things in the circle garden in front of the house and turned to look back and saw the entire roof in flames."

He tried to get in again but the wind had shifted bringing smoke and flames down the stairway. Mayhew helped him carry out the desk containing the letters he'd finisheed that night, his file cabinet. They made four trips back and started back again when Mayhew grabbed him back just before the roof and second story fell in. All this happened within about 10 minutes of their first awakening and all of their clothes and possessions were gone.

"But our neighbors were wonderful," Dick recalls, "by noon the next day we had more clothing than we ever had before in our lives." Blanche took the children to Mt. Pleasant to the home of Kathleen Riseley, who assists her with the cooking of the meals at the lodge, and Dick stayed wtih Reginald Every for a few weeks in Mt. Tremper until the lodge was rebuilt.

"THE FIRE COMPANIES arrived almost immediately, Phoenicia, Shandaken, Wittenberg, Olive Bridge, and men from Mt. Tremper, and how those men worked!" The woods on the mountain in back started to burn as well as the grass around the guest house.

The week that followed was a dreary one for the Kahil's, the problem of cleaning up, decisions to be made and the trout season only a month away. On the Sunday following the fire, a grey sleeting rain was falling, but before 8:30 a. m., 35 friends and neighbors arrived on the scene. At the end of the day the building was stripped to the foundation, cleared of wood, embers and ashes and ready for the builder, Hartman Dutcher of Shandaken, to start work.

It was through Woodstocker, Jerry Jerominek, who did the road sign adorned with a rainbow trout, which is the trademark of the lodge, that Dick Kahil met John Pike who took his floor plan and made a watercolor sketch of the present building, as well as the new guest house. Since taking over, Kahil says, Pike turns up periodically with something new to enhance the lodge. There is the handsome copper hood over the fireplace which conceals the heatilator and the magnificent hammered copper fish which is outlined with backlighting against the pine panelling above the mantel of the fireplace. The eye of the copper trout is a lucky silver dollar which Dick had kept in his bureau drawer for years and was found by one of the men when cleaning up the ruins.

Hanging over the two decorative carriage seats which flank the fireplace is an apparently wrought iron chandelier. John constructed it of plywood, four kerosene lamps, now wired, and a piece of the universal of an old car, now the hub of the fixture. The four shining red lampshades were made from roof flashing left over by the builders. The resulting assembly of parts looks like a treasured antique. Last week Pike completed setting for a Franklin stove fireplace in the new guest house where the Kahil family live during the winter months. Over the mantel is an original Pike carving. The new guest house contains the small lounge, six bedrooms each with private bath and a fold away kitchen which the family use when in residence, planned by Dick himself. For addiitonal space there is the old 10 bedroom annex and the cottage where the family stays during the summer months.

Pike also devised the interesting variety of pine panelled dados in the lodge, worked out the color scheme of pale grey walls and his virtual trademark of blue-green doors.

It all adds up to a dream come true for attractive, brunette Blanche, and tall, good looking Dick who is blessed with the easy genial disposition of the good host. They met during the war while she was serving in the Navy as a wave, and he in the Marines, at navigation school in Hollywood, Fla. He participated in the now famous, Sunday morning, April 1, initial landing at Okinawa. They had been married in 1944 and he remembers that she outranked him for a matter of six weeks when he was a second lieutenant and she was promoted to Lt. (j.g.), a navigation instructor. At Okinawa he was getting mail from a Lt. (j.g.) and as a result took an awful ride from his Marine Corps buddies.

AFTER THEIR discharge from the service he worked for a produce company, simply because he wanted to do something out of doors. Born in New York, he lived for a few years in Salt Lake City, his mother's home, but grew up in Ridgefield, N. J., where he attended Englewood High School. The produce companies in Stunton, Va., and Elkins, W. Va., where he managed a wholesale produce house offered country living, but he wanted to get into the outdoor game. Fishing and hunting were his hobbies and he somehow wanted to work them into his business. He had been a representative to the State of the Bergen County (N. J.) Federation of Sportsmen's Clubs, and through those activities knew many people in the press, the tackle and other related businesses.

"We'd been all through this section," Dick said, "and we loved it, but we just couldn't find a place. One day we found ourselves in Phoenicia with Artie, then the baby crying and Rickey also demanding food. We stopped at Elmer's Diner and noticed the Newman real estate sign. In her files was an old, yellowed picture postcard of the Intermountain House."

The place was boarded up for the winter, but to the young couple it had great appeal and it looked immaculate, from the outside. They arranged to come back again, obtained the keys and found the place in perfect condtiion. "We first looked at it in February and closed the agreement wtih the owner in March. We moved in just in time to behold the floods of the spring of 1951, 10 days before the opening of the trout season. For two years we took it on the chin, trying to lure fishermen to the streams which remained muddy and unfishable. Dick, who also does demonstrations of flycasting at sportsmen's shows and for other organizations, keeps his clientele well informed on stream conditions and aspects of the woods during the hunting season. He's much too busy, he laughs ruefully, to hunt or fish during the seasons himself.

Howard to Return As Local Director

Woodstock, Jan. 19—A. L. Sainer, co-owner of the Woodstock Playhouse, announced today that Michael Howard, who directed the productions of the playhouse during the last season and a half, will be back for the 1955 season in his capacity as director. Since the close of last season, Howard directed The Troublemakers now being shown before good audiences at the President Theater in New York. The critics made special note of Howard's fine direction of the play.

At the present time, Howard is conducting dramatic lessons at The School of Dramatic Arts in New York. As soon as these duties are over, he will devote himself to the casting of the players for the 1955 season.

May Open Branch

Woodstock, Jan. 19—It is rumored in the village that Warren Hutty will open a branch of his real estate and insurance office in Mt. Marion. It also is rumored that Thomas Robinson of this village will be connected with the firm.

Voters to Decide $65,000 Issue on School Feb. 11th

Woodstock, Jan. 19—Through a statement released today, the Board of Trustees of Woodstock Common School District No. 2 announced that Feb. 11 at 7:30 p. m. had been selected as the time, and the Woodstock School as the place, at which the special meeting of the voters of the school district would be held for the purpose of voting on the proposed $65,000 bond issue to finance the building of the new addition to the school. The board also announced that the voting would be by ballot and that the polls would be open between 8 p. m. and 10 p. m. for the purpose of voting on the referendum. The statement follows:

"The special meeting of the voters of Woodstock Common School District No. 2 for the purpose of voting on a proposed $65,000 bond issue to finance the construction of a new addition to the school will be held at the schoolhouse on Friday night, Feb. 11, 1955, beginning at 7:30 p. m. The voting will be by ballot and the polls will be open for the purpose of voting on the referendum between the hours of 8 p. m. and 10 p. m.

"Notice of the meeting will be published in the local papers for four successive weeks and posted in six public places in the district over the same period of time. While much more notice of the meeting is being given than is required by law, the board felt that it was desirable to give more publicity to the meeting than is required by law. By doing more than the bare legal minimum, the board felt that it could thus be assured that everyone would be fully appraised of the meeting and its purpose."

By RICHARD E. THIBAUT, Jr.

Artist Assists Restoration of Rainbow Lodge

Woodstock, Jan. 19—Less than a year ago a disastrous fire routed Blanche and Dick Kahil and their three young sons a few moments before their home and business, the Rainbow Lodge of Mt. Tremper, collapsed in ruins. The fire was discovered shortly before 1 a. m. March 8, and by dawn there was little remaining of the main building but the charred timbers of the four walls and the back end of the kitchen. In exactly a month's time, April 9, to be exact a handsome new lodge one-story high, still in the rough to be sure, opened to accommodate 27 guests, visiting fishermen, who had previously made reservations at the old lodge for the opening of the fishing season. A good share of the feat is owing to Woodstock artist John Pike who designed the new building from the floor plan made by Dick Kahil. During the past year Pike has been putting the finishing touches on the lodge and the recently completed guest house.

DURING THE WINTER of 1953-54, Blanche and Dick began extensive renovations on the two-story, white frame lodge and the first week in March had almost completed the work in readiness for the opening of the fishing season. The board also announced that the voting would be by ballot and that the polls would be open between 8 p. m. and 10 p. m. for the purpose of voting on the referendum. The statement follows:

"The special meeting of the voters of Woodstock Common School District No. 2 for the purpose of voting on a proposed $65,000 bond issue to finance the construction of a new addition to the school will be held at the schoolhouse on Friday night, Feb. 11, 1955, beginning at 7:30 p. m. The voting will be by ballot and the polls will be open for the purpose of voting on the referendum between the hours of 8 p. m. and 10 p. m.

"Notice of the meeting will be published in the local papers for four successive weeks and posted in six public places in the district over the same period of time. While much more notice of the meeting is being given than is required by law, the board felt that it was desirable to give more publicity to the meeting than is required by law. By doing more than the bare legal minimum, the board felt that it could thus be assured that everyone would be fully appraised of the meeting and its purpose."

refused to talk for publication, but there was no mistaking their unfavorable reaction.

The China News, an independent newspaper with close contacts in high places, declared "Free China will fight to the very end against such a presumptuous idea as a cease fire in any form or under any circumstances."

There is a general impression here,too, that Dulles in effect was telling the Communists they needn't worry about the U. S. 7th fleet intervening if Chiang Kai-shek's island outposts are attacked.

Dulles told a Washington press conference the Tachens were of marginal importance, at best, in the defense of Formosa. The United States is committed to the defense of Formosa and of the Pescadores.

England's Puritan parliament of 1644 outlawed Christmas celebrations.

Condition Is Good

Mrs. Robert E. Teetsel, 34 Wall street, who was injured in an automobile accident early Saturday morning, was reported in "good" condition at Kingston Hospital this morning. Mrs. Teetsel suffered painful injuries when her 1953 Rambler was in collision with a 1954 sedan operated by Jeanne Allen, 17, of 28 West Chestnut street, at the intersection of Fair and St. James streets.
